EXPERT PICKPOCKETS.

LONDON SEEMS TO BE THE TRAIN-ING SCHOOL FOR THEM.

There Are 190,000 to the Big City-Ports Has a Pretty Large Crowd of Them Also-They Belong to Clubs and Have Savings Bunks of Their Own.

About a century ago Paris had only about fifty pickpockets, now the police reports show that their number has reached four thousand in the metropolis alone, and about ten thousand in the rest of France. These figures are nearly doubled at times of reviews, races popular fetes, and exhibitions by re cruits from abroad. But, singularly enough, they all come or have been trained in Great Britain. England is the cradle and hotbed of pickpockets. It is a profession as firmly established as carpentering or bricklaying; it has its apprentices, graduates, professors, experts, and commercial agents. Novices are taught to distinguish a Frenchman from a native, a Bussian from a German, a South American from an Italian;

they are made acquainted with the slight but all important differences in each nationality in the cut of the clothes, the place of the pockets, the mode of carrying jewelry, watches, purses, or loose cash.

When the pupils are supposed to have profiled sufficiently by their education, they are dispatched at Christmas time to a certain suburb of London, where they are farmed out. The agent, who has come to select a trio, puts them through their paces, and if they acquit them-selves creditably he engages them, gives Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy, a marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker Mouth, and Head-Ache. With each buttle there is an ingenious Nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 56 cents. Sold at Biery's or Thomas' drug store.

The community numbers 100,000 in their headquarters are in the obscurpurlieus of St. Giles, Whitechapel, the Minories and the low lying wharves of the Thames. It is there that they bold their meetings, organize their detach-ments, deliberate on future movements, An important discovery. They act on the liver, stomach and bowels through the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new principle. They speedly cure billousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles our billousness, bad taste, bad t quite distinct.

AT WORK IN PARIS. During their visits in Paris, although operating in common, they do not dwell together, but are scattered all over the city, meeting only to share the spoils at certain specified moments, in dark or borgne taverns and wine shops situated in the neighborhood of the Champs Elysees and the Grand Opera. The foreign, as well as the French, operators have their receiving houses, called in Paris meumers (millers), where they dispose of their gleanings, and it is a re-markable feature of these transactions that they are carried on on both sides with scrupulous fairness and honesty. A sharp and observant person might detect the pickpocket who shadows him with evil intent by the peculiar roving restlessness of the eye, of which even the most experienced ones cannot entirely divest themselves. The habit is contracted at the onset of their careers: imperative then, it becomes inveterate The pickpocket embraces at a glance the particular article in a shop window calculated to attract the passerby, the conformation of the victim's pockets, the foot passengers around him and the quarter from which his bugbear, the Bobby," is likely to appear. The English pickpocket rarely offers any opposition if caught in the act; he submits ered, as it is certain in its silently to be led off by his captor; only blister. Read proof below: silently to be led off by his captor; only women howl, thrush, sob, scratch | Da. D. J. Kennatt Conn., May 5, 90. and fight. It is the characteristic na-tional coolness and lack of emotional irritability that contribute more than any physical aptitude to make the Brit-ish pickpocket facile princeps in his art, and an object of envy and admiration to members of the professions in other countries. THE FRENCH WAY. In each country the profession retains its own particular methods. The Spaniard, like the South American, does not attempt to operate save in a tolerably thick crowd; the Italian works generally only on ladies, and badly, because he is too precipitate: the Turk is fearless, awkward, audacious, and even in the clutches of the police, with one hand pinioned, attempts to steal with the other. The French make a specialty of "recognition," which is effected by one pal affecting to recognize in some innocent, rustic looking individual a relation If you want to do good, open your eyes, or her neck; while the error is explained and spologies offered the deed is done by an associate. The most dangerous of that species is the becotouse, usually a young and very pretty girl, who rushes in a the arms of a benevolent old man, kisses him on both cheeks and calls him " vacle," a relationship he will have good came to remember, as it has cost him all his portable property.

The utter carelessness of the public We are most in communion with God facilitates the operations of the pick-when we are most anxious to be like His pockets to a degree which has often alicited from them expressions of wither ing contempt. To supplement the legend which bids people beware of them, the authorities would do well to affix a few simple rules, the observance of which would be an effective protection.—Lon- Prof. ALEXANDER BOUDROU don Cor. A BARRIER BETWEEN THEM.

