

DANCING.

Some discussion has lately taken place in several papers respecting dancing, and its advocates are presenting paragraphs from various high sources by whom it is approved.

On Sunday only these elegant rondas are seen to advantage. I am very far from approving of dancing on this day if one can help it; but I have no doubt that in a city like Paris, the dancers are more taken from the taverns than the churches.

For my part, I apprehend that the issue thus formed is not put forward in the form that it ought to be. The question is not alone confined to mere dancing as a recreation—against that few have objections—but the consequences to which it leads.

These, however, the advocates of dancing do not touch upon. A private party of ladies and gentlemen, who are in the habit of associating with each other, may meet and dance to their heart's content, and unless, as is frequently the case, they become more boisterous than they ought to be in their joy, not more than one in ten will find fault with them.

Another party of persons may hold a dancing party (as for instance those lately held in the Town Hall) and if proper care is exercised in inviting those to be present, and due decorum observed, but little cause for condemnation exists. Here, however, the "favorable" ends, and "be ye temperate in all things"—quite as good authority as Miriam, David, &c.—comes in with its decree.

So soon as balls, with their train of dissipation, come into view, dancing is an evil, because it is well known that but few such gatherings nowadays take place without some one being about who keeps his spirits up by pouring spirits down, & as a matter of course utters profane and vulgar language, such as no father or mother desirous of training children in the path of duty would wish their daughters to be listeners of.

Again, when it comes to public balls, it has a strong tendency to create a feeling for dress in many girls who can ill afford to follow their more fortunate associates. Many a young lady thus situated is satisfied with her ordinary dress when visiting a private party, or even a cotillion in the Hall, because she knows that the persons who will be there are limited in number and those whom she meets frequently in society.

But at a public ball this is not the case. When invited, she feels a strong desire to be dressed as well as the best, and to gratify that desire often deprives herself of other matters more essential to her comfort and happiness than dancing can ever be. On such a subject it is hardly necessary to dilate, as a desire for dress is to the young lady what the intoxicating cup is to the young man who does not possess moral courage enough to resist the importunities of his boon companions, who gradually, but surely, sink in degradation until that euphonic becomes the bane of his existence, the shame of his relatives, and he falls to rise no more!

So too with many a young and giddy girl. A desire for dress, first engendered in the ball room, has grown upon her until her means are exhausted; she stints herself in other respects, and still fails to equal, rival or outshine those with more abundant means; and then to gratify her passion for this "innocent amusement," this accomplishment to give grace and ease to her manners, she too falls, to rise no more! Let it not be said that this is an overdrawn picture; it is unfortunately drawn from life, and more than once have I seen the spot where rest the remains of one who often shone in the ball room in all the pride of health and beauty, but who in an evil hour laid hands upon that which was not her own, in order to gratify her passion for dress—and then to her sorrow there was but one step to ruin, disgrace, and death.

The General Conference of Seventh-Day Baptists recently issued an address to the friends of equal rights and religious freedom, in which they strongly deprecate the attempts now being made to legislate for the compulsory observance of the first day, as contrary to the spirit and intent of the Constitution.

After quoting largely from the writings of Washington, the proceedings of Congress, and judicial decisions, they say— "If the Constitution may be infringed upon to put down the observers of the seventh day, no one can say how long it will be before other minor denominations will be put down too. Already attempts are making to exact a confession of faith, unknown to the Constitution, as a qualification for a legal oath. If the religious sanctification of the 1st day of the week may be enforced by statutory requirements, so may the forms and hours of worship. He who says, that there is no danger of the latter being enforced, while statutory regulations violate two of the most sacred provisions of the National Constitution, knows but little of the history of mankind, or pays but little attention to the tendencies of human nature.

A single standing violation of the Constitution is an example and an authority for others to follow. One religious observance established by law, is the admission of the main principle of national hierarchy, and will come in time to be referred to as authority for similar infractions of the Constitution. The laws for the observance of the first day are in fact a union of Church and State. It is not pretended that they are designed to subvert directly a political or civil object. It is altogether a religious object which they subserve. It becomes every friend of equal rights, as he loves the Constitution of his country, to oppose these infractions of its just principles, until equal liberty is secured to all citizens by statutory provisions, as by the fundamental laws of the nation."

