The Germania Sennerbund has just purchased a handsome new organ. Full line of Ingrain and Brussels carpet at Henry Schwartz, on Bank st. The heavy frosts the past week have stripped the trees of their autumnal foliage and they are now almost as bare as telegraph poles.

There will be a grand raffle at Frank Wisler's hotel, 21 Fire Lane, on Dec. 7th. John Hawk's horse, "Kilbourne," took second money in the racing race, class 2-25, and first money in class 2-20, at Allentown last week. Everything in the line of furniture at Kemerer & Swartz's. Prices always lowest and goods the best.

For stoves, ranges, tinware and all kinds of housefurnishing goods, go to W. S. Kubna, on North Bank street. Prices the lowest and goods the best. Thomas Brennan, a 13-year-old boy of Sturmerville, was fatally shot in Wilkes-Barre by Polanders, who have been arrested.

"My Kingdom for a horse," said King Dick; but you can get one at David Zehner's livery, on North street, for a small amount of cash for a pleasure trip or business. Railroaders, you can save a good day's wages by buying your watches from D. S. Beck, Lehighton.

James McGarrick, a well-known base ball catcher, was killed Saturday night while walking on the tracks of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Call at Kemerer & Swartz's on Bank street, and see the largest stock of furniture, carpets, etc. You can save money by doing so. On Saturday evening while under the influence of liquor Granville Hontz drew a revolver and fired one shot at John Campbell, but missed him. Hontz got away before he could be arrested.

The funeral of the late Dr. C. S. German, on Saturday, was one of the largest that ever took place in this borough. Revs. Kuder, Berntz and Bowler officiated. Mrs. Klotz, Combs, No. 23, K. G. E., drilled in full uniform and had a sham inspection on Monday evening. Orders left at this office for butter, eggs, live and dressed chickens and country produce generally, wholesale and retail, will be promptly filled by W. H. Klotz.

Thos. A. Williams has had his house waterbathed and otherwise improved. Williams (Times) Index. Mr. Williams was at one time a resident of this place and it may interest his friends here to know that he is prospering in far away Texas. If you want a clock or watch promptly repaired at a reasonable price go to S. Hagaman Bank street Lehighton. 6m* As a county newspaper the CARBON ADVOCATE claims to meet every essential requirement. A place at our news columns will prove this conclusively. $1 a year, 50 cents for six months. Why not try it? On the 24th day of next month will be the 144th anniversary of the famous Gaden Hutten massacre, familiar to all our people on account of its close connection with our history. Push, pluck and progressiveness should be the three p's backing every effort on the part of our people to make Lehighton the healthiest town in the Valley. The Advocate will do what it can, and in return do what you can to help the Advocate.

MAUCH CHUNK CLIPS

—Five leather goods at Luckenbach's, Mauch Chunk. —New goods and low prices at Luckenbach's, Mauch Chunk. —Plaintes have taken a back seat and the sprightly literary society looms up. —All the latest styles in wedding rings at E. H. Hohl's, Mauch Chunk. —The new iron bridge across the Lehigh river here will be finished by Christmas. —While J. J. Mosser, of Allentown, was spending his horse on a race track Saturday the animal ran away and was so badly hurt that it had to be killed. Mosser's leg was broken. —While extinguishing a fire which did considerable damage in his grocery store Saturday C. K. Wenner, of Allentown, was seriously burned. —Lots of better designs in silversware that can not be found elsewhere in this section can be seen at E. H. Hohl's jewelry store, Mauch Chunk. —Annie Schalle, 20 years old, of Fullerton, Saturday attempted suicide by taking rat poison, but prompt efforts saved her life. —The Labor Union Council of Reading will fight western beer and five-cent barrels.

—H. Hohl's jewelry store at Mauch Chunk has been remodeled. You can now see the latest assortment of watches, jewelry and silverware you ever looked at. It will do you good to take a look. —All members of L. H. & L. Co. are urged to join the newly organized L. H. & L. Co. No. 1. All applications for membership should be handed to Charles F. Miller, Secretary. —The Master Eddie Abbott Combination gave one of their unexcelled performances in the opera house on Wednesday evening. The performance was really excellent and they deserved a better house. —John Sendel, one of the oldest residents in the Mahoning Valley, who had a paralytic stroke some time ago, died on Wednesday morning. Mr. S. was highly respected and well known throughout this county. He leaves seven grown up sons and daughters to mourn the loss of a kind father among the number being Mrs. Wm. Miller, of Lehigh street, this borough. —Rev. J. S. Newhart, pastor of the Evangelical church, and Rev. A. A. DeLong, of Allentown, will exchange pulpits next Sabbath. Services in the German language at 10 a. m., and in the English language at 7 p. m. —The weekly meeting of the Young People's Gleaner Society of the Evangelical congregation are largely attended. An interesting programme for this (Saturday) evening is prepared, and Rev. A. A. DeLong will favor it with an address. —The L. V. R. B. Co., has purchased the row of frame houses, known as the Dolan row, along the Lehigh river at Packerton and are putting in water and giving them a general overhauling. —There will be a grand drawing for an eight day clock at Fred Miller's saloon, on North Bank street, this Saturday evening. Have you got a ticket? —R. G. Chase & Co., whose advertisement appears in another column, still have room for a few energetic, temperate men. Those unemployed should write at once for terms. The firm will well favorably know.

