Bona Fide Circulation Larger than that of any Weekly Newspaper in the County.

SUBSCRIPTION LAWS.

Dr. Tuckerman, editor of the Workmen, Cleveland, has taken some pains to collect and compile the decisions of the United States Court on this subject, and gives the result of his investigations, the following:

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the post-office to which they are directed, they are responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, they are held responsible.

5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrearages, is sent to the publisher.

The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest any one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the man who allows his subscription to remain for some time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused," and have a postal-card sent notifying the publisher, leaves himself liable to arrest and fine, the same as for theft.

"The Carbon county Grand Jury presented a report declaring that the Court House is unfit for use, incommodious, unhealthy, poorly ventilated, business is interrupted by street noises, and that a new one should be erected."

Quite true, and they might have gone one step farther and recommended Lehighton as the place where the new court house should be located. We have a location for such an edifice almost in the centre of town and just far enough away from the railroads not to be disturbed by the noises of passing trains, which will be donated to the county free of charge for a court house site. Lehighton is almost centrally located, railroad facilities are the best, hotel accommodations can't be beat, and a dozen other undisputed arguments prevail as to why this town, with its magnificent area for building purposes, its push, vim and enterprise should be the County Seat of Carbon county. Look on this town and then on Mauch Chunk, and decide on merit. We won't fear the result.

The sad suicide of a woman in New York city the other day because she was unable to obtain honorable employment is suggestive of the fact that the way of the poor is indeed a hard one. Millions of wealth, elegant homes, lavish waste, and yet one poor but respectable and refined woman alone in a strange city, appealing for employment, even that of a servant, must forsooth have "city reference," otherwise honorable work is denied. Nothing but a life of shame was left; this she spurned, and then in utter despair the poor, struggling woman, who valued virtue as her life, madly plunged into the great beyond. Who shall sermonize over that dead one? who, at the final reckoning, shall answer for that mad act? What is the lesson taught the individual, society and church in this sad death?

A bright and interesting writer in the Ashland Evening Telegram of a recent date, delivers himself as follows concerning one of Carbon county's leading citizens under the caption, "Men One Meets:"

"Hon. Wm. Rapsher, of Mauch Chunk, ex-District Attorney of Carbon county, and a personal friend of ye scribe, will in all probability succeed Judge Dreher, of Stroudsburg, for the highest office within the gift of any political organization in Monroe and Carbon counties. Mr. Rapsher is an honest, capable and intelligent worker, who has done yeoman service for his party, and if he is the choice of the people will fill the Judges' chair to the satisfaction of his constituents."

Senator Riddelberger, of Viginia, is dead. For a number of years he was a conspicuous figure in the House, not so much on account of any particular ability, but for his peculiar eccentricacies and brilliant satire which on every occasion he hurled broadside at the opposition. One notable event of his life, indicative of the undercurrent nature, was his public reconciliation with Mahone, with whom he had had many a bout. Senator Riddelberger is dead, let us remember therefore, only that which is good of him.

Last week special correspondents represented in the Advocate were Lehigh Gap, Weissport, Mauch Chunk, Parryville, Weatherly, Packerton and many of the villages, making it a complete county newspaper in every respect. Our special corps of correspondents is growing in number and we hope, with the aid of our readers, soon to have every town and village represented. The Advocate is only $1 a year, show it to your neighbor and ask him to become a subscriber.

Of all the dozens of appropriation bills presented to Congress for the erection of monuments commemorative of the noble deeds of the great and brave, we have seen none for General Winfield Scott Hancock, who rests in a grave unmarked, in the Norristown cemetery. The hero of more than one bloody battle and the savior of Pennsylvania certainly deserves some recognition from a country he served so nobly and well.

The borough ordinance prohibiting the throwing of ashes, oyster shells and other refuse on the public thoroughfares is not obeyed by many, as the supervisor will see by strolling along Back street. To all such persons as wilfully or ignorantly disobey the law the Advocate would remind, that there is a fine of $5 for each offence.

