Ex-Premier Mercier Discusses the Question of Independence.

ANNEXATION WOULD SOON FOLLOW

Ye Believes That England Would Interpose no Objections Should Canadians Ask to be Absolved from Crown Control—Arguments for Annexation.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Ex-Premier Honore Mercier, of Quebec, and J. C. Langelier, late assistant minister of the province of Quebec, arrived in Washington yesterday. Mr. Mercier said that he was on a pleasure tour, and that annexation or other political measures had nothing to do with his presence at the capital. In response to a request for his views upon annexation Mr. Mercier said:

"I can speak for the province Quebec alone. There is with us a strong feeling for annexation under certain conditions. The dominating sentiment, however, is for a separation from England and a complete Canadian independence.

"While there are many strong arguments in favor of annexation our independence comes first. It is, in fact, easier to secure independence than annexation. Annexation must be conducted by treaty, and now England would conduct the negotiations. England would necessarily look after England's interest first, but there is no agreement we could negotiate on our own be[half]."

"Do you think that England would oppose your independence?"

"No; I do not. I believe that if Canada should ask England to be absolved from the crown control our request would be granted. Once our independence is gained we would then consider the advisability of union with the United States.

"During my recent visit in England I talked with many Englishmen upon the question of our independence. The general sentiment of the Liberal party was that we should have it. Many Conservatives, too, expressed the same views.

"There are many cogent reasons for annexation, including the commercial benefits ensuing. Now a Canadian must pay $30 and then 30 per cent. upon the value of a horse before he can ship it into the United States. This is merely an example. Again, there are a million French Canadians, or about one-half of the entire race, at present in the United States."

VICTIMS OF THE STORM.

Great Damage to Property by the Force of the Wind.

SEVERAL FATALITIES REPORTED.

Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Nebraska, Indiana and Illinois Visited by the Mighty Blast, which Left Death and Destruction in its Path.

HIGGINSVILLE, Mo., April 13.—This county was visited on Tuesday by a terrific wind storm which swept everything before it, from the southwest part of the county to the northeast line. Near Page City six deaths have so far been reported. Will Walker, a prosperous young farmer, was at the supper table with his wife and three children when his brick house was blown over, completely burying him and all the children. His wife extricated herself and with great difficulty released him. They were unable to rescue two of the children, who were smothered in the debris. The third is fearfully mangled. The wife of J. W. Hutchison, an aged farmer in the same neighborhood, was killed and his house destroyed. Mrs. A. Y. Luke and brother were killed outright and their barns terribly wrecked. Further on Captain Todhunter's barns were demolished and a small negro girl killed on his farm. There are numerous reports and rumors about deaths at Dover and Waverly, but nothing authentic can be secured. In Lafayette county four persons are reported killed. Seven or eight farm houses were totally destroyed. At Rolla ten dwelling houses and barns were blown down. Parker, a hamlet ten miles west of Independence, was almost destroyed. Many houses were completely leveled. The loss of life is believed to be great. At Mayview, several houses were blown down and it is believed several people were killed. The cyclone swept the country northwest of Stanberry. The path of the cyclone was two miles wide. Four farm houses were leveled and other damage done. Several people were killed, among them Mrs. Ward. Her husband and John Shelton were fatally injured. An unknown woman was also crushed to death. Most of the people saw the cyclone coming in time to get in their cyclone cellars. The loss will aggregate thousands of dollars.

The Damage in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—Pierce storms of wind and rain swept over Kansas and Missouri Tuesday afternoon and night, doing an incalculable amount of damage and causing the loss of many lives. In Kansas the town of Parker was laid waste, nearly every house in the place being more or less wrecked, but no lives were lost and few persons were injured. It was also reported that the towns of Willis, Everest and Powhattan were laid waste, but this proved not to be the case, though considerable damage was done. Near Garnet the houses of Walter Hawley and Henry Dykes were completely demolished, but no one was injured. At Walnut many houses were wrecked and several persons injured. The worst is feared from the surrounding country. At Hiawatha a fierce wind crushed in weak store fronts and awnings and threw over outhouses and chimneys. At Powhattan Peter Hoskinson was struck on the head by a flying timber and knocked senseless. At Robinson Owen Pelton was instantly killed by lightning. Much stock was killed by the storm, barns were laid low and hay stacks scattered. Fruit trees were broken and twisted, but they had not yet budded, and there is still promise of plenty.

In Texas and Nebaska.

ALBANY, TEX., April 13.—A terrific wind and hail storm swept over western TEXAS, laying waste everything in its path. Whole farms, orchards and small grain crops were completely ruined. LINCOLN, Neb., April 13.—Aside from the partial wrecking of the village of Page, in the northern part of the state, no great damage resulted from the storm of Tuesday night. Geneva, the county seat of Fillmore county, suffered the partial demolition of one or two buildings, but no one was injured.

In Indiana and Illinois.

