Aristocratic Notions. Remember, Kate, that Mr. Brown is not to be invited.

Within our doors one always finds People of rank and station, None but the elite, the upper ten, The high at in the nation.

I wonder now why Harry Dash Pays Brown so much attention, I'm sure his name among my friends, I'd be ashamed to mention.

His clothes have not the Paris cut, His manners are ungainly, And "second rate" upon his face Is written very plainly.

Yet Dash the fellow always treats With much consideration, But I shan't send this nobody, Would you 't an invitation.

O mama, to be sure I would, For all the "ton" who've met him, Are trying with their might and main At their "soirees" to get him.

He's all the rage, his family Rank high, I do assure you, They lived in town some years ago, Among the best I'm sure, too.

And papa said his father used, To keep a coach and four, ma, And that a better, kinder man, He never met before, ma.

O well, dear Kate, if that's the case, A note you may indite him, If they are friends of your papa's, Of course we must invite him.

O friends they are, for when papa Was but a needy tailor, And you and he the livelong day Worked hard as any sailor;

This man so kind gave him the means, To take a store in town, ma, And papa says that all he's made, He owes to Mr. Brown, ma.

The tailor's wife turned pale and red, So strange were her emotions, I hope she saw the danger in Aristocratic notions.

HALF MARRIED. A short time since, a party of two young ladies and two gentlemen visited Squire Curtis, at Greenland, and apparently for the purpose of uniting two fond hearts in one.

The prospective groom appeared to be a young man of sanguine temperament, whose ruddy countenance and glowing eye denoted the near approach of the happy hour, when his fondest hopes were to be realized. He thrust a hand in each pocket, placed the right foot firmly forward, and tossing his hat jauntily on one side, gazed first at the Squire, then at his "heart's delight," as much as to say—"I've got 'er."

The lady sat, the picture of health, with an expression of contentment that told the casual observer, "butcher wouldn't melt" between her ruby lips. There could be seen a suspicious little dimple, however, at each corner of her mouth, that came and went with every leer of a pair of bright, but mischievous-looking eyes—sparkling with roguish restlessness—that told her lover, "he needn't count his chickens before they were hatched."

Now, we do not intend, in the absence of our young friend, Arthur Cannon, to report the dialogue phonographically; but we shall take a "reporter's license" for detailing the following dialogue, which was commenced by the Squire, who approached the parties and enquired in his blandest manner, "what he could do for his young friends."

GROOM.—"What can you do for us?—Why, a darn'd site!" "Can't he, Sary?" BRIDE.—"Well—I reckon—if all's wellin'—G.—"Willin'! Why what's up? Aint you 'to gin' it up now, I hope? You don't mean to say I shan't get married!"

B.—"Oh, no, John, you've come to get married, and I wouldn't balk you!" G.—"Good as gold! There Squire—there's a pattern to begin with—seizes her, and planting a few that rival Twitchell's pop-beer—puts on the harness like a dove. "So now, Squire, gear up your fixens and crack your whip."

SQUIRE.—(Rising)—"Well, if you are in earnest, I can marry you." G.—(Impatiently)—"In earnest! Of course we're in earnest. Don't p'layer so—so go into it—rap on the service—you know Solomon says, delays are dangerous, keep the feet dry and the head cool, and bid defiance to physicians."

B.—"In! John, there's no use of being in such a hurry!" G.—"Now, Sary, don't say boo! till it's over—let 'im drive. Go at it Squire—hurry up the cakes—moderate, but don't spurge—slow, but all fire, sartain. Wake snakes—wont Bata Bradford howl, when she hears I'm married."

The Squire proceeded slowly in the ceremony, keeping a watchful eye on the intended bride, whose mysterious manner excited a suspicion that a screw was loose somewhere. When however, he came to the response of the groom, the solemn scene was disturbed by something like a stentorian yell—

G.—"Whoo! you better believe it!—Of course I'll take 'er—who 'spits it!—What I come here for—halleluway!—May bet your life on that. Go on, Squire—now give her a hazz."

B.—"NO!" (The Squire looks perplexed, and Sarah, laughing right out begins to move off.) G.—"Stand your ground, Sary! Squire, hold 'er! Go on with the service—drive it through, and clinch her on 'tother side—rivet 'er now!"

B.—"No you don't. You've no right to complain. You wanted to get married and you are married—but I'm not married! So pay the Squire and run home before your 'mamma know's your out." And away skipped the little jilt, convulsed with laughter.

