

PAPER.
I am a fine example of modern man's ability to combine the best of both worlds, and fill them with a fine variety of...
From straw or wood or fibrous plant of every known variety.
The business man's word by me whenever your mill's collectible.
The lovers are me lavishly for Miletto-doux delectable.
Your grocer or your butcher wraps his wares in my paper.
And as his boy delivers goods he winks at his own Mary Ann.
They put me up in every style, and every shade and quality.
To suit the staid, prosaic man, or fads of gay frivolity.
The world has come to know me, and I'm really indispensable.
To every man and woman, the rightly and the suitable.
The new would be unimpaired if I were not for my utility.
But I'm not done with you, and I carry with me my little book of facts, and I'll carry with me my little book of facts, and I'll carry with me my little book of facts.

RATS.
BY MATTIE M'CASLAND.
In a small, messy furnished room in the third story of a tenement building, Professor Carl Swartz, teacher of German, and French, as his modest sign on the outside door indicated, sat in a dejected attitude. One slim hand supported his blonde head; the abundant yellow curls shaded a face that was thin to attention and everything around betokened extreme poverty.

The capital of the company is to be 20,000,000 francs (about $4,000,000), and its immediate object will be to connect the Somali and Zanzibar coasts by a line of Italian steamers, so as to be independent of English enterprise.

He Was One of the One.
An African traveler was returning to a company his hairbreadth escapes in the jungle and savanna about the great equatorial lake region. He had encountered there, he said, the most savage and bloodthirsty race of men in the world.
"As we were marching," the traveler related, "from Ngonjo to Gohango we suddenly found ourselves in the midst of a most terrible and desperate combat. And what odd! Ten to one!"
"Were you one of the ten?" asked a bystander.
"Sir," said the explorer, grandiloquently, "I wish you to understand that I was one of the one!"

Absentminded Maine Women.
An absentminded woman in this town started down street the other day and slipped and fell flat. In recovering herself she got turned around and returned back home. She is a cousin to a woman who started to prepare the evening meal recently, when she succeeded, and upon recovering thought she was "doing up" the supper dishes. She put every thing away nicely and sat down for a quiet evening.

MEXICANS ALL GAMBLE.
It is the ruling passion in Mexico, and even children indulge in it.
"Gambling is the ruling passion in Mexico," said Charles E. H. Engling, of the City of Mexico, who was a Palmer House guest, while on his way to New York.
"Every one, from children 10 and 12 years of age to old men and women, indulge in it. Every member of every village of society tries to win the favor of the fickle goddess Fortune, for gambling is not looked upon by Mexicans as a most glaring vice, as it is by Northerners. The former are more lenient in the matter of public morals. Each saloon has various games of chance, but the whir of the wheel and the click of the ball one notes after passing various zealous guards in the resorts of your city are seldom heard there. Monte is the national Mexican game, as faro and poker are the American, and rouge et noir and baccarat the French. Monte tables are run within sight of the passers by; of course these, which I now speak are the public games wherein all who wish may participate. Private games of monte are quite common in some of the homes of the wealthiest citizens of the balmy country. Poker is also a very popular game, and the stakes are frequently very high."
As one to whom I am often invited to these and other games of chance, and each one is a shrewd and calculating player. This quartet is composed of father, mother, son, and daughter. Of course the stakes for which they play are only enough to make it interesting, but the fact remains that the parents encourage more or less the youthful members of the family in the fascinating pastime. But instead of looking at the matter in the light of a more rigid discipline, the father, a well-to-do merchant, often speaks of the clever way in which his daughter—or son, as the case may be—"called his bluff," and his wife proudly exhibits a dazzling pair of diamond earrings she won from him with a ten big bluff.
In alleys, upon street corners, in old buildings, and in every accessible place, street boys and girls can be found playing with some device for gambling. To take gambling from Mexicans would mean to deprive them of their most fascinating pastime.—Chicago News.

Change of climate.
Kill more people than is generally known. Particularly in this case in instances where the constitution is delicate, and among our insular population seeking new homes in those portions of the West, and where malarial and typhoid fevers prevail at certain seasons of the year. The best preventive for a change of climate, or of diet and water which change necessitates, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which not only fortifies the system against malarial, a variable temperature, damp, and the debilitating effects of tropical heat, but it is also the best remedy for constipation, dyspepsia, liver complaint, bilious troubles, especially apt to attack emigrants and visitors to regions near the equator, mariners and tourists. Whether used as a safeguard by sea voyagers, travelers by land, miners, or agriculturists in newly populated districts, this fine specific has effected the most favorable testimony.

Texas has a Hog for Governor, a Pig for Judge, a Lamb for Senator, a Durham for representative and a Buffalo for Sheriff: Texas is a great stock State.