CHICAGO, April 13.—In Illinois a terrific wind, rain and hail storm passed over Rockford, doing much damage in that vicinity. It verged close on a cyclone, breaking windows, tearing up trees and turning over barns and small buildings. At Jacksonville all the streams in the vicinity are out of their banks and bridges are washed away, while fences are floating down stream in confusion. Trees and buildings have also suffered, and many cattle were killed by lightning. In Indiana a terrific wind storm passed over Terre Haute, and did many thousand dollars worth of damage in the city and vicinity. Twenty iron columns of the Vandalia train sheds were blown down and the stone foundation uprooted. At Kokomo the machinery and boiler rooms of the American Straw Board mills were demolished and Robert Douglass, an employe, was crushed to death in the debris. Other workmen had narrow escapes. The building is a complete wreck.

Michigan Catches It, Too.

The arrangement entered to contemplates the arrest of a Chinese laborer in New York for violation of the terms of the law requiring registration, a prompt decision in the lower courts and an appeal to the supreme court of the United States, which may be heard of May 8. If the program be carried out the decision will be rendered by the middle of May, at which time the court expects to adjourn sine die for the term. The argument for the United States government in support of the constitutionality of the law will be made by Solicitor General Aldrich, and for the Chinese government by Mr. Joseph Choate, of New York, and Mr. J. A NOTABLE GATHERING.

Governors of Southern States in Convention at Richmond.

ARKANSAS' GOVERNOR PRESIDES.

The Projector of the Scheme to Formulate Plans for Building Up the New South in the Chair—Only Two States Not Represented.

RICHMOND, April 13. — Yesterday the convention of southern governors opened in the senate chamber. At 11 o'clock Governor McKinney, escorted by Governors Fishback of Arkansas, Foster of Louisiana, Brown of Maryland, Jones of Alabama, Carr of North Carolina, and Stone of Missouri, appeared in the chamber. The following other states were represented by delegates: South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee, West Virginia and Kentucky. Texas and Florida were not represented.

After an opening prayer by Dr. Nelson, president of the Richmond Female Institute, Governor McKinney, in a brief opening address, took occasion to welcome the distinguished guests who had assembled in Richmond. He said it was a happy thought of his friend from Arkansas to have originated and worked up the convention that bade fair to accomplish such great good in this south land of ours. In concluding he nominated Governor Fishback as temporary chairman of the meeting.

Governor Fishback, in accepting the chairman's [hon]or, thanked the gentlemen for the honor, and said it was enough to excite the pride and profoundest gratitude from any man to be called upon to preside over such a body. He then spoke briefly about the object of the meeting and announced that he was ready to consider any motion.

On motion of Governor McKinney Colonel John Bell Sugger, clerk of the house of delegates, was chosen as secretary, and Mr. Wilson as sergeant-at-arms.

Governor McKinney offered the following, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed upon permanent organization and order of proceedure."

The chair appointed Governors McKinney, Brown, Stone, Foster, Jones and Carr.

Governor Carr, of North Carolina, offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That a committee of one from each state represented be appointed, whose duty it shall be to consider all resolutions and suggestions brought before this convention and to present plans and questions for consideration and adoption. All such shall be reported without debate, and the persons appointed on this committee be the governors from the several states or delegates named by them."

Letters of regret at their inability to attend the convention were read from Governors McCorkle, of West Virginia, and Turney, of Tennessee.

Before the meeting adjourned the reception committee of the chamber of commerce was introduced. After a general introduction and handshaking the visitors were escorted to carriages in waiting and driven to the Armory, where an elegant lunch was enjoyed.

The distinguished visitors afterwards resumed the carriages and were driven to the Lee monument, Soldiers' Home, Reservoir park, Hollywood, Jeff Davis' mansion, St. John's church and other points of interest. The gentlemen were then driven to their respective hotels, and at 8 o'clock last night they visited the governor's mansion, where they were informally entertained with an old fashioned Virginia dinner.

A FORGING EVANGELIST.

How "Harvey Blair" Worked the Religious Racket in Richmond.

RICHMOND, April 13.—The police of Richmond are looking for a swindler calling himself Harvey Blair and who claims to hail from Minneapolis, who arrived here on the 1st of March. He claimed to be the representative of a Christian organization and brought letters in proof thereof to a prominent Richmond clergyman. He soon soon found himself a fellow boarder of the cashier of the First National bank. Blair made himself very agreeable to everybody, and when the cashier was sick later on he won that gentlemen's heart by various little attentions. He claimed to represent the Christian Endeavor society and last Sunday week addressed a large crowd in Manchester and organized a branch society.

He also claimed to represent a party of capitalists from Minneapolis who were coming here to invest largely in Virginia lands. He went to the First National bank and asked them to cash a draft for $2,132.47, purporting to be drawn by the Citizens' bank of Northfield, Minn., on the American Exchange National bank of New York. Inquiry proved that the draft was a forgery and the case was given over to the police.

During his efforts on behalf of the Christian society mentioned Blair won the esteem of a Richmond member of that organization, a well known business man. So much impressed was he with Blair that when that individual asked him to indorse a check for $650, that he might get the money on it, his request was readily granted. In the course of business the paper passed into the hands of the Merchants' National bank, where it was at once found to be worthless. Of the money received from the check $150 were given to the society.
