Letter from California.

The following extract of a letter from Rev. Charles Maclay, a missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church in California, will be read with interest by his numerous friends in this county :- Chambersburg Valley Spirit.

SANTA CLARA, March 4, 1852. JOHN M. PUMROY, Esq.—Dear Friend :—A full year has elapsed since I left my native home among the mountains of Pennsylvania. Strange, but true, here I am in the land of golden dreams Many have been the changes since leaving my childhood's home in your county. My mind is predisposed to hold converse with the past, and bring up old associations with a desire to live them over again. But enough as to this, and forthwith proceed to give you some incidents of California life, climate, &c.

You no doubt have long since heard of my lo-cation in this valley, beautiful beyond description. Santa Clara valley is not to be excelled in the world for beauty and natural advantages. I have visited the far famed Wyoming of your own State, and the great valley of Virginia, with many other vallies of fame. They were eautiful, it is true, and their associations were of great interest to me, but this beautiful spot of creation, a kind of second Italy, is like a lonely flower garden never culled. Our plains stretch away in the distance for miles upon miles, say one hundred or more in length, and from ten to thirty in breadth. Wild flowers of every hue meet the eye in almost every direction, and this too, as you Atlantic folks say, in the midst of winter. Here we have no winter, but a perpetual summer. The soil is of a very superior nature, and wheat, barley, oats and vegetables of every description will grow and yield astonishingly. To write the whole truth, what I have seen and know, would not be credited, and so I shall say but little. Thousands of acres are now in small grain and bid fair for : heavy crop. Our climate is the most pleasant in the world, and said to be very healthy. You know I was half dead with dyspepsia for several years before coming here-well, I have never enjoyed better health than I do now. The Lord's name be praised for it. I am frequently asked if I would advise my friends to come to California. Those who enjoy goed health in the Atlantle country, and are in easy circum-stances, I would advise to stay where they are, but those in feeble health I would advise by all means to come, and the sooner the better. I would advise those just commencing the world, instead of going to the west, to come here. It is a rare instance for a person to make a fortune in a few months, and none should come with any make held the second come with any such calculations. It is a grand mistake for persons coming to this country to leave families behind. If they come here, let them bring their wives and children, with the understanding that they will make this their perma nent home, and if they are industrious and economical, there is no doubt but in ten years or less time they will be rich enough. Thousands, it is true come here and fail in everything . but these very persons, it must be borne in mind, failed in everything before they came to Califor-nia. California will not make sober men out of drunkards, but in a thousand instances the reverse. It will not make saving, managing men out of spendthrifts; but give her a fair chance, with good housest men, and they will do much better than in your country. Mrs. Maclay and myself, with our little son, enjoy ourselves very much. I could not think of returning to the States to live. We are in the midst of a glorious revival of religion in this place. A number have been converted within the past few days. Our first college building in this place, and the first in the State, is under roof, and looks well. I have my church nearly finished. It is a neat building--forty by fifty feet. Truly yours, CHARLES MACLAY.

poor bereaved husband, almost frantic at the loss of his young and beautiful wife whom he almost idolized, clung with desperation to the hope limned in her face, and long resisted the unanimous decision of the physicians, that she was certainly of the physicians, that she was certainly dead. They told him what is doubtless true, that it sometimes, though very rarely, happens, that there is no discoloration for days nor even weeks after dissolution has taken place. But still he resisted, and it was not until three days had passed, without the faintest signal of change or sign of life, that he finally gave up and suffered the burial to take place. She was entombed in a vault. Months passed. A cemetery having been laid out, the husband purchased and beautified a lot, erected an elegant monument in it, and when all was ready, superintended the removal of the body of his wife from the vault to its final resting-place. When the vault was opened he remembered the circumstances of her death, above detailed, and a desire seized him to once more behold the corpse. By his direction the coffin-lid was removed. The spectacle which presented itself was inconceivably horrible, for it showed that she had been buried alive. She had turned quite over upon her side; she had clutched her nails into the coffin until her fingers had bled, portions of her gravecloths were torn, and in her horrible struggles she had contrived to carry her hand to her head, and had plueked from it a mass of hair, with portions of the cap that covered it ! The poor man never recovered from the shock of that awful spectacle. He was borne away senseless, and for the rest of his weary life was an

Premature Rurial.

The Albany Register, in the course of an article on this subject, relates the following instance, of which the Editor was hands. perfectly cognizant :

Some years ago, we were perfectly cognizant to an occurrence of this kind, which was of the most heart-rending character. The wife of a gentleman was taken suddenly ill in church, and was carried to her home in a state of syncope. in a few hours she partially recovered, but immediately relapsed, and never again showed any signs of consciousness. She lay in this condition nearly two days, baffling the skill of the physicians, and then, as it was thought, and as there was almost every reason to believe, died. No signs of breathing could be detected, the limbs became rigid and cold, and the eyes remained open, with the fixed and glossy stare of death ; but there was no change in the color of the skin. This was the only reason in the world for supposing that dissolution had not taken place. The
