

Gov. Uihazy's daughters, who are highly educated, it is said, may be seen daily at work in the corn field with a hoe, on their farm, at New-Buda, Iowa.

INTERESTING FACT.—From the report of the gardener to whose care the trees of the Chrystal Palace were entrusted, it seems that the old elms under the glass shade, so far from being injured by their confinement, have increased in their branches from six to seven feet, while the elms in the park have made, on the average, only one foot of shoots.

A HOAX.—A telegraphic report was announced in the Philadelphia papers of Saturday last, that a duel was to take place, on that morning, between two of our citizens, R. Franks, Esq., and Cal. John Rankin, at Woodcock Rock, on the Chesapeake. Of course no such thing was thought of by the parties, and the author of the story has no doubt repented of it since. To give some degree of plausibility to the story, a despatch was sent the next day, stating that the difficulty had been amicably adjusted.—Lancaster Republican.

A man named Steingraver, convicted of murder, was hung at Ashland, Ohio, on the 30th ult., in presence of about five thousand persons, the populace having the day previous demolished the jail yard fence in order to witness the execution. The spectacle, it is said, was very revolting, the prisoner being a heavy man, and the rope stretched so much that he fell upon his knees. His neck was unbroken, and he was then drawn up and literally strangled, hanging about thirty minutes before life was pronounced extinct.

The Baltimore Annual Conference of Methodist Ministers convened at Cumberland, Md., on Wednesday, March 30, in the church under the pastoral care of Revs. John M. Jones and John S. Deal. Bishop James is expected to preside, assisted by Bishop Waugh. The territory of the Baltimore Conference embraces the Western Shores of Maryland, District of Columbia, and exceeds any conference in the connection in the numerical strength of the membership, as they number more than seventy thousand, who are under the pastoral care of nearly three hundred ministers. The approaching session will be one of great interest, as the selection of twelve delegates will take place, to represent the conference at the session of the next General Conference, to be held in Boston in May next.

The Richmond Times publishes the following note from a correspondent at Buchanan, Botetown county, Va.:—

A few days ago, whilst some men were engaged in blasting out limestone a short distance below this place, for the purpose of making a lime-kiln, they came across what seemed to be a cave, with an entrance some six or eight feet in height and upwards of one hundred feet long, with two apartments. In the first they found some earthen ware and a large stone cross: on the cross there was some carving, but it was so much defaced by the hand of time that it was scarcely discernible. After they found these things, they came to Buchanan and made known their discovery. Some of the citizens, with lanterns, proceeded immediately to the cave to make further search.

They found nothing in the first room but what I have already mentioned, and on entering the second apartment were surprised to find a skeleton seated on a huge iron chest, with a back resting against the wall. On opening this chest they found it to contain gold coin, perfectly smooth on one side and a cross on the other, by weight, is worth seven hundred and eighty-three dollars.

How these things came in this cave we are not able to imagine, for the coin is one which we have never seen before.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—The Nail Factory attached to the Portage Iron Works, in Duncansville, was destroyed by fire on Friday morning last. The loss will probably not fall far short of $8,000—$3,000 of which is covered by insurance in the Franklin Company of Philadelphia. The origin of the fire was the result of carelessness, rather than accident, the way we look at it. Some of the workmen, it appears, erected a scaffold under a pipe that was frozen up, for the purpose of thawing, and left the building. Shortly after the fire communicated to the roof—the alarm was raised—but before any successful effort could be made to arrest the progress of the flames, the factory was a pile of ruins. There were some twenty-five nail cutting machines in the establishment, but it is presumed that many of them can be repaired. The works at present the property of Royer, McNeal & Higgins, were about holding out to the hands of a new company.—Harrisburg Standard.

DISASTROUS ACCIDENT.—A singular and painful accident occurred a few weeks ago, at Huling's Mills, on Mesquite Creek, about six miles from this place, the particulars of which, as near as we can glean, are as follows: Two men were employed in the mill at which the accident occurred, to superintend the sawing during the night; Mr. John Henry taking his turn at work, from 12 o'clock until daylight. Having been awakened at midnight, as usual, he went underneath the mill for the purpose of strapping some of the gearing preparatory to pursuing his night's task, when, unfortunately slipping, his light was dashed from his hand, and in his endeavor to grasp at something to support himself and prevent a fall, his fingers were caught in the meshes of a cog-wheel which was slowly revolving above him. The wheel gradually drew in his arm—crushing his strong, muscular hand like a water, entirely severing the bone above the wrist, and mangle him in the most horrible manner—until he was drawn up so that he had barely a foothold upon the points of his toes. In this position, his own weight and the entering wedge formed by his arm stopped the revolution of the machinery. The poor fellow, who must have been suffering the most excruciating agony, screamed frantically for help, but the noise of the rushing water drowned his voice, and his fellow laborer, who had immediately dropped asleep, in the mill, above him, accustomed to noise and clatter, did not awaken nor hear him. There was none other likely to hear him. What an awful position for a strong, athletic man, full of life and vigor! He screamed unheeded, until his voice failed him. For five hours he remained in that position—his right arm wedged between the impinging wheels, in a winter night, the warm blood trickling over him from his wounds! His wife awakening from a frightful dream, and seeing no light in the mill, surmised that something had happened, ran from the house to the mill, heard him moan and discovered him, and arousing the neighbors at five o'clock, and after considerable difficulty, he was released from his frightful captivity. His arm was amputated on Wednesday by Dr. Thomas Lyon, from whom we gather these particulars, and who now has the mangled limb at his office. Mr. Henry is in a fair way for recovery from the terrible accident and exposure to which he was subjected.—Lycumber Gazette.
