They have no dungeons or dark cells in the prism, corporal isliment is unheard of, tying up by the thumbs is never permitted; in short, none of the old modes of punishment are ecognized in this institution. The system in vogue is this: When a new prise ner is received he is informed that they have three different bills of fare in the prison, and that it is optional with each man as to how well he lives. If he is in-dustrious, orderly, well behaved, and in all things conforming strictly to the rules of the prison, he is served with excellent food nicely cooked.

There Is a Difference. All at the table had been "stuck" but one gentleman who is noted for his keennes of repartee. The gentlemen who had seen "stuck" told nothing but anecdotes and antique tales. Not a new story had been recited; and they were all chest-nuts. When the gentleman noted for repartee had been "stuck" there was ap-plause, a call for drinks and a demand for a new story. "I can tell a story," said the gentleman, as he ordered the proper thing, "but I'll ask you a conundrum. "Go ahead," he was told. "Well," he went on. "what is the difference between a turker and a many shall P. Wilder's Book.

This odd conundrum floored the crowd. The questioner was appealed to for an answer. "The difference between a turkey and a man," he explained, as he rose to leave, "is that a turkey isn't stuffed with chestnuts until it's dead." The crowd comprehended.—Cincinnati

It is not easy to determine whether we should rejoice at Chinese progress or regret it, for the waking up of the vast Mongolian masses means the precipita-tion of an overplus upon the Aryan world that we do not yet know how to deal with. However, it is certain that China will soon be practically a modern state. The conservative element is eflectually overcome and railway construction has been entered on as a national policy. Peking is at once to be joined to Tien Tsin by a road passing through the most populous districts of the empire. The radicals or reformers are atast entirely triumphant, and China will adopt every means for development. It will be impossible to exist on the same planet under a system of mutual exlusion.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Blessed be childhood, which brings down something of heaven into the midst of our rough earthliness. These 80,000 daily births, of which statistics tell us, represent as it were an effusion of inno cence and freshness, struggling not only against the death of the race, but against human corruption and the universal gangrene of sin. All the good and whole ne feeling which is intertwined with childhood and the cradle is one of the secrets of the providential government of the world. Suppress this lite giving dew and human society would be scorched and devastated by selfish passion. Supsing that humanity had been compos of a thousand millions of immortal beings, whose number could neither inrease nor diminish, where should we be and what should we be! A thousand mes more learned, no doubt, but a usand times more evil. There would have been a vast accumulation of science but all the virtues engendered by suffer ng and devotion-that is to say, by the family and society—would have no exist-ence. And for this there would be no ompensation. Blessed be childhood for the good that it does, and for the good which it brings about carelessly and unconsciously by simply making us love it and letting itself be loved. What little of paradise we see still on earth is due to Its presence among us. Without father hood, without motherhood, I think that love itself would not be enough to pre vent men from devouring each othermen, that is to say, such as human pa sions have made them. The angels have no need of birth and death as foundations for their life, because their life i

Strategy and Tactics. A battle does not consist, as many im agine, in a grand advance of victorious lines of attack, sweeping, everything be fore them, or the belter-skelter flight of the unfortunate defeated. Mistaking a Royalty.

One night at a reception at Mrs. Ronalds' while I was perched upon a sofa watching the brilliant assemblage, I fell into conversation with a pleasant gentle-man seated beside me, who was very curious about America and American life. I told him a great deal about America, and said that Americans in England would not at once know how to address people properly. "As for me, I said, "I am as green as a gooseberry on this subject; even if I supposed you were one of the nobility I should not know how to address you." A few moments afterward Mrs. Ronalds said to me: "Mr Wilder, that's a good thing you've beer saying to the Duke of Teck; you've made an impression upon his highness." I re-plied: "Why, I haven't met the Duke of Teck; the only gentleman I've been talk-ing to is standing over there." "Well," says Mrs. Ronalds, "that is the Duke of Paper Pencils One of the difficulties which have stood in the way of the substitution of paper pulp for wood in the manufacture of pen ils has been the toughness of the paper covering, and its consequent resistance to the action of a knife. By a new process which has been patented, the mole cular cohesion of the paper is medified in such a manner that it can be cut as easily as cedar wood. The paper is first of all made into tubes, and a quantity of them are placed in a frame at the lower end of a cylinder. The substance which s to be used as a marking material is placed in the cylinder while in a plastic condition, and sufficient pressure is then appled to force it into the hollow centers of the paper tubes. After the comple tion of the process the pencils are grad-ually dried at increasing temperatures during a period of six days, and they are then plunged into a vessel of molter paraffine wax, which has the effect of modifying the texture of paper pulp as described. — Manufactures and Indus-
