"Talking about that apology for a smoke the Pittsburg stogic reminds me of a peculiar experience I had with that article come years ago," said an old time cigar drammer at the Continental hotel. "I was traveling for a Philadelphia house that made a fine line of goods only, and had met only with indifferent success. I was looking forward to Pittsburg as a kind of El Dorsdo, and im agined sales of great magnitude in the Smoky City. "I arrived in the evening and immediately started out to interview the trade. About the first place I struck was a prosperous looking cigar store, but I noticed that among the stock the stogic seemed to predominate. I presented my card to the proprietor, talked up my stock and firm to him in great shape, but did not seem to be making any great headway.

The proprietor assured me that he was full up, but said he would look over my samples the following morning if I would step in. While I was talking to him and endeavoring to prolong the conversation, a gentleman walked in who immediately impressed me as being one of the solid men of the town. He had that unmistakable sleek and well fed at of for-tune's favorite. Walking up to the counter he selected four stogies and lighted one, laid down a five cent piece and walked out.

"'Do you know who that is?' asked the proprietor of me. I replied in the negative. 'Why, that's Phipps, Andrew Carnegie's partner, was the astounding assertion. I was completely flabber-gasted. That was the nutest and yet the most convincing argument I ever had to withstand. Without a word I closed up my grips and took the next train out of town. I had come to the very natural conclusion that if men worth $20,000,000 took their mnokes at four for five I did not stand much show with the plebeian smokers."-Philadelphia Enquirer.

The cultivation of walking sticks for the market has been taken up as a business at some places in continental Europe, and special attention is often paid to mak-ing the roots grow into shapely forms for the handles. A London manufacturing establishment, the floor space of which covers nearly an acre, has extensive storehouses filled with native and foreign sticks, from which stock is drawn as it is wanted from the shops.

The sticks as they grow are often very ooked and have to be straightened. A hesp of sand is provided on the top of a bot stove, into which the sticks are plunged until they become pliable.

The workman takes the crooked stick while it is still hot and inserts it in a notch cut in a stout board, placed at an angle inclined from him, where he bends and strains it. When it has become per feetly straight it is thrown down to cool, after which it becomes rigid and permanent in its lines. Heat is an important element in this matter and produces different effects on the several kinds of wood, the degree of heat neces-sary to straighten one kind of stick being often sufficient to spoil another kind.

The same power which makes a crooked stick straight is applied to make a straight one crooked; so we find that the rigid stems of bamboos, partridge canes, and all the various kinds of sticks that are required to be curled or twisted are by the application of heat made to assume almost any shape or form.— Youth's Companion.

One of the district messenger boys un-dertook a novel task Sunday afternoon. He was called to a Franklin street house, where he found a woman with a haby.
"I am going to take haby to the park for an airing," she said. "My maid has gone home sick, and I want you to go with me to carry the baby. You can do it well enough if you only think so." The boy did not think so at all, but he had no way out of it, and for three hours he bore the infant until he feared that his arms would come out of their sockets. "Don't gimme no mere calls to that house," he said, when he reported as headquarters. "I couldn' stan' two times o' that."—Buffalo Courier.