PUBLIC MEETING.

Pursuant to public notice, a meeting of the citizens of Lewistown and vicinity was held in the Town Hall, in the borough of Lewistown, on Wednesday evening, the 26th instant, to appoint a committee to take subscriptions with a view to the rebuilding of the "Lewistown Mills."

On motion, FRANCIS MCCLURE was chosen President, THOMAS MOORE and MOSES MONTGOMERY, Vice Presidents, and Joseph Alexander, Esq., Secretary.

The object of the meeting having been stated by R. C. Hale, Esq., in a few brief and appropriate remarks.

On motion of Rev. William M. Hall the following resolvable and resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That we deem it proper to take this early occasion to express our sympathy with him in this trial, with our sense of the loss sustained by the community at large in the burning of the very valuable and useful edifice put up by his energy and public spirit.

Resolved, further, That—and be they are hereby appointed a committee to confer with Mr. STEWART on the propriety and practicability of rebuilding said Mill, with instructions to procure such aid, by donations or loans, from citizens of the borough and elsewhere, as may be requisite to the speedy accomplishment of the said object; and that said committee be empowered to appoint sub-committees to assist in the prosecution of the same.

On motion, Resolved, That the said committee consist of five persons; whereupon the President appointed R. C. Hale, Esq., Hon. Charles Ritz, Joseph Alexander, Esq., Jermain Jacob, Esq., and Rev. Wm. M. Hall, Chairman.

Resolved, That these proceedings be signed by the officers and published in all the papers of the county.

FRANCIS MCCLURE, Pres't. THOMAS MOORE, Vice Pres't. MOSES MONTGOMERY, Sec'y. Joseph Alexander, Sec'y.

ECONOMY.—The amount of money deposited in the Savings Bank of Great Britain is over £21,000,000 sterling, or more than one hundred millions of dollars! This is an enormous amount of money, and is the savings of many who have labored hard, and by pursuing a habit of strict economy they have succeeded in maintaining themselves handsomely, and laid up a competency for old age.

The question then arises, what is true economy? In the exercise of economy it is essential to have good judgment—a correct notion of matters and things. Every individual has in the course of a life time to purchase a large amount of goods, even if for his or her own support, merely. It will, in the course of years, amount to a considerable sum.

Then the way to practice economy in this respect is to buy for cash, as it is very dangerous to go in debt, particularly with the storekeepers. Buy for cash, and buy always good goods, and at the lowest prices; and to enable the public to get goods of every grade and quality, at the lowest possible prices that they can be sold over the counter by the wholesale trade, C. L. Jones is conducting a large establishment on the east side of the city, and his business has now grown to such an enormous extent that he buys nearly all his goods directly of the importers and manufacturers for cash, and sells them at the smallest considerable profits, and in this way he is enabled to sell his goods at least TWENTY PER CENT. lower than all other merchants in any one make a calculation of the amount of goods they would probably buy in one year, and they will find that 20 per cent, or one-fifth of the amount would be a considerable item. Let this run on for some years, and they will have a sum saved in amount of no little consequence.

It is now admitted by all other merchants, as well as by the public generally, that C. L. Jones has the largest and best selected stock of goods ever shown before in Lewistown, and that he can undoubtedly buy goods cheaper than any other merchant—his business being so large and purchasing in such immense quantities.

Country persons visiting Lewistown to purchase goods for cash will soon be convinced of the foregoing facts, by calling at the celebrated New Cash Store of C. L. Jones, and in proportion to the population of this country with Great Britain, the amount of savings might be quite equal, and probably greatly exceed the estimate made.

FRESH WATER GOODS. WE have just largely increased our already extensive stock of winter goods, and as the Philadelphia houses are reducing their stocks previous to the close of the year, we have been enabled to make purchases very low, and are now prepared to offer our friends

GOOD BARGAINS. Our stock of English and French BROAD CLOTHS, plain and fancy CASSIMERES, SATINETS, JEANS, &c., is very large and desirable, and will be sold as low as any other establishment in town. We offer Cashmeres, French Merinoes, Laines, Modes de Laines, Prints, long and square SHAWLS, of every description; French Collars, Gloves, Hosiery, &c., at greatly reduced prices.