There is apparently more politics to the square inch in the Carbon County Courts from highest official and backers down to the lowest ligitants than any where else in the state, which may account for the postponement of the Lansford ward matter from one court to another to gratify the fellows on the other side of the fence.

At a meeting of citizens of Annville J. S. Kendig was elected president, and Morris Bright, secretary of a Board of Trade. A committee was also appointed who will offer inducements for industries to be established there, and land for sites will be given free.

This is pointer for our business men. Will they profit by it? We'll see.

BROADBRIM'S N. Y. LETTER.

No ecclesiastical event in the past twenty years has caused a more profound sensation than the installation of Doctor Abbott at Plymouth Church in Brooklyn, and the ordination of Mr. Bliss, Doctor Abbott's assistant, which took place last week.

As was expected, the gathering was a great one. No sectional lines hedged it in. Stout defenders of John Calvin and John Knox stood side by side with the disciples of John Wesley and Summerfield; admirers of Channing and Theodore Parker found themselves in friendly converse with the most devout of Trinitarians, while Open Communion and Hard-Shell Baptists forgot their differences for the time, seeming to regard the occasion as a sort of general amnesty or jubilee, where the sectarian fences were all broken down and everybody was privileged to room where he pleased in everybody else's pasture. Andover was out in full force; Yale had sent a number of representatives; Harvard was right behind her; good old Princeton occupied a foremost seat, and the Wesleyn University had a half-dozen graduates among the Council.

The grand old Episcopal church was represented by the towering form of Philips Brooks of Boston, the Rev. Dr. Donald, and two others nearly as famous. Two men were notably absent, Dr. Charles A. Hull, of Holy Trinity, the Episcopal clergyman, who was Mr. Beecher's life-long friend and who preached his funeral sermon, and Dr. Richard S. Storrs, the lion of the tribe of Judah, the honored pastor of the Church of Pilgrims and the greatest living Congregational clergyman. The right hand of the fellowship had not been extended to him by the invitation committee and his presence was greatly missed. Neither death nor the grave could condone the offence of which Plymouth claimed Dr. Storrs had been guilty at the trial of their beloved pastor a decade and a half ago. Will that ill-starred ghost never go down?

Everybody was eulogistic of Mr. Beecher. Doctor Meredith, the Moderator, spoke of him in terms of the greatest affection, and his sentiments were re-echoed by all who followed him. They all appeared to have forgotten that years before his death he had stamped out the lines that mark the boundaries of modern evangelical belief, and that the doctrine of the Trinity and eternal punishment had long been eliminated from his teachings. The sensation began when Dr. Abbott was called upon for a declaration of faith. Now if Dr. Abbott possesses one quality which is superior to any other, it is straightforwardness, and as the declaration proceeded it was evident that the bread which Mr. Beecher had cast upon the waters when Dr. Abbott was a neophyte beneath his preaching, was returning after many days. Baptists, Methodists and sound old Calvinists began to look doubtingly at each other and shake their heads; here and there some reverend member quietly took up his hat and edged towards the door. The Rev. Dr. McLeod, of the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church, made a bee-line for the street, nor stopped till he reached the quiet of his own study, for fear the vote of endorsement might be called before he got out, for he was satisfied that if a man was not a Trinitarian, which he thought Dr. Abbott was not, that he must be a Unitarian, and as there was no provision made for eternal punishment in that form of faith, he did not want, by stopping, to give it even a qualified endorsement. When Dr. Abbott was asked if Plymouth Church held itself amenable to the Congregational Council, he firmly but courteously told them that Plymouth Church was abundantly able to take care of its own affairs, and was quite willing that every church in the world should have the same privilege.

When Mr. Bliss, the assistant pastor, made his declaration, he set the whole Council hunting their classical lexicons. When he had finished, they felt they had much fine mental food for reflection on hand, but as it was not easily digested, they took the night to consider it. Plymouth church is perfectly satisfied with her new pastor—Mr. Abbott is delighted with Plymouth, and it was pretty evident to those present, that hereafter as heretofore, Plymouth church is going to be a law unto itself.

