A correspondent of the Cultivator, who writes from Central New York, anticipates much mischief from the potato blight in and Wise's corners, which will be served up in that part of the country, and as the disease has shown itself in this county, we give his account of its first appearance and progress. He says-

"The potato crop in Central New York came up late this season in consequence of a cold and wet May. It grew rapidly in the month of June, but was not fully in flower until nearly the middle of July, in consequence of the general lateness of the season.

"The first intimations of disease upon it were noticed after a pretty heavy rain on the 23d and 24th of June, followed by cool weather on the 25th, on which day I noticed that the small and half-formed rosettes of flowers were paralyzed and falling off unopened.

"The next, and much more severe check which this crop received, was from the heavy rains of the 2d, 3d and 5th of July, followed by cool nights on the 5th and 6th, the thermometer sinking on the following mornings to 50°. There was not, however, in connection with these cool nights, the same coolness and chafing wind during the day, that I have noticed, in former years, in connection with the origination of the potato disease. Immediately after these rains, i. e. on the 6th, I observed a most marked pallid look in the potato crop, attended with the withering of the top of the leading shoots; more especially at first a single leaf, and the falling off of all the flowers, whether expanded or not."

After some argument to show that the disease was the effect of the wet weather, and the sudden chill of the soil in consequence, the writer proceeds thus:

" After the effect of these rains and chilis of the first week of July passed off, the verdure of the potato crop gradually recovered. Much of the succeeding portions of the month-however, was wet and hot, the atmosphere being like a hot vapor bath, a state of wer her of an undoubtedly unfavorable to the health enfeebled plant, such as I consider the potato now to be.

"July 16th, two days after a pavy and warm rain, I noticed the first blue edgings on the leaves of the potato seen this season. This is a fearful indication, as it always spreads rapidly, and is almost speedily followed by the this there was a slight recovery of me healthful verdure of the crop, which continued until the 25th, when a slight shower, followed by a chill on the 26th and 27th, reducing the morning temperature down to 52° and 49°, once more brought pallid looks and increased the withered leaves and falling flowers

" August opened with a continuance of all the preceding morbid indications, especially with a very rapid increase of blue tips upon the upper and outer leaves of the plant, and iron-rust spots upon the lower and inner leaves. "Whole fields of early planted potatoes now look as though lately invaded by a scorching flame. During the present week, my neighbors and I have frequently found tubers mark-ed with tender, reddish spots on the cuticle, beneath which the flesh begins to be a little "What the result will be, no one can tell.

It may be hoped that some very late crops will find cooler and more even weather, and so mature a fair crop of healthful tubers, just as was the case last year; although, as a general fule, it is undoubtedly true that early planted potatoes do best."

The writer states that he is attempting to renovate the potato by obtaining new Parieties from the seed-balls, and also by importing tubers from Bogota, from New Grenada and Chili. From these he hopes to obtain seed-balls which will give a hardy variety not easily affected by the blight. With regard to other plants originally natives of the tropics and now cultivated in temperate climates, the writer describes the effect of the present season upon them in the Goods being equal to any, and the Prices as low these words:

"It may be observed, that tropical plants have grown less vigorously than in some former years, but that, as there has been an absence of severe and sudden chills, so the foliage of these plants has not been diseased as much as in former years. The fruit of these plants has also suffered less than in former years. I now refer especially to cucumbers, melons of all sorts, summer squashes and beans. Tomatoes show a strong tendency to the wet rot. The dry black induration upon this fruit, noticed in former years in connection with the potato disease, has not yet been seen this year. The time has not yet come for some tropical plants to show all the morbid indications to which they are liable. as their fruit is not now (early in September) fully matured."

If the potato disease be merely the result of alternations of dry and wet weather, or of warm and cold, the wonder is that it has never appeared till late years. There has been but little more inconstancy of the weather observed in these respects during the present season than formerly. Changes from hot to cool, and cool to hot for seasons of fine, dry weather, alternating with profuse showers, belong to the character of our climate, but not more so now than twenty years ago, when we had no potato blight. Nor is there any change of climate in England, in Ireland, or Belgium, or any other part of the continent, to which the prevalence of this disease may be attributed. That changes from dry to wet may have an influence in developing the disease there is no occasion to deny, but it seems clear that some other cause not yet ascertained must co-operate with these cirastances.