Hostile Neighbors in Africa Who Mays Established a No Man's Land. A little British expedition recently steamed far up the Benna branch of the Niger river in a small stoom launch, and ally entered a tributacy of the Benuand explored a region which no white man has ever visited before. The most interesting thing alon: their journey was the curious experience they had with the natives. They had been pussing for a good while through a region that was inhabited by Mozlem blacks, fruits of the rather severe methods of conversion employed by the Arab invaders of the Soudan. The country was very fertile, and the people were numerous; but all of a sudden, though the country still wore its usual aspect, and the soil was apparently rich, population entirely ceased. For a stretch of over twenty miles not a hut was to be seen, nor way a single sign of human life anywhere ob The expedition wondered at this remarkable state of affairs, for the country was certainly inviting, and they could not imagine why it had no inhal

All at once, however, as they rounded a bend in the river they saw big crowd of natives running down the slopes o the hill to the bank. They brandishe their spears at the white men on the lit tle boat, and told them to go back, for they wanted no Moslems in their country. There was an interpreter on th vessel, who succeeded in convincing the natives that the visitors were not Moslems, and thereupon the people became quite friendly.

Then the reason for this cursous lack of population was ascertained. When the tribes who had been converted to Islam found the natives near them were just as strong as they were, the spread of their religion in that direction abruptly ceased, but these heathen people and the Moslem converts near them could not live at peace with one another. It was finally decided that as they could not be good neighbors, a stretch of country should be placed between them where no one should live, and in that way they expected to get along with less bloodshed.

So all the people who inhabited this fertile region, about twenty miles wide, packed up their little belongings and moved away, and the stretch of country thus came to be without a single inhabitant. Today it is a No Man's Land and the only reason is that the people who are neighbors there cannot live on friendly terms, and, having tired of fighting, have put this barrier between them. - Boston Herald.

Freak of a Somnambulist. A young man who is well known in this city had an unpleasant experience a short time ago. He is a somnambulist and often does peculiar things in his sleep. He went to visit some friends in Waterbury, and as he was not in the habit of retiring as early as the members of the family he was visiting, he remained up and took his shoes off before ascending the stairs.

A few nights after his return to his ome he lay down on a lounge and fell asleep. After sleeping soundly a half hour he arose, walked to the foot of the stairs, took off his shoes, and not being content with doing that, he drew off his stockings also. He then clambered upstairs to his room. Taking a match from his pocket he brought one of his feet up so that he could reach the bottom of it, and then deliberately scratched the match on the flat surface.

The match did not light immediately, but he kept on scratching. Finally the match did light. The holder was unconscious of the fact and kept on scratching. Suddenly he awoke in great pain from the burn. He limped about for several days, and since that time questions about the proper mode of lighting a match have been distasteful to him.-New Haven Palladium.

About Thunder Clouds. Among the earliest symptoms of the approach of a thunder storm is the apsearance on the western horizon of a line of cumulus ("wool pack") clouds, exhibiting a peculiar turreted structure. say on the western horizon, for most f our changes of weather come from that quarter, and it has been proved that thunder storms, like wind storms, ad tarrb, Cold in the Head, Deatness, Hay vance over the country generally from some westerly point. This bank of clouds moves on, and over it appear first streamers and then sheets of lighter upper clouds (cirrus, or "mare's tail") which clouds (cirrus, or "mare's tail") which spread over the sky with extreme rapidity. The heavy cloud mass comes up onder this film, and it is a general observation that no electric explosion or 2-1-one year. lownfall of rain ever takes place from a doud unless streamers of cirrus emanat ing from its upper surface are visible when the cloud is looked at sideways

If Men's Muscles Were Like June Bug's. A gentleman residing on the west side noticed a very large June bug flying around his plazza and proceeded to capture it. He placed the captive under a heavy glass tumbler which rested on a newspaper, expecting to examine the insect a little later in the evening when he had leisure. On returning to the table where he had placed the bug, some half hour later, he found that it had moved the tumbler nearly a foot by placing its head against the side of the glass and pushing it along. In order to be certain that the glass had been moved by the captive, he carefully marked its position on the newspaper with a pencil, and at the expiration of another quarter of an hour found it had been moved nearly five inches. As the nebing or bleeding, and long standing cases tumbler weighed at least fifty times as Has never failed.
