This daily overhead bridge at Coalport adds another victim to the list by the death of Drakeman Hoop, who had his back broken by being knocked from the top of a car at that point some weeks ago. A recent Grand Jury called attention to the danger and recommended the Court to this particular point, and now if there is any law that will compel a corporation to get into line it should be brought into play. The continual complete disregard of Grand Jury recommendations makes their presentment to the Court a first-class burlesque. The people are tired of it?

One thing that greatly retards the industrial progress of Lehigh is the existence of petty jealousy and prejudice, another a grasping propensity. These are features so plainly existent when opportunities arise for an increase in our industrial institutions that prevent all hope for the future until they are wiped out. Heavy co-operation and sincere devotion to the interests of the town will bring about a change that has long been needed.

The Fourth of July should be so celebrated as to clearly distinguish it from all other holidays of the year. To this end arrangements for a grand city demonstration and pyrotechnic display are now in progress. The success of the latter depends entirely on the liberality of our townspeople, and if they contribute in proportion to their patriotism the fund will be alright and the fire-works display grand.

The wholesale liquor dealers of New York, Philadelphia and other large cities have combined to fight the whiskey trust. If they are not successful in an amicable adjustment of the difficulty they will prosecute to manufacture their own spirits. The association represents over $90,000,000 and can make the trust considerable trouble if they adhere to their announced determination.

For the past two years or more every Carbon county Grand Jury has recommended a new bridge over the canal at Weissport. It has not come yet, not for any other signs of it coming in the near future. It is a corporation affair and with the usual contention apparently defies the Court and Grand Jury. There should be a quicker way of getting at it. How is it?

THIRTY-FOUR men entombed in a burning mine with no possible chance of rescue, is the horrible news that comes from Uniontown, showing the frightful cost at which coal is mined. It is, perhaps, the most frightful disaster in the history of the coal mining era, there being only one similar accident, that in 1885, known as the Leisegang holocaust.

JUDGING from the way in which Jimmy Malloy curls every little paragraph from his exchanges reflecting on the present Commissioners, his love for the Board can't be much above fever heat. Why?

MAUCH CHUNG hasn't sprung a candidate in the past two weeks, which gives credit to the supposition that Mauch Chung isn't what Jimmy Malloy cracks it up to be.

SECRET SOCIETY NOTES.

The Knights of the Golden Eagle are now established in thirty three States and Canada, having eighteen Grand Castles, 634 Subordinate Castles and 60,000 members.

Grand Chief Davis Casselberry has issued a circular to the Castles and Commanderies requesting them to prepare to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of the introduction of the Knights of the Golden Eagle into Pennsylvania, on October 14.

The report of Adjutant H. H. Hammer, of the Sons of Veterans, shows that during the past year thirty new camps were instituted, with 852 charter members. The total grand membership since June 30, 1890, was 2,705. There are now 102 camps, with 5,224 members in good standing.

The Military Branch of the K. G. E. is located in fifteen States, including six regiments or two Brigades in Pennsylvania and one regiment in New Jersey. The total number of awards is 4,384. During last year twenty-six Commanderies of the Military Branch were organized and 800 officers and men enlisted. A new drill manual is to be compiled by Lieutenant General Louis E. Stille, the sword movements being the same, and a jewel for all commission officers and a service medal for Sir Knights of Commanderies is being prepared.

The Improved Order of Red Men has tribes in thirty-three States and Territories. In Pennsylvania there are 253 tribes, with a total membership of about 28,000. The membership in the United States is over 100,000. The order is a benevolent one, and was founded about the year 1818. The origin of the organization is somewhat in doubt, as the early records were partly destroyed. As early as 1821 complaints were made of the loss of certain documents containing the first records. In that year a committee was appointed to make inquiry for ascertaining into whose possession the papers had fallen. A year later the committee rendered a report that the lost documents had come into the possession of a pale face who had long since crossed the dark river, and that they were not disposed to dwell upon the manner by which such possession was obtained. A portion of the papers were recovered afterwards, but still the record remains incomplete.

The Conservator, the official organ of the P. O. S. of A., pertinently delivers its well-timed remarks on the homopathic portion who find a way into the order. "A matter which we have mentioned before in our paper is brought pertinently to our mind, in the complaint of a brother, of the ungentlemanly conduct of certain individuals at a recent celebration given by our Order. We can scarcely find language in which to express our denunciation of such conduct, and regret that a 'homoeo' element does not find the principle of the Order too sacred to be disgraced by treating its symbols as a means to gain money, thereby causing the whole organization to be stigmatized. What object a man, or set of men in any organization can have when they go ahead, in making it the occasion of an all-around 'drunk,' can scarcely be imagined. There certainly can be no pleasure in being made an object of ridicule and aversion by the more refined portion of the membership."