G.—"Great Caneer Squire, it's your fault. If you'd only let her right thro', and hadn't stopped to mance matters, I'd a had 'er."

The groom left with rather a rueful countenance, and appeared to be lost in deep meditation, which was only disturbed by the merry peals of the bevy of girls, who saluted him with bawdier laughter, a short distance from the Squire's—prominent among them, too, was Betsy Bradford. He is now known as the young man who is half married.

AN EXPENSIVE FEMALE.—An economist the other day observed a lady who carried one day's labor of about two thousand men upon her shoulders, and that of as many more hanging from her ears. There was not a limb in her body which did not call for the hard work of an entire day of one hundred men or women; and if it were used to adorn the person with gold, like a Chinese pagoda, instead of silks and furs, and textures of lace and wool, what was expended on her dress would have plated her all over with the precious metal.

BOY LOVE.—One of the queerest things to think of in after life is "boy love." No sooner does a boy acquire a tolerable stature than he begins to ape manish ways. He casts sidelong glances at every tall girl he happens to meet, becoming a regular attendant at church, or meeting, sports a cane, carries his head erect, and struts a little in his walk. Presently, and how very soon, he falls in love—yes, falls in the proper word, because it best indicates his happy, delicious self abasement. He lives now in a fairy region, somewhere collateral to the world, and yet somewhere blended inextricably with it. He perfumes his hair with fragrant oils, scatters essences over his handkerchief, and desperately shaves and anoints for a beard. He quotes poetry in which "love," and "dove," and "heart," peculiarly predominate; and, as he plunges deeper into the delicious labyrinth, fancies himself filled with the divine afflatus, and suddenly breaks out into the scolarish rash—of rhyme. He feeds upon the looks of his beloved; is raised to the seventh heaven if she speaks a pleasant word, is betrayed into the most astonishing ecstasies by a smile, and is plunged into the gloomiest region of misanthropy by a frown.

He believes himself the most devoted lover in the world. There never was such another. There never will be. He is the very type of magnanimity and self abnegation. Wealth! he despises the groveling thought. Poverty with the adorable beloved, he rapturously apostrophizes as the first of all earthly blessings; and "love in a cottage with water and a crust," is his beau ideal paradise of dainty delights.

He declares to himself with the most solemn emphasis, that he would go through fire and water, undertake a pilgrimage to China or Kamschatka, swim storm-tossed oceans, scale impassable mountains, and face legions of bayonets, but for one sweet smile from her dear lips. He dotes upon the flowers she has cast away in the fingers—next to his heart. He scrawls her dear name over foolscap—fitting medium for his insanity. He scornfully depreciates the attention of other boys of his own age, cuts Peter Tibbets dead, because he says that the adorable Angelina had carrot hair, and passes Harry Bell contemptuously, for daring to compare "that gawky Mary Jane," with a incomparable Angelina.

Happy! happy! foolish boy! love with its hopes and fears, its joys and its sorrows, its tortures, its ecstatic fervors, and terrible heart burnings, its solemn ludicrousness, and its intensely prosaic termination.

BROTHER JONATHAN.—The waist of his coat may be ridiculously short, the tail of it ridiculously long, his shirt collar may absorb the produce of a field of flax, his pauldrons may not come below the tops of his boots, and his straps may have the air of preventer-braces, to keep the continuations from going over his head; he may be, in short, the most unrepresentable man you can conceive of, and 'most mockable at court'; but beneath the uncouthness of his dress, and the frequent bizzarerie of his manner, there is such an only Yankeeism and the nineteenth century can produce or educate. We start with the intention of making a flourish. Thorough-paced, full blooded, conceited, stubborn, unperturbable, go-ahead Americans; not afraid to try to do anything ever done by any other living man, from making a baby's garter to the construction of an Empire; and not a bit more afraid to attempt what no man ever did, if money, fame, or power are to be made out of it. We are precisely the people to make the biggest of all possible flourishes, and blow the biggest of all possible double C. bombadons on the occasion of national success and triumphs.—Parker's Journal.

SWEET.—"Ma! ma! Cousin Bill he's in the parlor, with sister Sal, and he keeps biting her." "Cousin Bill biting my Sal!" "Yes'em, I seed him do it ever so many times; bit her right on the mouth—and the tarjal girl didn't boller a bit nether."

"Oh—ah! never mind, Ned, I guess he didn't hurt her much."

"Hurt her! by gosh she loves it, she does, cos she kept letting him, and didn't say nothin, but just smacked her lips as though 'twas good, she did. I seed it through the key hole. I'll fire taters at him by gosh."