Prosecution is now barred by the statute of limitation. —Have the people of our lively, progressive suburb, Jamestown, the idea of building a church drop through? We hope not; such an edifice would be a big improvement to the north end. Besides we hope to see Jamestown join this borough some day, and a good ward should be religiously supplied. —Lehighton is doing its duty in supplying young men to preach the gospel; we now have three students in different colleges and seminaries, viz: William Yenser, Reformed; Chas. D. Claus and Calvin Kuder, Lutherans, with Rev. Miss Mehrkam filling a large and responsible Lutheran charge at Columbia, Pa. —A new social game has been introduced in the west, which would prove a good game in the east as well. One of the girls in the room takes a bite of onion and a young man must discover the fair lady by kissing all the ladies present. The young man enjoys it immensely until he strikes the girl who bit the onion, and then he looks around for his hat and says he promised to be home at half-past nine. —On Monday evening at the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, meeting in the Presbyterian church, the leader of the meeting for the evening will give a bible reading and blackboard exercise on the topic for the evening, "The Results of Trusting in the Lord." Everybody is cordially invited to attend, and those who attend are requested to bring their bibles along and take part in the exercises of the evening, which promises to be both interesting and profitable. Bring a friend with you. —The Young Men's Christian Association enjoyed an oyster supper by themselves on Friday evening of last week, which was highly enjoyed by the youthful members of the Association. Those who were present on this happy occasion have expressed the opinion that the committee who managed the supper did things up in grand style and everybody was delighted. During the winter the members purpose pursuing a course of bible studies on "The Life and Words of Christ." Young men are heartily urged to come out on Friday evening of each week and take part in the meeting. Bring your bible along. —A man who owns over two years subscription, but his paper back in the postoffice marked "retused." He has heard of many men men. There is a man who used the wart on the back of his neck for a collar button, the one who pastured a goat on his grandmother's grave, the one who stole copiers from a dead man's eyes, the one who talked through his nose to save the wear and tear on his false teeth, the man who got rich by giving his three children a nickel each to go to bed without any supper and then stealing the nickel after the children were asleep; but for downright seaman the man who takes a paper for years, never pays anything for it, marks it "retused" and then sticks it back in the postoffice is entitled to the premium. —E.

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 25.—Pietro Baronowski was hanged Wednesday morning. The drop fell at 10.30. The condemned man slept soundly from twelve o'clock last night until this morning. At 8 o'clock St. Joseph's mass for the dying was celebrated by Father Tedor Howicz of the Polish Catholic Church at Shenandoah, assisted by Father Duffy of this city, and Father Patterson of Hazleton. Baronowski then partook sparingly of a substantial breakfast. At 10:30 the march to the gallows commenced. The condemned man walked bravely and showed no signs of trepidation when he ascended the gallows with his hands bound behind his back and his head shaved slightly. After religious exercises the gallows was placed over his head, the noose was adjusted and at 10:38 the bolt was drawn by an unseen hand. The drop fell and the culprit hung perfectly motionless. In seven and one-half minutes he was pronounced dead and at 10:45 the body was cut down. Death was caused by a fracture of the neck. Between 400 and 500 persons witnessed the execution. The double murder for which Pietro Baronowski suffered death was committed on Saturday, May 11, 1888, and was one of the most atrocious in criminal record of Schuylkill, a county an enviable distinction for crimes of violence.

ATTEMPTED RAPE.

