That Cantankerons Old Women Described in the nursery ballad, who

"lived upon nothing but victuals and d ink," and yet "would never be quiet," was undoubtedly troubled with chronic indigestion. Her victuals like those of many other elderly persons whose digestive powers have become impaired, didn't agree with her. This was before the era of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, or some one of her numerous friends and relatives would un oubtedly have persuaded her to try the great specific for dyspepsia, constipation and billiousness. This would have been a measure of self-protection on their part, for she soon would have been cured and ceased to disturb them with her clamor. The most obstinate cases of indigestion, with its attendant heartburn, flatulence, constant uneasiness of the stomach and of the nerves, are completely overcome by this sovereign remedy. Chills and fever and billions remittent, rheumatism and kidney trouble are also relieved by it.
