Poetry.

MY FATHER'S GROWING OLD. BY ELIZABETH C. BARBER. My father's growing old; his eye Looks dimly on the page...

When evening's rosy glow departs, With voices full of mirth, Our household band, with joyous hearts, Will gather round the hearth...

And when each tuncful voice we raise, In song of "long ago," His voice, which mingles in our lays, Is tremulous and low...

But time with lines of age and care Has traced his placid brow; But yet, amid the lapse of years, His heart has not grown cold...

My father! thou didst strive to share My joys, and calm my fears, And now thy child, with grateful care, In thy declining years, Shall smooth thy path, and brighter scenes By Faith and Hope unfold...

Since thou art "growing old."

Miscellaneous. Bartlett's double Plough—Something New. Being at Worcester a few weeks ago, I was invited to examine the Double Plough...

Yet snuff is an odd custom. If we came suddenly upon it in a foreign country it would make us split our sides with laughter.

It is curious to see the various modes in which people take snuff. Some do it by little fits and starts...

INTERESTING TO LADIES.—An eccentric old bachelor, who lately died at Madras, has left a sum of one thousand pounds...

Slavery among Insects.

The following singular facts are from "Newman's History of Insects." They show that, even among creeping things, might subverts right...

The most remarkable fact connected with the history of ants, is the propensity possessed by certain species to kidnap the workers of other species...

And turn away with chastened tones—"My father's growing old."

UMBRELLAS.

It is not a hundred years since a very eccentric Englishman named Jonas Hanway, having returned from his travels in the east...

The incident made a noise, and in spite of ridicule, the 'outlandish, new-fashioned notion' began to 'take mightily' with the extensively bedazzled people of England...

When we see a lady, on the shady side of twenty-six, and eternally libelling the gentlemen with epithets such as "cold hearted," "soft headed," "tailor-made dandy," and "wouldn't be led by one for his weight in diamonds," and at the same time "piling on" the silks, laces, jewelry and feathers...