Jack McQuate, a moulder, arrested for Attempted Rape on Little Criselle Kuhns, the eight-year-old daughter of W. S. Kuhns. On Saturday evening the north end of this Borough was thrown into great excitement by the report that the bright little eight-year-old daughter of W. S. Kuhns had been outraged by Jack McQuate, a moulder employed by the Lehigh Stone and Manufacturing Company, in this Borough. When the father of the little girl heard of the dastardly attempt he immediately went before Squire Belts and made the following deposition: "That on Saturday evening, being the 19th day of October, 1890, in and near the said Borough Jack McQuate, a moulder who is about 50 years old, did entice Criselle Kuhns, eight years of age, to a place near the Central R. R. of N. J., and there feloniously did by violence assault her, and said Criselle Kuhns, with attempt to commit rape and murder. And that he believes the said Jack McQuate would have murdered her, had she not been rescued by the said Criselle Kuhns and thrown her on the railroad if he had not been disturbed by two certain railroad men who, on their way home from work, caught him, the said Jack McQuate, in the act, and further deponeid saith not."

A warrant was sworn out and McQuate was arrested on Sunday afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock by Policeman Weidman and taken before Squire Belts for identification. When little Criselle Kuhns was asked to identify the prisoner she said, "Yes, sir, that is the man." McQuate was taken to Mauch Chunk and lodged in jail, and on Monday afternoon brought down and given a hearing; the evidence of several witnesses and the statement of little Criselle, who says "McQuate enticed her over near the railroad and offered her a quarter not to make any noise; he then threw himself down and pulled her on top of him." Just at this time two railroad men, who were on the way to their homes in Packerton, happened along and McQuate renounced his hold upon her and thus the timely appearance of these two men upon the scene prevented the consummation of his heinous designs. In default of $1,000 bail McQuate was committed to jail.

The following is the incriminating confession: "Mrs. Dillard took me to her home at preliminaries were finished and began her confession. She was dressed in black, had on a new black bonnet and a short black veil. This was thrown back over her bonnet. Her thin sharp features were clearly revealed, a white pallor serving to bring out the lines on her face with much distinctness. At times she spoke rapidly and excitedly. Again, she could hardly be heard and her answers came only after many repetitions of the question. She frequently looked at her counsel for encouraging nods before answering. "Bartholomew was at the house the night before the murder, took my husband's gun; removed the firing pin, and told me when the children made a noise the next night I should raise my husband, tell him to go out, and raise his lantern at the big cherry tree, and he would then shoot him. The next night when I heard the children and wanted me for myself, I did not see Bartholomew. When my husband went out of the house, after dressing Jakey and I followed until he told us to go back. We did so, and then I told Dillard what he had done. He told me to get into the tree. He did this. His lantern went out. I heard a grunting kind of noise, and soon after I saw my husband stumbling to the porch, where he fell dead."

—Mrs. Dillard, as she has done all along, insisted that she did not hear the report of the murder's gun. Jakey Dillard swore to the contrary. She admitted that she had seen Bartholomew's hand had been intimate while they lived near Bartholomew's and since they moved to their place, three miles from where Bartholomew lived there. She said: "Bartholomew had spoken to me a few weeks before about killing my husband. He said he did not want us to move away; that we would all live on the farm. I said he had a house and he should go and live there. I had my husband and would not leave him. Bartholomew said he would shoot Aaron. Oh, I would be better off if I had never seen him!" After the poor woman was led weeping from the stand and the defence rested. The defence set up an alibi for Bartholomew. The jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree against Bartholomew on Tuesday. —Death in an Ore Mine. We gather the following particulars of the death by suffocation of two men in the ore mines at Millport, from Tuesday's Mauch Chunk Times: Frank Boyer and Isaac Koch, of Allentown, this county, met with a terrible death by suffocation on Friday night, between ten and twelve o'clock. They were working in the ore mine of Hutterford Brothers, which is located near that village. The mine is situated on the principle of a coal mine, and consists of a shaft, four feet square, sunk to the depth of one hundred and twenty feet. At the bottom of this shaft they dug a tunnel twelve feet square and four hundred yards long. Boyer and Koch were working at the end of this tunnel and were overcome by the foul air and gases which were contained within these narrow confines. The proprietors recognized the danger of suffocation and commenced to sink a second shaft at the end of the tunnel, for the purpose of ventilation. They were nearly finished and were within two feet of the unfortunate men, when they were overcome and rendered unconscious. Koch was found in a pool of water and Boyer was wedged under a heavy piece of timber. Boyer was still warm and it is believed he could have been succored if he had not been held fast by the timber, which made his immediate removal impossible. The shafts of men are employed in the mine, and the men who went to work at midnight made the ghastly discovery. Boyer leaves a wife and one son. Koch was a single man. About twenty years ago the former was a miller in Slatington. The calamity has cast a gloom over the community and hundreds of persons visited the scene of the accident Saturday. Both were sober and industrious men.

I find Ideal Tooth Powder is without exception the best I have ever used. With it I keep my teeth very clean and white, which I was unable to do with any other powder I have ever tried before.
