Master Hand, with Characters That Appeal to All, Are Fast Disappearing from Old Lesiden—Black Horse.

Ere long another of the fast vanishing localities, peopled by the gentias of the master novelist with characters more real to us in some respects than their present inhabitants, will be necession. Entering Limonin's inn fields from Great Queen street, turn to the right, pause at 55, and picture Mr. Tulkinghern emerging one evening from clumbers where "lawyurs lie like maggots in nuts." Imagine him walking through the innessing bemeath its ancient Tulor gateway, and visiting Mr. Snagaby, the law stationer in Cook's court, Curstion street, with a view of ascertaining where Nome the mystelfions law writer, lives.

A little to the south of Old Boildings, on the west side of Chancery lane, are Bishop's court and Chickester Rents, the latter approached through a tunneled passage alongside the Three Tuns pullte house. To the Rents came the "two gentlemen, not very neat about the cuffs and buttoms," who instituted the cuffs and buttoms, who instituted the cuffs and buttoms, who instituted for I was literally bushed, lead and

She lived in a pretty large room, from which she had a glimpse of the roof of Lincoln's Inn hall; the new one, be it remembered, for the old hall is entirely shut out from view by the tall homes in old buildings.

It is during the visit that the poor little creature draws aside the curtain of the long, low garret window and calls attention to a number of bird cages hanging there, whose occupants Lady Jane, the cat, is forever striving to describe the cast, is forever striving to describe the cast.