NOTES AND OPINIONS

Quay is reported to have said the Delaware will be the Republican nominee for Governor. If Quay said so, it is useless for the friends of General Hastings to try to upset the state, but during the cold, chilly winds of November Delaware will be wondering why the Republican nomination in Pennsylvania is no longer considered equivalent to an election.—Tamona Courier.

The renomination of Mr. Lincoln in 1864, and that of General Grant in 1872 were foregone conclusions; this was true in great part of the nomination of Mr. Blaine in 1884. There are two reasons why the nomination of Mr. Cleveland by the Democrats in 1880 is equally probable.

Not only by his course in making the tariff the party issue of the campaign did he justify it with National policy, but he did it very much more than any Democrat in the country had been able to do in dispelling the profound distrust with which his party was regarded.—Harper's Weekly.

Speaking of the negro and the South, recently General Longstreet delivered himself as follows regarding the situation, which is diametrically opposite to the partisan expression heard so frequently of late: "He is suffering along quite well, and would do much better if it was not for the politicians. It does not follow that because a man is black that he is a Republican. A negro is like most any other man, he will vote to the advancement of his own interests. He will vote against a negro who has gone to the front simply as a politician in favor of a respectable Southern white man any time. He will vote for a Southern white man that he knows against a politician from the North every time. Schools are working out the problem of the colored man in the South. The development of the country is giving him new avenues of employment. What he is gradually getting is better wages, and what he needs is less politics and meddling from politicians."

THE EDITORS MEET.

The Lehigh Valley Editorial Association met at Hotel Allen, Allentown, Monday morning, and perfected organization by the adoption of articles of Association and the enrollment of the following members: Cyrus Kuntz, Allentown; Wm. McCormick, Times, Bethlehem; A. R. Horn, Editor, Allentown; Jos. A. Nease, Times, Bethlehem; E. H. Rauch, Democrat, Mauch Chunk; Edmund Randall, Dispatch, Catasauqua; D. J. Godshalk, Star, South Bethlehem; H. E. Brown, Lehigh Valley Comet; George Maue, Sentinel, Hazleton; G. W. Northamer, Carbon Advocate, Lehigh; Wm. Grim and S. S. Woolever, Critic, W. F. Schleier, Republican, Allentown; O. K. Mohr, News, Slatington; H. S. Rinker, Times, Mauch Chunk; Geo. Zimmerman, Democrat, Allentown; Howard Mutcaler, Democrat, L. M. Pine, Express, and C. M. Andrews, Free Press, Easton; P. E. Faust, Herald, Weatherly; W. A. Bobb, Plain Speaker, Hazleton; W. J. Hartzell, Well Bote, Allentown.

Following the enrollment of members the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, E. H. Rauch; 1st vice president, A. R. Horn; 2nd vice president, D. J. Godshalk; secretary, G. W. Northamer; corresponding secretary, H. E. Brown; treasurer, Cyrus Kuntz; executive board, Messrs. Maue, Randall, Weaver and Kuntz. The next meeting will be held at Paxsonia Inn, Easton, on September 15th.

On the adjournment of the Association they left in a special car over the popular Reading Railroad for Reading and a trip over the Mt. Penn Grant Road, or the new Berks county Switchback, which is eight miles in length, running through a romantic country, rich in beauty and scenic effects. The view from the summit is thirty-five miles in every direction, opening up like a panorama to the gaze the Valley of the Schuylkill, Lebanon Valley and the mountains of the Lehigh. It is worth a trip over the road for comparison with our own mighty Switchback, if not nothing else, though we claim that nowhere in the world is the scenery equal to our own beautiful valley with its towering mountains and a hundred and one nooks and delts with purling brooks and cascades.

A COLLEGE MAN'S STRANGE CAREER.

Violent in the Life of a Man Who Was Convicted in Missouri.

John R. Duffin, who died at the Philadelphia hospital, and whose body was cremated at the Missouri Crematory, was well known at Belleville, and seems from his own statements while there to have had a very eventful life.

Duffin, whose real name was Hamlet Shakespeare Felton, was released from the penitentiary at Chester, Pa., Feb. 23, 1890, upon a pardon issued by Governor Fifer, having been sentenced to that institution by the circuit court of St. Clair county, April 6, 1889, for twelve years for forgery. Duffin made his appearance at Summitville, a little town in the northeastern part of St. Clair county, in the fall of 1879, and secured work as a farm laborer.

His intelligence and gentlemanly bearing soon gained him many friends in that locality, and it was long before he began transacting legal business, making loans, etc., for a number of the wealthy and prominent farmers at Lebanon township. On April 1, 1880, he secured a bank note at the First National Bank of Belleville, with whose officers he had become acquainted through acting as agent for the Summerfield farmers, and on April 12, 1880, he returned the note, signed by Mr. Jacob Schmidt as principal and Messrs. William R. Paulfield and Julius Winkler as securities, and got $4,000 on the note, which was drawn for $4,100, payable in four months.