BAD HABITS.—A bad habit resembles horse radish; it is terribly difficult to extirpate it from the soil in which it has taken root, and the cultivator who would rid his land of the stubborn plant, is vexed and aggravated by stubb it again and again, springing up fresh and "suave," where he had ploughed and dug most vehemently. What liquor-drinker or tobacco-user or profane swearer or gambler, &c., will deny the truth of my assertion? Then, young men, do not acquire BAD HABITS.

NEW BOOT, SHOE, & BOOK STORE. Our banner to the breeze we fling, And of cheap Boots and Shoes we sing; Of work well done and fitted out, And low for cash!—we can't be beat.

Plague on the muse: O, why refuse To do me in my rhyme! With this, here goes, I'll write in prose, If you will give me time.

THE story, all told, is simply this: we have just received from the city the largest and best assortment of

BOOTS AND SHOES ever brought to this place. We have BOOTS at all prices, and of all sorts and sizes; and in selecting our stock we did not forget the Ladies, (God bless them!) "Variety is the spice of life,"—so says the poet, and we had an eye single to that fact when we selected our Ladies' and Misses' Shoes. We must say, although we do not wish to boast, that we have the best assortment in this place, and can and will sell a little lower for cash than they can be had elsewhere.

Our home-made work we need not speak, save that we will spare no pains nor expense in having work made to order, and as we will employ none but the best of workmen, we have no hesitancy in warranting our work. In a word, an examination of our stock, and of our home-made work, which is respectfully solicited, will satisfy visitors that it is not surpassed in this market for NEATNESS, CHEAPNESS, and DURABILITY. Give us a call, one and all, and we are confident that you will go away realizing that the place to buy money in buying good and fashionable work is at the new store of

W. W. BROWN, East Market street, in the room lately occupied by D. Don't, a few doors East of Hutson & Jacob's store.

French, Calf Boots that can't be beat in these diggings; also, an assortment of the celebrated Quilt Boots, Ladies' Italian Cloth Gaiters, etc., kept constantly on hand and made to order.

BOOKS. Great Bargains by those who want BOOKS can now be had at our establishment. Lewistown, October 3, 1851.

THE WORLD'S FAIR IN MINIATURE.

E. ALLEN desires the public to remember that his establishment is still open for the accommodation of those in need of the various articles of necessity, use, luxury, taste, and amusement always kept on hand. He has made arrangements with Mr. MURRAY, the well known "CHEAP BOOK MAN," from whom he receives his stock of

Miscellaneous & School Books, to sell as cheap as the original himself, which is well known to be a little cheaper than the cheapest. The manufacture of Candies and Confectionaries is continued, and customers may rely upon getting a superior article. His stock of Perfumeries was selected from the best in market, is handsomely put up, and will be sold low. In

Teas & Spices he can't be beat, either in quality, price, or variety, and has thus far won the palm of superiority, and everybody wanting a good article will save time and money by coming to the "Great Western Variety Store." His

DRUGS have been pronounced all that drugs ought to be, are pure and fresh, and will be supplied to purchasers at a reasonable profit, or compounded upon physicians' prescriptions correctly and carefully. Every body who loves a Good Cigar, or ought to know, that the place to get it is at E. ALLEN'S, East Market street, Lewistown.

N. B. Any book called for that is not on hand, can be got to order in thirty-six hours. nov 5-3m E. A.

GRAND LETTING! PROPOSALS will be daily received at the old stand of Nusbaum, Brothers, in Lewistown, for any quantity of goods now ranged on the shelves and counters of the undersigned, and to meet the run of customers who will no doubt avail themselves of this new mode of obtaining Cheap Goods of every description, they have just ordered and received about as complete an assortment of

LADIES' DRESS GOODS as was ever seen in this or any other country town, embracing every description and style of all that is

New, Neat, and Fashionable, at prices varying from a few cents to dollars per yard. In other kinds of goods, we can show in quality and price whatever others can produce, and a considerable sprinkling that cannot be found elsewhere, especially in

Cloths, Cassimeres, Satinets, &c., and will venture to add in Fall and Winter Goods generally. Of Bonnets, Shoes, Hosiery, Cloths, & Ribbons we have an extensive stock, which, as a necessary consequence are offered for sale cheap. Since opening our establishment here, we have fully demonstrated that, as a general thing, we sell as low as the very lowest, if not a little lower. We do not profess to sell one or two or three articles at a very low price, but we do profess to sell everything, in either the Dry Goods or Grocery line, so cheap that we are confident our friends everywhere would be the gainers by giving us a call and making their purchases.

