LOCAL EVENTS OUT A.P.

After an illness of about a year Albert Schoppe, of the same name, died on Monday morning at the age of fifty-five years. He has long been a resident of this place and for many years found employment at Packerton.

Passing through Packerton one day recently we were somewhat surprised to notice the wonderful transformation in the general appearance of the old Weiss & Andrew store stand. The building has been remodeled inside and out during the past year and now presents a much improved appearance.

Housekeepers should buy nothing from the peddlers and fakirs who are constantly ringing door bells, or sticking circulars under the door threatening to call some other day. There is nothing needed in the family which cannot be bought quite as cheap and much more reliable from the regular dealers, who are our fellow citizens and who pay taxes to help support the town.

At the annual meeting of the directors of the Lehighton Cemetery Association held in the office of Heydt & Seabolt on Saturday evening the following new directors were elected for the ensuing year: Fred Brinkman, Theodore Kemmer, Wm. Miller, and John Seabolt, Jr. The directors will meet on Saturday evening and elect permanent president, secretary and treasurer.

If you have sale bills printed at this office, you will not only save 10 to 20 per cent, on the cost of the same, but also secure a notice of the time and place of sale in our "Public Sale Register." The benefit of this is incalculable because the Advertiser has the largest circulation of any paper in the county. Don't forget this!

A letter received from our friend Thos. Green, formerly foreman in the Lehigh Stone Works here, but now of Scranton, informs us of the good health and prosperity of himself and family. Mr. Green has just completed a four-roomed dwelling house on Main Avenue. May your prosperity continue, Thomas.

Mr. W. H. J. Wilson, the famous whistling star, will make his first appearance in the opera house on Monday evening, supported by the celebrated Hassler quartette, of Philadelphia. The entertainment promises to be a very interesting one in every particular and our people should not fail to go. Admission 25 and 35 cents.

This age presents the greatest boon. Salvation Oil; it cures so soon. When Christmas came with its good cheer, its fun, and its merry-making, what to depress its colds, but that was long ago, before the days of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Now it is very different. A new era has dawned on us, and great and small, little and tall, merry men all, are happy.

Mr. Samuel Ohl, of West Penn, mother of our townsman Edward Ohl, has reached the ripe old age of ninety-four years, and is said to enjoy excellent health in every particular. She was among the first settlers who located in the extreme lower end of Schuylkill county.

Jacob Steigewalt, of West Penn, father of Ed. Steigewalt, of Nix Hollow, died on Saturday at the advanced age of four score years. Interment took place on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Steigewalt was a pioneer settler of lower Schuylkill county.

Tickets for the spring election will be printed at this office while you wait. Our prices will be lower than any competitor can afford to meet. We have two presses on purpose for this work, and good active boys to run them. Drop in and see us.

The Philadelphia Record, during the past week or more, has been engaged exposing the workings of a number of orders among them being the Order of Tont, of which a flourishing branch is located here.

Warde, manager of the Kitty Roads' Company, now showing in Concert Hall, swore out warrants for the arrest of Daniel Cannon, William Woodring and Ike Brewster Tuesday, on the charge of disorderly conduct and drunkenness in the hall during a performance. There is a wonderful work of grace in progress in the Evangelical church of this place. At no time since the church was built has there been such a stir. For some time there have been conversions every evening and new seekers to take their places. Several evenings the altar was crowded with seekers while many in different parts of the church were bowed at their seats seeking mercy under the convicting power of God.

For a number of nights the church was completely packed and sinners are remarkably convicted and converted, and the power of Jesus is present to save and to bless. The interest continues unabated, and the prospects are that many more will be saved before these nightly meetings close. Persons attending these meetings cannot fail but notice the wonderful change that takes place in those who are made happy by the experience of the new birth.

On Monday night the spiritual fire broke out in the M. E. church, and two souls were happily converted to God and rejoiced under the new experience of having found Jesus their Saviour. Many are under conviction and the prospects are that many will be saved in this little Zion. God is pouring his spirit out upon the people of Lehighton, and many are rejoicing under the power of Jesus to save. c.s.w.

LABOR'S BUSY HIVE.

Interesting Items Gleaned for the Ever Busy World of Labor.

—30,000 slate pencils are daily produced by the only slate pencil mill in the country, situated at Castleton, Pa.

—The Rev. Mr. Gros, proprietor of Island Grove, is at the head of an enterprise to make the Lehigh river navigable from Bethlehem to Island Grove.

—The wealthiest oil producer in Pennsylvania is John McKeown, of Washington, Pa. He has a fortune of $8,000,000. He is an Irishman and twenty-four years ago he was working at $2 a day as a laborer.

—There is very little left of the immense cedar banks which were like mountains west of the Northampton furnace at Free-mansburg. The Lehigh Valley Railroad used the cedar in filling up along its Roselle branch.

—The Lehigh Valley is turning some of its passenger coaches into combination emigrant and smoking cars. A partition across the middle of the car, with a swinging ground glass door, makes the two compartments. The innovation will be greatly appreciated by the patrons of the road, who can now enjoy a smoke without being packed in among a lot of odoriferous Huns and Poles.

