Poetry. BE THOU READY. "Keep thy lamp all trimmed and burning, Burning for the evil hour, Lest the foe might find thee sleeping." T. Unpublished.

Be thou ready, fellow mortal, In thy pilgrimage of life, Ever ready to uphold thee, In the toil and in the strife; Let no hope, however pleasant, Lure thy footsteps from the right, Nor the sunshine leave thee straying, In the sudden gloom of night.

Be thou ready when thy brother Bows in dark affliction's shade; Be thou ready when thy sister Needs thy kindness and thy aid; Let thy arm sustain and cheer them— They have claims upon us all— And thy deeds, like morning sunlight, On their weary hearts shall fall.

Be thou ready when the erring List to sin's enchanting strain; Ready with kind words to woo them Back to virtue's path again; Be thou ready, in thy weakness, To do good to friend and foe, As thy Father sheddeth freely Light on all that dwell below.

Be thou ready for the morrow, When delight shall please no more; When the rose and lily fade, And the charm of song is o'er— When the voices of thy kindred Faintly move thy dying ear— Be thou ready for thy journey To some higher, brighter sphere.

WHERE IS GOD? In the sun, the moon, the sky; On the mountain wild and high; In the thunder, in the rain, In the grove, the wood, the plain; In the little bird that sings; God is seen in every thing.

Miscellaneous. Difference between Iron and Steel.

Steel is iron passed through a process which is called cementation, the object of which is to impregnate with carbon. Carbon exists more abundantly in charcoal than in any other fusible substance, and the smoke that goes up from a charcoal forge, is carbon in a fluid state. Now, if you can manage to confine that smoke, and put a piece of iron into it for several days, and heat the iron at the same time, it would become steel. Heating the iron opens its pores, so that the smoke or carbon can enter into it.

The furnace for this purpose is a conical building of brick, in the middle of which are two troughs of brick or stone, which hold about four tons of bar iron. At the bottom is a large grate for the fire. A layer of charcoal dust is put upon the bottoms of the troughs, then a layer of bar iron; and so on alternately until the troughs are full. Then they are covered over with clay to keep out the air, which, if admitted, would prevent the cementation. Fire is then communicated to the wood and coal with which the furnace is filled and continued until the conversion of iron into steel is completed, which generally happens in about eight or ten days. This is known by the blisters on the bars which the workmen occasionally draw out in order to determine whether they have undergone the proper change. When the conversion is completed, the fire is then left to go out, and the bars remain in the furnace about eight days or more to cool.

The bars of steel are then taken out, and either sold as blistered steel or drawn to a convenient size, when it is called tilled steel by breaking the bars into short pieces, and welding them together, drawing them down to a proper size for use.

A PARAPHRASE.—Go it while you are young, for when you get old you can't. Make sundry resolutions with thy perambulators, while the sanguinous fluid of juvenality rushes warmly through the arterial structure of thy physical organization; for when the roral congelation of many hybernal seasons, has silvered the capacious integument of thy cranium, the Ultima Thule of thy farther advancement will have been reached.

CONVINCIAL COMPLIMENT.—Old Squire B— was elected Judge of the Inferior Court of some county in Georgia. When he went home, his delighted wife exclaimed— Now, my dear, you are Judge, what am I?

'The same darned old fool you allers was,' was the tart reply.

'There is a time for all things,' said a crusty old fellow to his wife. 'I'll believe that,' answered his wife in a sharp vinegar voice, 'when you pay for your newspaper.' Hit him again, old lady, we'll hold your bonnet.

'Sister, are you happy?' Yes, Deacon, I feel as though I was in Beelzebub's bosom.' 'Not in Beelzebub's!' 'Well in some of the patriarch's, I don't care which of them.'

It is suggested that the question 'may a man marry his wife's sister?' is one which can be most effectively answered, by the sister herself when it is popped by the widower.
