LEWISTOWN, PA. Friday Evening, March 26, 1852.

Notices of New Advertisements. We are pleased to learn that a project is on foot to establish a machine shop in this place. It has often been a matter of surprise to us that a town so favorably located for the transaction of business, and enjoying the trade of the northern valleys for many miles, should possess so few establishments giving employment to mechanics and laboring men. In this respect, we are probably behind every village in eastern Pennsylvania, though that we are so is undoubtedly our own fault.

Mr. Armstrone purposes delivering a lecture in the Town Hall on Friday evening next, on the subject of Elocution, which, we understand, he has successfully taught for a number of years as a part of academical instruction, and gave special attention to it the last year, with a view if sufficiently encouraged, to devote himself exclusively to at. We have several times endeavored to make out a synopsis of the proceedings of Congress, but so many members have subjects of their own to discuss, that but little business is transacted, and that little in one way or the other connected with some locofoco candidate aspiring to a nomination for the presidency. Several bills passed the Senate last week making large grants of public lands for the construction of various railroads in the west and southwest. Cass, who would doubtless think it a horrible matter to vote a dollar from the public treasury to improve rivers and harbors, seems to think it all right to vote millions to Iowa, Illinois, &c. for railroad purposes.

of the Maine Liquor Law in this State, since our last issue. naturally create an inquiry as to what has caused a change of public opinion in this there is a change, it is idle to deny. A few years ago, an effort in favor of temperance in this county was resisted by a large number of persons who perhaps did not taste liquor once a month, but nevertheless deprecated legislative action, and therefore sided with the tavern keepers and dealers. That was the time, in our opinion, "public houses of entertainment" ought to have gone back to the standard of formHon. JNO. W. Walker,

The result however has not answered the expectations formed: for instead of a diminution in intemperance, it has largely increased, and this too in the face of proclamations from the court and district attorney that the laws of 1705 and 1834 would be enforced, though they are

With minors too often staggering through our streets in besotted drunkenness, uttering every species of vulgarity and profanity: with men of all ages, from early manhood to the tottering footsteps of three score and ten, daily indulging in an undue quantity of liquor, not only to their own detriment, but also of their wives, children and friends-is it any wonder that even such a law as that now before the Legislature of Pennsylvania should meet ment of Messrs. Linford & Ernest, with favor, not only from the former opponents of stringent temperance measures, but even from intemperate men themselves, ates in accordance with the terms of their prosome of whom openly avow their conviction that it will be their only salvation from the baneful influence to which they have thus far vielded?

There must then be a change, and that too soon, or less than a prophet can foretell that a few years will bring a crisis that will end by closing every bar in the State. We doubt whether the present Legislature possesses nerve enough to embark in the crusade, but if it does not, and a reform is not effected, a current will arise that will seal the matter for this generation. if not the next. It would undoubtedly be an extreme stretch of power to eradicate a business so long recognized by law as legitimate, but under the cry that the " end will justify the means," we believe it will

On the 17th, the Speaker laid before the Senate a communication from E. G. Dutihl, Henry Graff, John Bingham and others, containing the following proposition to lease the public works of the Commonwealth for a term of ten years: Proposition to lease the Finished Lines of Railroads and Canals of this Commonwealth HARRISBURG, March 16, 1852.

SIR :- The undersigned, citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, respectfully submit the following proposition, to lease the finished lines of the canals and railroads of the State, for a term of ten years, from the first day of August next, and keep the same in as good re-pair as when received; and pay for the first year, eight hundred thousand dollars, for the second year, eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars, for the third year, nine hundred thousand dollars, for each succeeding year, one million of dollars. The payments to be made monthly to the State Treasurer, and secured by the deposite of one hundred thousand dollars in They further propose to expend, addition to the above payments, three hundred thousand dollars towards the improve-ment of the Columbia and Philadelphia Railroad during the term of their lease And also to double the capacity of the locks on the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania canal and on the completion of the road to avoid the Inclined Planes on the Allegheny Portage Railroad, to pay eight per cent. per annum on the money hereafter to be appropriated and expen-ded towards the construction thereof. They also propose to pay seven per cent. per annum on the sum of thirteen hundred thousand dollars on the completion of the North Branch Canal, and its connection with the Chemung Canal, in the State of New York; and they pray the legislature to enact a law authorising a contract to be made with the undersigned, or their associ-

