No fleet of canoes could safely pass the stockade by day. The importance of the place was so well rec-ognized that Mr. Clark held a colonial mission as major and the stockade officially styled Fort Clark.

The children of the fort made no dis-tinction between white and black. The little Clarks, Sanborns, Tanuys and Marsdens played with the little Quahees, Cushees and Gambas upon terms they come, resting here like birds of passage for a time, till, moving ever southward with the current, they become merged with the cosmopolitan population of the Crescent City, hundreds of miles below, even as the waters of the Mississippi become lost in the great Gulf of Mexico.

There is but little doubt that the dweller in the Mississippi houseboat has successfully solved the problem of living on next to nothing. Believing that the river is free, and that it owes him a living, the waif of the father of BR. C. W. F. SAVING, M. DICKER'S THEATER, EMICAGO 41 owner, but in the case of the houseboat dweller this is rarely enforced. For fuel he catches the driftwood brought down by the river or gathers that which ac-cumulates along the bank. His princi-pal article of food is fish, for which he turns once more to the river, and from its yellow boson draws the juicy cat-flah, the buffalo, the perchand mannersity. These are refugees from the flooded districts of the upper Missisippi, who have been rendered homeless by freshers.

coned Major Allatt warms us against some stories regarding long flights by trained pigeons which have been put forth on pigeons which have been put forth on high authority. It was at his sugges-tion that an apocryphal tale of pigeons-sent out to and returning from the arctic regions, which has even been imposed upon Yarrell, was expunged from the last edition of that writer's "British Birds." An equally false account of a pigeon Bying 1,500 miles in America is HEAD also extant.

Major Allatt believes the greatest distance pigoons have flown of which we have any accurate record is in the races which have taken piece two or three times from Rome to Belgium, a distance of between 800 and 900 miles. But in every one of these cases a very large proportion of birds have been lost.—London News. ACHE