—John R. Lee, who has the contract for the erection of the new road between Pine Island and Slatington is only 42 years of age. Mr. Lee is a graduate of Fordham College, and succeeded his father, who is now living in retirement. Mr. Lee's plant is an extensive one, consisting of over one hundred cars, two steam shovels, two locomotives and an almost endless number of carts, horses and tools.

—An exchange says that extra caution has been taken by the Jersey Central Railroad to prevent accidents. Lately they have had placed new curves in the road large clock like machines which stand on iron posts about seven feet high. These are apt to puzzle the most intelligent at first sight, but their use is plainly made visible when closely observed. It is to tell the engineer of a train how many minutes the preceding train is a head of him, and he thereby knows whether to slacken or quicken his pace. The face of the queer looking clock is about eighteen inches in diameter, and on it there are numbers marking the minutes from one to twenty-five. It has only one hand, and it works on the same plan as an ordinary clock. A sort of lever runs through the iron post and is fastened to the railroad track so that a passing train, pressing on the track moves the lever and the hand of the clock fly back to "zero." It then goes like an ordinary clock, and it is so stationed that the engineer can see how many minutes have elapsed since the passing of the last train.

Not a Question of Rights. EDITOR ADVOCATE: The prohibitory amendment to the Constitution should be cleared of all ambiguities and complications.

First. It is not a question of temperance. A man may be absolutely sober and self-controlled and yet not be prepared to punish an old woman with fine or imprisonment who makes a little wine.

Second. It is not a question of total abstinence. A man may think it well to be a total abstainer and advise others to imitate his example and yet not think it proper to endeavor to force total abstinence upon others by law.

Third. It is not a question of restricting the evils of the liquor traffic. A man may as sincerely seek to do this by High License as by Prohibition.

Fourth. It is not a question of suppressing the saloon. The people, if they consent saloons a nuisance, have power, by selecting a Legislature like-minded, to suppress them by law, leaving to the well-behaved citizen a reasonable liberty to purchase, under very restrictions, what he pleases.

Fifth. It is not even a question of a prohibitory law. That can be passed by the Legislature at any time; has been enacted in several States before prohibitory amendments were ever thought of. Questions of public policy should be treated of in statutory law, not in fundamental law.

The first can be altered or amended as experience and observation may suggest; the latter is fixed with difficulty, is rigid, and if found impracticable becomes a dead letter, and the fundamental law itself is brought into contempt.

Sixth. It is not a question of popular rights. It is not true that when any number of persons demand an amendment to the Constitution is sought, that reason, to be submitted to the people. That is not the theory of our constitutional government. Senators and representatives are "professional agents." They are bound in all things to act upon their own honest judgment of what is proper, right and for the public good; if their constituents are not pleased with their conduct they can at the next election displace them and choose others whose opinions are known to be different.

The real question is this: Is it wise to incorporate in the fundamental law or Constitution specific provisions on subjects properly belonging to the sphere of statute law? If so, where shall we stop?

And, is it wise to attempt by such an amendment to coerce a large minority (to say the least) into submission to the views of the Prohibitionists in regard to alcoholics?

Without any such innovations and experiments unnecessary can be abated, the liquor traffic restricted and regulated and saloons abolished—if the people choose. This can be done without engrafting principles of Turkish despotism on the system of American law. LINNEY. Lansford, Jan. 20.

The Prohibition Amendment. Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of this Commonwealth:

Sec. 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, that the following amendment is proposed to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the Eighteenth Article thereof.

AMENDMENT. There shall be an additional article to said Constitution to be designated as Article XIX, as follows:

ARTICLE XIX. The manufacture, sale or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor for other purposes than as a beverage may be allowed in such manner only as may be prescribed by law. The General Assembly shall, at the first session succeeding the adoption of this article of the Constitution, enact laws with adequate penalties for its enforcement.

Salt Rheum

The agonies of those who suffer from severe salt rheum are indescribable.

The cleansing, healing, purifying influence of Hood's Sarsaparilla are unequalled by any other medicine. "I take pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it has done wonders for me. I had salt rheum very severely, affecting me over nearly my entire body. Only those who have suffered from this disease in its worst form can imagine the extent of my affliction. I tried many medicines, but failed to receive benefit until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then the disease began to subside, the agonies disappeared, and now I am entirely free from the disease. My blood seems to be thoroughly purified, and my general health is greatly benefited." LYMAN ALLEN, Boston N. E. Church, North Chicago, Ill.

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and the veins of his legs, so bad that they would crack open and bleed. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. STANTON, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

From 108 to 135. "I was seriously troubled with salt rheum for three years, and receiving no benefit from medical treatment I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am now entirely cured of salt rheum; my weight has increased from 108 lbs. to 135." MRS. ALICE SMITH, Stamford, Conn.

If you suffer from salt rheum, or any blood disease, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has cured many others, and will cure you.