The bank officials did not suspect anything wrong in the matter until two weeks had passed, and then, upon communicating with the parties whose names were on the note, they learned that the signatures were forgeries. In the meantime Duffin had fled, and though a large reward was offered for his capture, he was not apprehended till June, 1882, when he was accidentally met with in Decatur, Ill., by Mr. R. A. Winkler, of Summerfield, Ill., a son of Julius Winkler, one of the securities on the note. He was at once arrested and brought to Belleville, where he was tried April 8, 1883, and sentenced, as stated, to twelve years in the penitentiary at Chester, Ill.

Duffin made a pathetic address to the jury that convicted him, in which he said he was an orphan and was born under the English flag in Spanish waters, and had been adopted by one Randolph Duffin, who had him baptized into the Catholic Church as John Randolph Duffin, although his real name, he claims, was Hamlet Shakespeare Felton. He completed his collegiate education at Eton college, England, studied law at Harvard university, and completed his law studies at Mary's Inn, Oxford, England. He also claimed to have visited South America, China and other foreign lands, and to have been a member of Walker's filibustering expedition to Nicaragua.

While in jail at Belleville, and also while in the penitentiary, he wrote many poetic effusions to friends here and for the press. That he was talented there was no doubt among those who came in contact with him, and he protested against his conviction for forgery, and claimed that he obtained the signatures of the parties to the note by fraud. Governor Fifer granted him pardon after he had spent nearly seven years of his twelve year term, when it became evident that his conviction, with which this case he had been suffering for some months, would soon end his days.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Dangerous "Pointing."

The more prominent citizens of a small western town had come together one evening for the purpose of getting the sentiment of the community regarding the purchase of a fountain for the park in the center of the village.

Several men had expressed themselves as being in favor of the measure, when a particular elderly resident, who was always opposing the majority, rose and said in his speaking, irritable voice: "Well, gentlemen, I ain't in favor of this fountain business; no, sir, I ain't. You've went and got a park laid out that the town don't need, and now you want to spend more money on a useless old fountain. Well, now, s'peaking you got your fountain, and some day when there's a big crowd around looking at that fountain it blows up and kills four or five people, and they come on the town for damages, then where will you be with your fountain? Then you'll wish you'd never had any fountain!"—Youth's Companion.

The First Clock Turned Back.

Standard time, it seems, is not a new thing. In the twentieth chapter of II Kings it was applied to war far more than modern facility and variety. Hezekiah, who was a contemporary of Homer, was sick unto death, and was advised by the Prophet Isaiah to put his house in order. On being thus admonished Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and wept, and he cried for recovery.

Soon afterward he was assured by the prophet that the prayer had been heard, and that fifteen years would be added to his life. Hezekiah asked for a sign that he would thus happily be healed. Isaiah answered that the shadow on the sundial should be moved forward or backward ten degrees as the desired sign. And the sacred history continues thus: "10. And Hezekiah answered: 'It is a light thing for the shadow to go down ten degrees; nay, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.'"

"11. And Isaiah the prophet cried unto the Lord; and he brought the shadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the dial of Ahaz."—Jeweler's Weekly.

A Wax Figure of an Emperor Released.

There are men employed at the Eden Museum whose business it is to comb the hair of the wax figures, keep their faces and necks clean, and brush their clothing. This is supposed to be done out of business hours, but occasionally some of the helpers get caught. One of these things which some people call a funny coincidence happened the very day that this remark appeared. The young man who had charge of the crowned head wax department, without any knowledge of what was going on in Germany, went among the crowned wax heads with brush and comb.

The heads of these figures are fastened on in such a way that they can be easily removed. It was therefore a funny incident that on the day the young German emperor accepted the resignation of his old hair comb, the young man who had charge of the Museum took off the head of the young emperor to comb and brush the hair. It was still funnier when he forgot to put it back and several visitors saw the figure standing before them beheaded.—Chicago Tribune.

A Long Oil Pipe Line.

A colossal scheme has been projected for conveying petroleum in pipes from the port of Hank, on the Caspian, to Baku, on the Black sea. It has been advanced for a time as being too costly, but all the specifications have been drawn out in detail. The length of the line of piping is 497 miles, the cast iron pipes are to be eight inches in diameter, and there are to be sixty-four intermediate stations. And the pipes must be buried at a considerable depth to guard against cracking in the intense frost.—New York Telegram.

Special Important Notice.

Property holders who have not as yet made water service connections on Bank street should do so at once and save considerable in the cost of the same, from the fact that after the first of the month the water will be cut off to the plans and specifications now with the Borough Council it will necessitate increased work and naturally a considerable increase of cost. Every property holder should certainly see the direct importance of this and make the service connection now as it would certainly be objected to after the first of the month. It is recommended to have it cut up and re-laid directly according to slightly revised plans.