A most interesting feature of the council was the presence of the Rev. Edward Beecher, who preached the installation sermon for his great brother between forty and fifty years ago. Ripe in learning, venerable with age, it is only a short time since he lost one of his limbs in a railroad accident. The terrible operation through which he passed would have killed many a younger man, but sustained by that indomitable Beecher will, he sat through the council, and added greatly by his presence to the interest of the occassion.

At last, it seems that the Stewart will case is settled, and the published reports state that Hilton has got the lion's share of the estate. At Mrs. Stewart's death he brought her in debt to himself nearly a million of dollars; this, it is said, he forgives the heirs, or in other words the million is not to be taken out of their shares. Here seems to be a very clear statement of the whole affair; A. T. Stewart died, and left Judge Hilton who was his legal adviser, a million of dollars in cold cash. Mrs. Stewart nee Cornelia Finch, at the time of her husband's death, was a weak old woman between sixty and seventy. During her husband's life she never had much intercourse with the world, and knew nothing of business. Judge Hilton assumed charge of her affairs, and taking the million that her husband had given him induced her to deed to him properties worth between thirty and forty millions of dollars, all first-class paying investments, and then set himself to work, to get the million of dollars that he had paid her back again. This he not only succeeded in doing, but he brought her a million of dollars in debt to him at the time of her decease. Fairy tales there are in abundance, stories by Baron Munchausen, and others equally veracious; but in history or fiction there is nothing like this. But the parties most intimately concerned seem to be satisfied, and there the matter ends. It is not yet fixed whether Judge Hilton will demand that his remains when he balances his earthly ledger, shall lie in the shadow of the magnificent spire that covers the Stewart Moyoleum; but if he should, and it be true that the dry bones of the millionaire merchant have really found a resting place in their costly marble sarcopagus beside his wife, I can imagine them rattling like hail in a wintry storm, as the minister of God pronounces the words "ashes to ashes, dust to dust." It is a matter of little moment after all, who gets the judgment of these ill-gotten millions. Pile his gold up mountain high he cannot keep it long; it is all summed up in the sentence "Dust thou art and to dust thou must return."

Now if any one imagines that woman are not getting on, let them come to New York and look about. Everybody has heard of the Sorosis. A very nice club, no doubt; lots of brains in it and oceans of talent, good level-headed women, not ladies in the sense of persons that can do nothing but in the sense of being able to do everything. I repeat here what I have often said before, that you could hear better music, better singing and better speaking, at a meeting of the Sorosis than you can find at any other half dozen male clubs in the city. But it is an upper crust club; the women who compose it for the most part are not only talented but well to do; most of them are women of wealth or else those who in literature or art have made their mark in the world. But we have also a working woman's club, or rather a series of clubs reaching all over the city, which now has a membership of nearly five thousand. Last week they had a ball all among themselves—not a fellow in sight. And do you think they missed them? Not a bit of it. Thirteen hundred of them took part in the ball, and they were all dressed alike, the only difference being the color of the club badges. Nobody tried to outshine anybody else, for no one was allowed to spend more than ten cents on adornment, and how sweet they all did look in their natty French caps, Oh, my, my! it was a sight to see. And the grand Patriarch's ball at Delmonico's given by the creme la creme, was not more decorous or polite. Miss Grace M. Dodge, the great female philanthropist, who was recently deposed from our School Board because she exposed wicked teachers, presided, and it is hardly necessary to say that the girls had a royal time. The only distressing feature to it was, that the girls enjoyed themselves so much that they said they never would go to a ball again where was a man! That's awful.

In addition to to the above, the Berkley opened its gymnasium this week, said to be the finest female gymnasium in the world. This club is strong in number and finance, and holds in its membership some of the wealthiest ladies in the city. A few years ago a number of ladies felt that they would like to have some place where for gentle exercise they could play among themselves a quiet game of billiards; then a bowling alley was added which by the way is now quite a fashionable amusement with thousands of ladies in the city. Then a room was added with dumb bells and clubs, and the final outcome is the splendid gymnasium that was opened last week. Here the ladies are taught every exercise that can develop their frames and give them healthy bodies. They can fence and box and do everything that any man can do, but like the Sorosis this is one of our swell clubs. To sustain it the initiation and dues are high, but it is a most excellent thing for those who can afford it. In addition to this we have a Woman's Press Club and a Female Art Club, all helpful and excellent institutions, so you see woman is getting on. The globe trotter Nellie Bly is an evidence of what woman can do when she tries. Talk about fast women, she will no doubt be regarded as the fastest woman that the world has ever known.