Remember at the Old Stand of Nusbaum, Brothers, Lewistown, Nov. 21, 1851.

Great Scientific Discoveries. BY DR. J. W. COOPER. NEVER AND AGUE Completely Cured in Three Days.

By Dr. J. W. Cooper's Vegetable Compound Fever and Ague Pills.

THESE PILLS are composed entirely of Vegetable substances, and in ninety-nine cases out of every hundred, will perform a perfect and complete cure in three days. No instance has ever been known, where more than six days have been required to perform a complete cure, even in the very worst cases, and on the strongest constitutions. We would earnestly say to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease, to get one box and try them, and in all cases, two boxes are warranted to cure, if taken according to the directions, or the money returned.

These pills not only perform a perfect cure in three days, but remove the bile and create a healthy action of the liver, and consequently fortify the system against a future attack.

ALSO, My Vegetable Anti-Dyspepsia Bitters. This medicine is a certain cure for Dyspepsia in its worst forms. Thousands of cases have been completely cured by it within the last year, which have been entirely despaired of by the regular family physicians. We do not recommend it to cure everything—we recommend it to cure Dyspepsia, and the diseases originating from it, and that it will cure in almost every case, and it is recommended for nothing else. In many instances, even the worst of cases have been completely cured in two and three months, but it depends somewhat upon the constitution of the patient. We would say to all who are afflicted with Dyspepsia, give this medicine a fair trial, and if it fails to do good, your money will be returned.

ALSO, My Vegetable Worm Powders. This is the most wonderful Worm Destroyer ever known, and at the same time, so pleasant to take, that almost every child will be fond of it, and many instances have been known of children crying for more after once taking it.

This medicine is in the form of a powder, the only medicine ever used in that form, and it operates on a principle entirely different from any other medicine ever administered by any other physician. It is the only medicine which has no Worm-seed Oil or Turpentine combined with it, which is believed by all other physicians, to be the only two things which will destroy worms, and these two things combined, together with castor oil, are the active principles of all other worm medicines, which every person who has ever tasted or smelled, knows to be the most nauseous of all nauseous medicines, and on account of which, there is generally something added to destroy this nauseous taste, and in order to do this, it must be something stronger than the medicine itself, and therefore, it must necessarily destroy some of its medicinal properties. These powders are simple and so harmless, that a child may eat a whole box at once, and it will not be hurt, while at the same time, the principle upon which it acts being different from anything else ever used, it will destroy all kinds of Worms with a certainty never equaled. It will not only destroy the seat worms, or Ascariades, and long, round worms, or Tereos, but is the most effectual medicine for the destruction of the Tape Worm ever known. Ten doses have brought as many as FIVE Tape Worms from one person, and if your children have any symptoms of worms, try these powders, and in nine cases out of ten, you will never use any other. These are also warranted.

These medicines are all separate, and one for each disease, and each for only one disease. They are not recommended, as many other medicines are, to cure some fifteen or twenty diseases, and all of different natures, but they are each to cure but one disease, and that they will do in ninety-nine cases out of every hundred, and where they have a fair trial and fail in all cases, the money will be returned.

DR. J. W. COOPER'S Celebrated Vegetable Anti-Dyspepsia Pills, A certain cure for Indigestion, Debility, Sickness or Burning in the Stomach, Pain in the Side and Stomach, Costiveness, Sensation of Weight in the Stomach after Eating, Difficulty of Breathing, Restlessness, Want of Appetite, Palpitation of the Heart, and all other Diseases which arise from INDIGESTION.

GREAT EXCITEMENT

ABOUT Benjamin Hinkley's Patent Elastic Spring Bottom BEDSTOADS,

MANUFACTURED AND SOLD BY A. FELIX, Cabinet Maker, At the Lewistown Cheap Cabinet Ware Rooms,

WHERE the article can be seen at any time among his large stock of other FURNITURE of all descriptions. The following testimonials from those who purchased and have now in use, or had the bottom put into their old bedsteads, will speak for themselves:

CERTIFICATE: This is to certify that I purchased twenty pair of new bedsteads with Hinkley's patent elastic spring bottom in an well pleased with them, consider them a good article, and would buy no others. I would recommend them to all persons, as they are easily screwed together, and can be kept cleaner than any hitherto made. JAMES ALLISON.
