

The Humorist.

A California Lay.

The following affecting little lay comes from a correspondent of the Ledger, who has often amused its readers with his spirited details of things in California.

MORNING HILL, Calaveras Co., Cal.
Messrs. Editors:—Dear Sirs: I send you the enclosed stanzas, to dispose of as you may consider best. Yours, respectfully,
S.

SONG.

BY S. S. H. TACY.

At "Jeannette, &c."

I am going far away, but I don't know where to go;
If I should travel home again, they'd laugh at me, I know;
For I told them, when I started, I was bound to make a pile,
But they'd only see it now, I rather think they'd smile.
I've prospected the river, and I've helped to turn the stream,
And was trusted on the strength of that delusive golden dream;
For when we went to digging, we all found it was a sham,
And we, who dammed the river o'er, found nothing worth a dam.
I am going far away, &c.

Valgarism Defined.

Valgar—Take the rag off the bush.
Refined—Remove the dilapidated linen from off the infantile tree.
Valgar—Money makes the pot boil.
Refined—The precious metal causes the pot to effervesce.
Valgar—Money makes the mare go.
Refined—The circulating medium compels the female nag to abscquatulate.
Valgar—A fool and his money are soon parted.
Refined—The partnership existing between a simple one and his small change is speedily dissolved.
Valgar—What is bred in the bone cannot come out of the flesh.
Refined—That which is matured in the ossified substance cannot emanate from the carnesant man.
Valgar—Tell the truth and shame the devil.
Refined—Proclaim what is veracious and cause Diabolus to blush.
Valgar—Each dog has his day.
Refined—Each masculine of the canine species is entitled to the possession of one diurnal revolution of the earth.
Valgar—Does your anxious mother know you are out?
Refined—Is your solicitous maternal guardian aware that her offspring is abroad?

Bleeding to Death.

Ben Brisk is now a leading member of the Sons, and W. P. of a certain division in the interior of Ohio. He is a great friend to the cause, and a bitter enemy to ardent spirits is Benjamin Brisk, Esq., high shoemaker and cobbler general to the slothless inhabitants of Toppotown village, but Ben we are sorry to say, was not always so. There was a time when he liked his 'tea' as well as the next man—to tell the truth, he did get 'beastly' sometimes.

Reeling home one night as usual, a little top-heavy with gin, he blundered over every chair in the house? Well, Ben like you and I, had a nose upon his face; and on gathering himself to his feet, he imagined that he had done bodily harm to his nasal projection, and that the red wine was pouring there in a perfect 'stream.' So up went the window, and out went his head. It had been raining a little, and a small stream had been trickling from the eaves, and fell upon the pavement beneath him—patter, patter, patter—and Ben thought his nose was doing 'the clean thing.'

For the space of half an hour, he heard it distinctly trickling down upon the stones. He became alarmed. Still he heard it patter, patter, patter! He felt himself growing weaker and weaker, until at last he sank down fully impressed with the belief that he was bleeding to death! He slept till morning, and woke up a reformed man.—Nonpareil.

A Sensible Landlord.

The Frankford Herald is responsible for the following:
A little incident transpired some weeks ago at one of our Frankford hotels, which under the present temperance excitement is not unworthy of notice. The names of the party we shall withhold from the public for shame sake.

A little girl entered the tavern, and in piteous tones told the keeper that her mother had sent her to get eight cents. 'Eight cents,' said the tavern keeper. 'What does your mother want with eight cents? I don't owe her anything.'
'Well,' said the child, 'father spends all his money here for rum, and we have had nothing to eat to-day. Mother wants to buy a loaf of bread.'

A loafer standing at the bar, looked first at the child and then at the tavern keeper, and said very gruffly, 'd—n the brat—kick her out.'

'No,' said the keeper, 'I will give her the eight cents; and if her father comes here again I'll kick him out.'

'Always BELIEVED HIM TO BE A GOOSE?'—Well, how do you like your husband, said a female friend to a newly married lady.

'Oh, he's a duck of a man,' replied she who was enjoying the honey-moon.

'A duck, eh?' said the querist, 'ah! then I have been mistaken in my opinion of his species; I always believed him to be a goose!'

WANTED TO SEE HIS FATHER.—We have heard that, previous to a recent well-contested battle, a young volunteer officer asked leave of a certain celebrated Major General to go and see his father, who was on his death-bed.

'Go,' said the commander, smiling sarcastically; 'you honor your father and mother, that your days may be long in the land.'

DANDY—I say fellow, can you tell me where Mr. Swackelhammer, the preacher, lives?

DURCHMAN—Yaw. You jist walk de road up to de creek, and turn de pritch over up de stream; den you jist go on till you gum to a rote vat vinds de woos around a school house; but you don't dake dake rote. Well, den you go on till you meet a pick parn shinglet mit straw, den you durn de rote arount, unt go on bis you gum on a pick ret house all speckled over mit vite und de garret ubshairs. Vell, dat is mine broder Hans' house. Den you durn dat house arount de barn, und you see a rote dat goes ub in de woos. Den you don't dake dake rote doo. Den you go ride strade on, und de first you meet ish a lay shag unt de next ish a barrack. Vell, he don't lif here also. Den you will git a little farder, und you sees a house on de dop from de hill, pout a mile, und go der hill ub, und go der door in, unt ax de old voman, und he will doid you much bedder ols I con.

SHARP PRACTICE.—A Glasgow merchant was lately accosted in his counting-house, by a man who needed charity.—Money having been given, he said, 'you havn't got such a thing as a pair of old trousers, have you?'

'No my man, I don't keep my wardrobe in my counting-house.'

'Where do you live?' enquired the impertinent rascal, 'I'll call in the morning for the odd pair you've got on.'

IT'S A BORROWED HORSE.—A friend of ours, who was a few miles in the country lately, relates the following:—A mile or so from the city he met a boy on horseback, crying with the cold.

'Why don't you get down and lead the horse?' said our friend; 'that's the way to keep warm.'

'It's a b-b-borrowed horse, and I'll ride him if I freeze!'

PREPARATION.—A girl, hearing the lady of the house, at dinner, ask her husband to bring 'Dombey and Son' with him when he came home to his tea, laid two extra plates on the supper-table for the supposed visitors.

DIE BY INCHES.—A tall man, who was given to insinuation, was told by a medical friend that he was dying by inches. 'Thank Heaven!' said he, 'I measure six feet and seven inches.'

HENRY ZERBE, having taken the stand lately occupied by Clark & Zerbe, in Brown street, between Market and Third, Lewistown, invites his friends and the public to give him a call when in need of a CARRIAGE, BOGGY, or other vehicle of comfort and pleasure, before purchasing elsewhere. A number of FINISHED CARRIAGES will constantly be kept on hand, manufactured of the best material and in the most approved style, which will be sold very low for cash.