I have frequent occasion to speak of the sharp contrasts of life occurring here every day, but at no time have they impressed me more than in the week just past. On Wednesday a police officer was leading a tottering old man towards the Police Court where he expected to be committed to the Inebriate Asylum. His limbs failed him, and he sat down on a door-step to rest, and a moment after he rolled over dead. He was the father of Ada Rehan, the pet of the New York theatre-going public and the pride of Daly's Company, and whose second daughter is married to the talented young actor Oliver Dowd Byron. Drink was the old man's curse, and his children are overwhelmed with grief at the manner of his death. Dramatic circles were shocked and pained to learned that the favorite actor Frank Bangs was lying sick and destitute at a small hotel in town. It was not only a shock but a surprise, for Mr. Bangs has been one of the best paid actors in the United States For many years past, his salary running from one hundred and fifty to two hundred and fifty per week. He was in great demand, if he was ever out of an engagement it was his own fault, for he was a universal favorite. He married one of Singer's numerous daughters a few years ago. She was crazy till she got him, and after a trial of a couple of weeks she was crazy till she got rid of him, alleging as a cause that he was fonder of his little pet dog Toby than he was of her. On the news of his unfortunate situation the actors' fund came to his relief, and he is now doing well.

HAVE YOU READ
THE PHILADELPHIA TIMES
THIS MORNING?

THE TIMES is the most extensively circulated and widely read newspaper published in Pennsylvania. Its discussion of public men and public measures is in the interest of public integrity, honest government and economy in industry, and it knows no party or personal allegiance in treating public issues. In fine broadcast and best sense a family and general newspaper.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD. The Times has all the facilities of advanced journalism for gathering news from all the quarters of the Globe, in addition to that of the Associated Press, now covering the whole world is its scope, making it the perfection of a newspaper, with everything carefully edited to occupy the smallest space.

THE SUNDAY EDITION is not only a complete newspaper, but a Magazine of Popular Literature. Its sixteen large pages, clearly printed and attractively illustrated, contain as much good literature, by the foremost writers of the world, as any of the popular monthlies. Some of the news pers in New York, Boston and Chicago print a greater number of pages on Sunday, but these are for the most part occupied with advertisements. The merchants in those cities concentrate nearly all their advertising in the Sunday papers, while in Philadelphia they have found it more advantageous to advertise on week days as well.

CONTRIBUTORS to the Sunday edition of the The Times include many of the foremost names in contemporary literature, both American and European. Its contents cover the whole field of human interest with all that is freshest and best in politics, literature, science, society, fashion, the household, labor, athletics, racing, rowing, base ball, fiction, poetry, art, drama, music, humor, sport, chess, yachting, cricket, foot-ball, etc., etc.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS. No other newspaper gives the same careful attention to the needs and tastes of young readers. The page devoted especially to them commands the services of the best writers and is edited with scrupulous care, with the aim of making it entertaining and instructive and well full to the round collection as well as to the pure amusement of both big and little boys and girls.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS of the Times are recognized as the very best printed in any daily newspaper, and with the clearness of typography for which The Times is noted, add to its popularity among all classes of readers.

THE TIMES aims to have the largest circulation by deserving it, and claims that it is unsurpassed in all the essentials of a great metropolitan newspaper.

SPECIMEN COPIES of any edition will be sent free to any one sending their address.

TERMS—Daily, $3 per annum; $1 for four months; 10 cents per month; delivered by carriers for 6 cents a week; Sunday edition—sixteen large, handsome pages—128 columns, elegantly illustrated, $2 per annum; 5 cents per copy.
