They were taking stock account this week at Josiah Ruth's general store, on the east side, preparatory to the new firm of Krammer & Leary, the new business. The new firm are a team of hustlers and will undoubtedly make things hum in that neighborhood. We wish you luck, any how.

Mary Ann, wife of Gideon Zimmerman, died Thursday last at the good old age of 63 years after suffering for some months with a dropsical affection. Her funeral took place Sunday morning from Ebenezer Evangelical church, Rev. I. J. Reitz officiating. Deceased leaves a husband and two grown children.

The entertainment of the Choral Society of the Evangelical church, in that edifice Monday evening, was largely attended. The program as published by the "Stroller" last week was excellently well recited, each participant winning due appreciation for merit. The Choral Society should soon give another entertainment.

A Facwell Tokes.

Albert Claus, with Cole Bros. & Co. for the past ten years, has resigned his position in the mining department, the vacancy to be filled by Ezra S. Weirich. Mr. Claus takes position with Leisenring & Co., at Wilburton, near Mt. Carmel, as general book-keeper and paymaster. His friends in the department which he filled so admirably for so many years, concluding on Saturday evening to do him an honor and show their appreciation. Consequently they had a caterer Charles Danbach prepare a tempting lunch and W. J. Gray manufacture an elegant gold headed cane. At about 5:30 o'clock that evening his friends in this department of C. B. & Co., in which he was employed, assembled and had a committee usher Mr. Claus into their presence. Upon sitting around the spread, Mr. P. M. Boggs made the toast and sayings were both fitting and appropriate. The lunch was served and all enjoyed this part of the occasion by freely indulging in the temptations set before them. Intermingled with speech making, stories and sayings. At 11:30 the affair came to a close, all wishing the guest of the evening every good thing imaginable. —Freeland Progress.

In a New Dress.

The CARBON ADVOCATE, published at Lehighton, is out in a handsome new dress. The ADVOCATE is a most excellent paper, read by a large patronage and is as well edited and managed. Long may it live.—Allentown Critic.

Please Remember It.

Those of our subscribers who intend to change their place of residence this spring should apprise us of the fact as early as possible, so that we may know how to direct their paper that they may receive it promptly at their new homes. Persons ordering their addresses changed should be particular in mentioning the office to which their papers are now sent, as well as the one to which they are to be directed in the future. By so doing they will save us much trouble.

From a Former Lehightonian.

A letter from our young friend Fred Louckel, of Aspen, Col., dated March 15, says, among other interesting things, that present Aspen is not a town, although the name still looks much more encouraging than has been the case for the past six months. For the last six weeks or two months, no snow and a great deal of snow, the thermometer ranging as low as 25 and 30 below and not long since it was 12 below zero, now it is quite below zero, and it may be all day, of course it was St. Patrick's Day and I suppose it could not do otherwise. My regards and best wishes to you all, and the ADVOCATE may grow and prosper as it deserves to do.

Ladies from all over the county buy at Miss Graver's popular millinery establishment because she has the largest assortment of all the new, nice and beautiful things in his line to select from.

A COLUMN OF JUMBLES.

Original and Chipped. Little Matters of Interest that are Worth the Reading.

Beaver Meadow has a dramatic club. They're happy!

The "Barryville" mine is being rebuilt after being washed out by the high water of a few weeks ago.

Some of Lansford's people are running over with joy to the Supreme Court, which has established the county court in the town has three wards.

John Cannon, twenty-five years of age was killed in the Evans Col. Contest by a bullet from the rifle of a member of the county court, Monday by a huge fall of top rock.

Patrick McKabe who died recently at Buffalo, was buried at Allentown by the delegation of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen of Buffalo attended the remains.

Nathan Steiner, a well-to-do farmer of Steelersville, will probably prove the old Eichenberger farm of which he is the owner, by erecting necessary out buildings.

Gov. Bernard Reber who up to two years ago was in charge of St. Mary's Catholic church, Beaver Meadow, died Sunday at Philadelphia. He was 82 years of age.

Counterfeit two dollar bills with the head of Gen. McClellan on them are dangerously numerous. They are well concealed but it is difficult to distinguish them from the genuine.

In Townsensing township on Friday last, Mrs. Sallie Ann Berger, died at the age of 63 years. Interment took place in Kankelton Monday. Deceased leaves a husband and grown up children.