In the Senate, on the 18th, the bill to repeal certain sections of the act of 1847, for the prevention of kidnapping, &c., came up in order second reading; the question recurring on the section as amended, repealing only the sixth section of the act of 1847, it was agreed to by the following vote: yeas 21, nays 11

In the House, on the 18th, Mr. Smith presented two memorials numerously signed by citizens of Huntindon county, remonstrating against cutting off and annexing of Brady tov to Mifflin county; also a petition asking for the repeal of an act of last session that authorized laying out of a State road from a point in on county, near Miles' saw-mill, across Stone Mountain to Allenville in Mifflin county. In the House, on the 19th, the bill providing for a loan of $650,000 for the purpose of re-funding and cancelling the relief notes, was taken up in Committee of the Whole, Mr. Broomall in the Chair. The bill passed Committee, but on second reading the first section was negatived by the following vote: yeas 41, ays 42-Mr. Ross voting nay. In the Senate, on the 20th, Mr. Carson read place, a bill to enable illegitimate children to inherit the estate of the mother. [Why not also

nclude the father?]
The bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors came up in order, and the Senzte again resolved itself into committee of the whole and proceeded with the consideration of the remaining sections. After some time the committee rose, and the bill was re-ported without material modification in its eneral features, but with a new section added submitting the question to a vote of the people

The bill was then ordered to be transcribed for third reading by the following vote:

The House of Representatives, says the Telegraph, have passed a very large number of private bills this session, and a considerable number of public bills. But the important bills of the session have scarcely been touched. In fact the Committee of Ways and Means have not as yet reported the approprtiaion bills of the session; nor has the approprionment bill scarcely made any progress. The bill which went through the House on second reading was found so palpably unjust, that there is no serious intention to push it through to a committee of conference. No greater progress has been made in the Senate. In this view of the state of business, a long session, at least till the 20th of April, may with confidence be expected.

The bill authorizing a loan of $850.000 for the completion of the North Branch Canal was again taken up.

The question being upon the amendment pledging the revenue of the work for the re-

"Democrat" regarding the proposition brought forward in the Legislature for the disposal by sale of the Public Works, is a sample of what we are to expect from all those interested in the continuance in the present condition of things, and from all appearances it is now pretty certain that Mr. Muhlenberg's judicious measure, even if it should become a law, will never be carried out in good faith, as there are too many concerned in the suppression of an investigation which might lead to expo- 1850 sures that would not bear the light. He will also give some recita so nearly concerned them.

If these works could be sold to a responsible company, every taxpayer ought o rejoice; they would then be at once relieved of a great part of the enormous burthen which lies like an incubus upon their property, and rid themselves at the same time of a system of fraud and peculation which has attended the construction and management of these works from the beginning. Another salutary effect of such a measure would be, to put an end to the corrupting influence which through them has been brought to bear upon our elections. If they cannot be sold, the next best plan would be to rent them for a limited term; and, for my part, I cannot perceive with the writer in the Democrat, the great danger of entrusting the Public Works, with proper restrictions, to a company at a good rent, well secured, and which would not be subject to the drawbacks arising from floods, mismanagement and default.

Whether the saving that corporations have no souls, be true or not, that they have tangible bodies, at least, is proved by the heavy damages and fines they are everywhere compelled to pay for the various accidents necessarily attendant upon our crowded thoroughfares. Whereas, that " Nominis Umbra," called the Public, has neither body nor soul, being neither responsible or tangible, and utterly incompetent to discharge the important trusts committed to its management.