TUSCARORA ACADEMY. THIS FLOURISHING INSTITUTION IS SITUATED IN

Tusearora Valley, Juniata County, Penn. Eight miles S. W. of Missintonon, and siz miles from the Perryville station on the Penn. Railroad. T has been in successful operation for more than twelve

1 years, and is believed to be equal to any Academy in the State in affording facilities to young men for acquiring a thorough academical education, either for business or for college. Being situated in a very pleasant neighbor hood in the country, the pupils are removed from those temptations to idleness, dissipation and vice, which are the bane of similar institutions in town; and the whole surrounding vicinity will vie with any place in the State for healthfulness and for the high tone of morality pervading the community.

The buildings, recently, have been greatly improved, and are large, appropriate, and commodious, constructed according to the latest and most approved models of school architecture, and are believed to combine all the essential requisites for the advantage and convenience of both learner and teacher. Pupils from a distance are required to board in the Academy with the principals; but if it is desired by their parents, good boarding may be obtained in the neighborhood.

TERMS.—For Boarding (per week) $125; Washing, per quarter of 11 weeks, $1 50; for Bed, per quarter of 11 weeks, $1 00; Incidental, per quarter of 11 weeks, 25 cts.

TRAMS FOR TUITION.—FOR TUITION In Latin, Greek and Mathematics, per quarter, $6.00; Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Rhetoric, Political Economy, Book-Keeping, Botany, History, &c. &c., $4.50; Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, Reading, Writing, &c., per quarter of 11 weeks, $3.00.

Light, Books and Stationery are found by the pupil, and may be obtained at the stores in the neighborhood. There are so extra charges whatever.

The academical year is divided into two sessions of 22 weeks each; and each session into two quarters of 11 weeks each. One quarter must be paid in advance when the pupil enters; and all bills must be paid off before he leaves the Academy; otherwise 7 per cent. on the whole bill for the quarter will be added. No deduction for abone during the quarter unless caused by sickness.

The principals have both been constantly engaged in teaching for upwards of twelve years; and can furnish the very best testimonials, both of their own scholarship, and ability, and also of the thoroughness, success, and accuracy of their mode of teaching. They will bold give their exclusive and undivided attention to their pupils, and will also be assisted by other competent instructors; and they therefore hope to enjoy the confidence of the public, and to merit and receive a liberal share of patronage. The Vacations occur in April and October. There is also a private Boarding House belonging to the Acade-

LEWISTOWN MILLS.

THE subscriber has again got his Mill started, and wishes to buy a LARGE QUANTITY OF ALL KINDS OF GRAIN, for which he will pay the CASH, as high as the market will afford, according to quality. Any person having good Wheat will do well to call and show a sample before they sell, as he thinks he can afford to give MORE than any person in the place. Those not wishing to sell and wanting to store, he will receipt after harvest to be kept to the 1st of December, and after that time he will give a receipt to be kept to the lat of August, as he will wish to close all his accounts twice a year, and will not keep any over unless he makes a written contract to that effect. If the person holding the receipt does not sell before the above days, it will be carried out to their credit at market price at the above named time. In giving a receipt, if the wheat is not good, he will mention he reduction per bushel in the receipt, so that when the owner comes to sell there will be no difficulty.

All wheat left in store he will reserve the privilege of aying, when the owner wishes to sell, at 13 cents less ban Philadelphia price when the canal is open, and 16 cents less when it is closed, and if he should not buy at these prices, he will only charge one cent per bushel for storage. No interest will be allowed on money left with him for grain, as he will be prepared at all times to pay

ALSO, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for the ERECTION OF A but the orders must be left in the office in the mill, and the cash paid, before the Flour or Feed will be delivered. as there is no person that has any privilege of selling but the Book-keeper, who enters it on the book and puts the order on a wire for the porter to deliver. This will prevent any mistake from being made in the filling of orders
