A MEMORIAL SCENE.

The legs in meaning of the word "cities" has been gravely argued in an English court of record. A certain testator had loft property, the disposition of which was affected by the "death of either" of two persons. One lawyer insisted that "either" meant both, and in support of his views he quoted Richardson, Web-ster, Chancer. Dryden. Souther, the story of the crucifixion and a passage from Reveintion. The judge suggested that there was a song in "The Beggar's Opera" which took another view, "How happy I could be with either, were tother dear charmer away."

In problement judgment the court ruled that "either" meant one of two, and did not mean both. He said that it might have that meaning occasionally in poetry, but never in an English court of record.—Exchange.
