We Have Been Friends Together.

We have been friends together,

In sunshine and in shade, Since first beneath the chestnut tree,

In infancy we played ; But coldness dwells within thy heart,

A cloud is on thy brow :

We have been friends together-Can a light word part us now ?

We have been gay together ; We laughed at little jests, For the fount of hope was gushing, Warm and joyous in our breasts ; But laughter now hath fled thy lip, And sullen gloems thy brow : We have been gay together-Shall a light word part us now?

We have been sad together ; We have wept with bitter tears, O'er the grass-grown graves where slumbered

The hopes of early years ; The voices which are silent there Would bid thee clear thy brow: We have been sad together -----

Oh, what shall part us now? The New Moon --- A Good Omen.

Oh, I've seen the fair new moon, mother, Her erescent crowns the night; And from its silver horns, mother, Streams forth a gentle light ; Oh, fair its beam, On wood and steam, Putting all gloom to light ; And I saw her over my right, mother, I saw her over my right.

On the bridge by the maple path, mother, I stood and looked below. And the rippling wave in the light, mother, Shone bright with its silvery glow; The song of a bird,

The calm air stirred.

At a camp meeting, a number of ladies continued standing on the benches, notwithstanding frequent hints from the ministers to sit down. A reverend old gentleman, noted for his good humor, arose and said—'I think if those ladies standing on the benches knew they had holes in their stockings, they would sit down.' This address had the desired effect-there was an immediate sinking in the seats. A young minister standing behind him, and blushing to the temples, said :

'O, brother, how could you say that ?' 'Say that !' said the old gentleman, it's a net—if they hadn't holes in their stockings, I'd like to know how they could get them on.

The advantages this stand has in location, the facilities it affords for a convenient and ready market for its wares, together with its very extensive patronage, renders it one of the most desirable in the country. The WARES manufactured at this establishment are far superior to any other in the six counties, and have a reputation that will ever ac-cure the patronage of the public, from the fact of the material being inexhaustible, and con-nected with the concern by a lease of a number of years.

The business of Potting has been carried on successfully at this stand by myself and father for over 30 years, which is of itself sufficient advertisement to prove its advantages as a busi-ness stand. The PERSONAL PROPERTY in connection with the concern, will also be sold, if purchasers desire it.

It was a social party of a most novel character, and one that was never forgotten.

About the time that Andy's feelings were in as uncomfortable a state as could well be imagined, and he was beginning to wish himself at the North Pole, Kate designs were serious. Two or three were Archer and her friend Jenny entered the room slowly, the former with an open letter in her hand, upon which the eyes of both were resting.

In an instant, it flashed upon Andy Cavender that he was to be victimized by the city belle. No sooner had this thought crossed his mind, than rising abruptly, he bowed to his fair tormentors, saying-

'Excuse me, ladies.' And beat a hasty retreat.

But, ere he passed beyond the street door there reached him a gush of merry laughter from the musical throat of Kate, in which other voices mingled.

On the next day, he received a letter directed in a delicate hand. It inclosed the one he had written to Kate, and accompanying it was a note in these words : 'There is, it is presumed, a mistake in the direction of this. It was probably meant for Caroline Gray, Mary Harper, Nancy Herbert, or Jenny Green. In order that it may receive its proper destination, it is returned to the writer.'

> The Bauffshire (Scotch) Journal publishes a description of pieces of the wreck of a large vessel, supposed to be the President, washed ashore on the coast of Scotland. The exact fate of this vessel, or the causes which led to her loss, have always been a subject of interesting inquiry with the public, but so far without leading to any satisfactory result.

The grave of Aaron Burr, at Princeton, N. J., has been daguerreotyped. Not a stone marks the spot, though Burr is understood to have left a widow: and his ashes lie surround ed by the impressive monuments of Jonathan Edwards, John Witherspoon, Ashbel Green, and other deceased officers of Princeton College, whereof Burr's father was once President. Such is the end of evil greatness.

SHOCKING DEATH .- We regret to learn that Captain Crim, of the canal boat Judge An-thony, of this place, met with his death in a shocking manner on Monday last. He was on his return trip from the city, and was about crossing the river by the bridge at Columbia, when by some accident his leg became entangled in the tow line of a boat crossing in the opposite direction. Before he could be released from his dreadful situation, the tow line almost tore his leg from his body. Torn, lacerated, and bleeding fright-fully—his leg suspended by a fragment of bone and a shred of flesh, Captain Crim steered his boat across the river and into the canal at Columbia, and then fell exhausted upon the deck. He survived his extraordilso on Pivot, in the most durable manner. All work undertaken by him he will guarantee to be satisfactory, and if it is not, the money will be refunded.

He may be found at his residence in West Market street, opposite the Red Lion Hotel, at all times.