Another rich vein of metallic paint ore has been located in the Rutherford mine on the Millport creek, Townsensing, and is now being worked by Wilson Klins, who has contracted with the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Daniel Anthony, just across the line in Monroe county, has perfected all the necessary improvements for a first-class hotel and will soon launch in this business if the Monroe county court grant him a license.

The tables of H. J. Dausler in Beaver Run are being supplied with water from a spring fifteen hundred feet distance from the building. John Ackor, of Lehighton, is laying the pipe from the spring to the building.

The Millport Slate Company, of Millport, have resumed operations. A large new engine has been placed in position, the water has been run from the flooded parts of the quarry and business operations are booming.

Holy Communion will be celebrated in the Townsensing Reformed church, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Confirmation on Saturday morning previous, when a class of forty will be received into the church, by the pastor, Rev. T. A. Huber.

Berlin & Kresge, general merchants, of Kresgeville, have dissolved partnership. The store business will be conducted by Mr. Berlin, and Squire Kresge retires to private farm life and to occupy a newly finished and handsome apartment residence.

Train No. 23, drawn by engine 653, of Gus Hatch, of Easton, engine, crashed into Wyoming freight engine 381 in Lehighton yard Saturday night. The freight engine was standing on a trestle over the Lehigh Valley tracks, and upon the collision occurred. Both engines were badly damaged. No one injured.

A couple of young fellows, said to hail from Bowmanstown, and claiming to be detectives, recently flocked Jool Kresge, a farmer, living near Kresgeville, out of $125. This had been the work of the two fellows, who had to be taken to the police station and the young chicks are likely to find it a hard job to extricate themselves from the trouble they have gotten into.

The household of James A. Reiber, in Mahoning township, was being sadly afflicted within the two weeks past. First a young daughter was badly wounded by a fall from the stairs, and then another child and finally by the demise of two more from diphtheria, who were buried on Saturday.

Our exchanges are warning their readers to look out for a gang of men traveling around the country making contracts for painting roofs. If they are to point your roof for $5 or any price, don't fail to ask them how much they charge for the paint they put on your roof. It is the price of the paint where the fraud exists.

Hasco Frinko, one of the survivors of the Johnsonville mine horror, was discharged from the hospital some days ago. Since then he has been feasted by his friends, and the high living proved too much for Frinko's stomach in his weakened condition. He has been removed to the hospital.

Boat owners are preparing their craft for an early resumption of business on the canal, the water having already been let into some of the levels. The return of the boating season is the return of scenes of stir and business along the canal. It will be a long time to again see the tow boat traversing the old Lehigh; it drives away the monotony of a view of the river in winter and makes one glad at the return of spring.

THE END OF JUSTICE.

William Oates Stangley the "Bovender" is a well known and successful lawyer in a family for his crime in our county prison.

During the early part of the month of October, in the year 1880, William Oates Stangley aged 31 years, a native of Lehigh county, brutally murdered his man servant, Mrs. Sarah Walbert, of Weathersville. The murderer was captured the same day and placed in our county prison, and after giving a trial at which the jury of his peers found him guilty to the death penalty, and was executed by hanging on the gallows in the city of Lehigh, Pa., on the 5th day. Following the verdict, the defense immediately moved for a new trial, but it was denied and later Governor Reber leaving the Executive Chair the death warrant was issued.

In his last days Stangley maintained the same attitude, indicating no relenting as characterized his actions throughout his trial and during the time of his confinement. He did not seem to be a brute, but a cold, calculating, person of a high standing, with thick, expanded nostrils and low, retreating forehead and deep set eyes he lacked any human feeling and he seemed to be in good health. Before leaving his cell he had written a letter to his wife and in the always indifferent manner common to him. The next we see of him is Thursday morning when he stands in the Lehigh county jail, ready for the execution. He is the same person we see in the morning his spiritual advisors, the Rev. Mr. Fox and Landenstuth with several others who in his cell, which had been removed to a place opposite the Lehigh Valley depot, until 10:55 there was singing, praying and the observance of the holy sacrament. Stangley mounted the steps without a tremor, and after prayer was offered, following which his arms and legs were manacled and he spoke to the five or six hundred people assembled in the jail, to the effect: "I have lived a life of sin and in the morning of my life, I have followed the light from a single window streaming in upon him. He is the same person we see in the morning his spiritual advisors, the Rev. Mr. Fox and Landenstuth with several others who in his cell, which had been removed to a place opposite the Lehigh Valley depot, until 10:55 there was singing, praying and the observance of the holy sacrament.