We sell, for instance, handsome black cotton Stockings at 64 cents per pair. Mouseline de Laines at 12 1/2 cts. per yard. Handsome Cashmeres at 25 cts. per yard, &c. We now sell boys' boots at $1.00 per pair, such as some great concerns are selling at $1.35. Men's heavy boots at $1.50, and Ladies' and Children's shoes in proportion. In fact everything in our line is now full and extensive, and although not so good at pulling as some of our neighbors, we will say to those friends that patronize us that they shall not lose thereby. We think that we buy our goods as low as any other concern, and will sell them as low (quality considered,) and although we do not boast of selling as many as half the town, we think we sell more than the great concern that does. WATSON & JACOB. Lewistown, Dec. 1, 1849.

MARRIED.

On the 25th inst., by the Rev. G. Stevenson, ADAM J. GREER, Esq., Editor of the Clinton Tribune, to Miss ELIZABETH BEARD, of Beale township, Juniata county.

THE MARKETS.

Table with columns for Flour, Wheat, Rye, Oats, Corn, Cloverseed, Flaxseed, Timothyseed, Butter, Eggs, Lard, Tallow, Potatoes, Beef, Pork, Wool, Feathers. Includes prices for Philadelphia, Dec. 27, 1849.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27, 1849.

The FLOUR MARKET is unchanged. Some holders are willing to sell common shipping brands at $4.87 1/2 per barrel, while others are indifferent about accepting this price. For city use prices vary from $4.50 to $5.50. RYE FLOUR no sales. We quote at $2.57 1/2 a $3.00 per barrel. CORN MEAL is held at $2.75, but there were no sales making. GRAIN—Prices of Wheat remain stationary, at $1.05 a 1.06 per bushel, for fair and good rye. Rye in demand at 62 cents. Supplies of CORN continue to come in very slowly, and prices are well maintained. Sales of 3 a 4000 bushels new Southern yellow at 53 cents, and some at 52 1/2 cents. OATS—But few offering. We quote Southern at 22-23 cents per bushel.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Allen, John Haman and others, containing 129 acres more or less, being the right and privilege to dig for and raise ore on said tract, and of selling and hauling the same away, and of free egress and ingress to the said tract of land, to raise and haul said ore as aforesaid. Taken in execution as the property of Bryan Cowdry, John M. Wilson, Robert Allen and Joseph Milliken, terre tenants.

D. MCK. CONTNER, Sheriff. November 8, 1849.

The above sale is adjourned to 10 o'clock on TUESDAY January 1st, 1850 Lewistown, Dec. 29, 1849.

WALTER LILLEY

RESPECTFULLY announces to his old friends, and as many new ones as can make it convenient to call, that he has just received his

Fall and Winter Stock of Goods, which he is prepared to dispose of at as reasonable prices as Mr Johnston Thomas, and he sells about twenty per cent. lower than any Store in the East Ward. My stock consists of a general assortment of SEASONABLE GOODS, viz:

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, Queensware, Glassware and Hardware,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TOBACCOS AND SEGARS, and Spices of the purest kind.

Together with all the articles usually found in a country store. As we do not feel able to occupy the newspapers with an advertisement of two or three columns, we just say to our friends to call and see us, and if you don't purchase from us we will not grumble.

which are sold for CASH CHEAPER than they have ever been sold in this place. I would draw attention to a patent Elastic Spring Bottom Bedstead, which can be seen in my Warehouse at any time. It can be put up and taken down in less time than the old plan, and without a screw-driver, and the great merit is that it forms a spring bottom without a cord or sucking, thus saving the purchaser the cost of these articles.

Sarsaparilla!

None of your sour, fermenting stuff. Well, whose is it? Why, it is not Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. Then whose else? Why, it is not Dr. S. P. Townsend's. Whose upon earth is it then? I will tell you; it is that which is made in strict accordance with the U. States Pharmacopoeia laid down by the Medical Faculty. There is more Sarsaparilla in one quart of this than in four quarts of either of the Townsends'. Every Physician in the United States knows how it is manufactured, and to them we refer for the genuineness of the above compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. It is for sale by the pint, quart, gallon, or any amount desired.
