These crossings, appropriately styled 'flying bridges' by early Chinese writ-ers, are high and dangurous looking in the extreme. At the present day a bridge may still be seen in the Shense which is 400 feet long and is stretched over a chasm more than 1,000 feet deep. How those early engineers precide such a structure with the tools and appliances at their command is a mystery which will probably never be explained.—St. Louis Republic. Sypsy Seperstillon About Witches. Dypey Seperstition Almost Witebes. Those people who suffer from a witch fall into a kind of lycasithropy. They are characterized by a pale, surken countemney, hollow, mournful eves, avcollon lips and flabby, listless arms. At night they often charge themselves into wolves and do great harm. Trans-taring into dogs, they must accompany the witches on their nightly furnys.— Philadelphin Ledger.
