The Richest European Sovereign. The exar of Russia is the richest sover-eign in Europe and one of the richest men in the world. The income of the imperial family of Russia is derived from the rown lands, which are regarded as the czar's private estate and treated as such They comprise over 1,000,000 square miles, about one-third of the area of the United States, and include farms, posture or grazing land, and forests, while hundreds of villages are built on them, the inhabitants of which pay their rout to the care. Many gold, silver, and other mines are included in the crown property, and he output of these is believed to be very There are no means of ascertainthe exact income of the czar, since imperial accounts are not more open to the public than the books of a privat-individual, but It is estimated by Rusans in official position at £2,450,000 car, about $12,250,000. Of this enor mous sum a portion is devoted to the maintenance of hospitals, asylum-churches, and theaters, but the larger part is swallowed up by the personal and official expenses of the imperial family. —[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Boath to the Vice Presidency. The fact that the present the Vice Presidency of the Republic is the only living man who has ever hold that office is remarkable. The few Amer-ican Presidents that remain (three in number) is in itself singular, but that of the seven Vice Presidents of the last 8 years (that being the period for which those have been elected who live and-ceeded Hamibal Hamilin) there is but one aurylvor, and he the man latest chosen, is almost appalling. athletics. They must not—they simply must not appear sick. They must have a line color, bright eyes, glossy halr, round elbows, and a long, swinging gait that is half a dog trot, or some one may be led to think that they are not marvels of strength and robustness.

"Does this yellow dress make me look pale or sick?" asked one girl of another in the street last week. "When the sun shines upon me I fancy that the yellow of my dress makes my complexion appear bad. Now notice particularly when we come to the next open space between the ses, and tell me honestly if you think I look the least bit sallow.

What shall you do with the dress, if "Why, throw it away, or put it away, or give it away, or do something else with it, of course. I couldn't afford, for the sake of my position in society, to wear anything that makes me appear in deli-cate health. I shouldn't be invited anywhere. It wouldn't do at all, you know it really wouldn't do. It is so out of style

And so the girls to insure the health which is now so necessary to their social standing have provided themselves with chatelains upon which hang half a dozen boxes of gold or silver, set with jewels and in which is a collection of medicine, tonics, and more or less stimulating drups. A gold chatelaine with six or even gold bottles or boxes hanging thererom containing quinine capsules war runted to hold the pangs of la grippe at bay, digestion tablets, laxative losenges, orgative pellets, cough drops, silver oated peppermint cachons, glycerine ubes, and a variety of toole pills to keep the system in general good order.

And so, the girls of to-day, besides doing everything else for herself, has taken the reins of her own physical system in on, or the left, never mind the other.

Some of them say, I'm afraid I have a that she knows what is what, and how to take care of each individual ill.

How to Ruin Your Boys. 1. If a boy does his work thoroughly and well, give him harder work. If he does not do this thoroughly, tell him it is his own fault, and that he is growing both stupid and idle.

2. Impress upon him daily that the object of school work is to do better than some other boy, or to appear to do so.

3. Do not allow the use of cribs, but ignore their use.

4. When a boy can do his mathemati cal work better than other boys of his age, tell him that he should also be able to do his classical work better (his mathematical faculty will enable him to see he force of this rensoning).

5. Tell every boy that he ought to spend three bours on his evening lessons, ut tell his father that they should only ake an hour and a half, 6. If a boy sends in better work that you expect from him, tell him that he ought to have sent in better work before 7. Always tell every boy in the clar-bat he ought to be higher up than he is. These rules, if fully and envefully enried out, will turn bright boys into dull ones in a short time, and successfully confuse their ideas of right and wrong, -[Journal of Education.

The Stellians Among Us. An Italian ethnologist, in speaking of ne peculiarities of the Sicilians, says: There can be no doubt that there is a unic strain in the blood of the Sicilian cools. In ancient times the island of Multa, which was long held by the Car-thaginians, was the half way station be-tween Carthage and Sielly, and Sir George Sowen has recently shown that the Malese are about the last surviving remnant of the Cardiaginian branch of the old Phoenician people. The base of the Mal-tese language as spoken to-day is Cartha-ginian, which was spoken by the father

Bricks of Coal Dust. Coal screenings and dust too fine to urn are largely used for fuel in Europe and Australia in the form of bricquette r small blocks, the coal dust being mixed ith some sticky substance to facilitate molding. This idea has been experi-mented with in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania, and a Philadelphia company has recently completed a plant for the purpose in Milwaukee. Anthracite dust is used, and the process consists in drying the screenings and then mixing hem with a composition which makes a ticky pasts. This pasty mass is run through slowly revolving presses and shaped into eggs. At each revolution 500 of these fuel eggs are rolled out upon the onveyors and dumped into the storage

Zone System in Ireland. The zone system of passenger fares, which started in Hungary, and has also been successfully applied in Austria, has been adopted by the Cork, Blackrock and Passago Railway Company, in Ireland, for service between Cork and Orombayer and Afghada, two popular pleasure resorts in the harbor. Instead of 150 kinds of tickets formerly required there are now only eight, and the new rates of fare are about 30 per cent lower than the former tariff.

Yet it is not fair to accuse the Jews, as a class, of Nihillam, without studying the Russo-Hebraw question, The St. Petersburg government appointed a commission to btain accurate information about the Jewish population, and some reports of that commission have already been bunded to the chancellor. The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Parisian news-paper Le Temps, having possessed him self of some of the figures and conclusions of this report, has sent them to that paper. These show that in the 15 governments or provinces of Russia where Hebrews are permitted to live there are 293,507 Jews following manual or industrial eccupations. There are, consequently, in Russia, a proportionately erger number of Jews than of Christians exercising an "Industrial trade,"—

"remesslenniks" is the word in the official reports, signifying those who work at a manual trade. The statistics also show that the Hebrews in Russia support willingly the military charges imposes on every cittizen; for during the period 1875-1886, out of 740,104 men durited for military service, there were 37,233 Jews, thus the number of Rebrews who go through military service is equal propor tionately to that of the non Jewish population, and this in a country which only grants them very restricted rights. The report of this commission, when published, will, perhaps, do away with the

If yon have one, the money's for yon. But you can't know whether you have one, till you've tried Dr. Sage's Remedy. What's incurable by any other means, yields to that. By its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, it cures the worst cases, no matter of how long standing That's the reason the money can be offered. There's a risk about it, to be sure. But it's so small that the proprietors are willing to take it. The symptoms of catarrh are, headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometharges falling into throat same and the same and the same are same as a second same and the same are same as a second sa times profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid and offen-sive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility.
