Lundy's Lanc Scott Meeting.

There has been a general desire manifested in New York, Ohio and Michigan, to unite in a grand mass meeting in commemoration of the brilliant achievements of Winfield Scott on the bloody field at Lundy's Lane; and the Whig Committee of Niagara county, New York, have accordingly entered upon arrangements for such a meeting to be held on the battle ground on the twenty-seventh of the present month. The anniversary of the battle is on the 25th; but as that happens to be Sunday, it was deemed advisable to hold the meeting on the 27th. That it will be an immense gathering, there remains no doubt. Thousands and thousands will be there from Ohio, Michigan, and other States bordering upon the Lakes; and New York will have a representation to make it perhaps the largest political meeting ever held on this continent.

The Buffalo Express thinks that the gallant old chief could, with propriety, take this occasion to revisit the scenes of his early tri-umph, and thus enable thousands of his ar-dent friends and old companions in arms, to enjoy the pleasure of a personal interview on the spot, made famous by his deeds. Should come known that he will be there, acres of friends from all parts of the country will be there, and mingle their shouts of greeting with the roar of the mighty cataract in the neighborhood.

The world has witnessed mightierarmles,' says Mansfield, in his account of that battle, "moved over more memorable fields, and followed by louder notes of the far resounding trumpet of fame; but a bloodier scene for those engaged, a severer trial of courage and of discipline, the world has not seen. Hard by was that cataract, whose world of waters rushes over the precipies, and rushing, runs into the gulf below!

With the darkness came the greater rage of battle-charge after charge was made. For a time the faint beams of the moon struggled with the smoke, and gave a little light to the combatants, but it was little. The moon icalf became obscured, and no light, save the rapid flashes of the muskets and cannon, pierced the black clouds,"

It was an awful night, Hand to hand, and bayonet to bayonet, ficree men struggled, bled and died with the gloomy horrors of the night for their shroud, and the roar of the cataract and of battle for their requiem.

The events of that sanguinary field shed a halo of glory on the prowess of American The proud, defiant boast of the haughty Briton, that he had never met his match in a hand to hand fight was humbled. General Scott, then a stripling in his 28th year, with new troops and inferior numbers, drove the best veterans of Great Britain from their position, and captured their guns by the point of the bayonet. He was the idel of the American army. His genius, skill, bravery, generosity and soldier-like bearing inspired every man with bravery and love for their young chivalrous chief. His trumpet voice was heard above the roar and surge of battle. He was the soldier, beau-ideal of a warrior and with him as a leader, death had no ter-

At the close of that time ensanguined conflict, he was carried from the field literally cut to pieces with grape shot and bayonet His clothes were riddled with bullets, his tall plume was shot from his head, and two horses were killed under him. But he fought it out, until victory perched upon the Yankee Eagle, without fainting. Gen. Scott never faints in the hour of danger.

MURDER. A most shocking and cold blooded murder was perpetrated on Shaver's Creek, on Thursday last. The particulars, as far as we have been able to learn, are as follows: A young man named Thomas Steward and another named Lightner were working in a harvest field, together with a number of other persons, when a trifling controversy arose between them, as to which could mow the fastest.— Lightner said, 'I can mow faster than any Lightner of the name. I can mow as fast as Tom Stewart can walk.' Stewart said, 'that is an insult'-and immediately took up a scythe and ran Lightner through the body.-The scythe penetrated his side about the region of the stomach, coming out on the opposite side, a little higher up. He died in less than half an hour. Immediately after inflicting the mortal wound, Stewart, without waiting to withdraw the scythe ran to the woods and escaped. He was taken and lodged in jail, on Sunday afternoon. We learn that he is a young man about 18 years of age !-

BOBBERY,

Mr. Henry Harbison, of Woodberry Township, in this county, was robbed of $400, on Thursday night last, while going from Williamsburg to his own home—in the country. He had been to the East, and was compelled to go home after night, for which purpose he provided a lantern, and when a short distance from town he was attacked by four men, and rifled of the amount stated above. The light was taken out of his hands, and he secured by the robbers, but without rendering him any bodily harm. Being an old man, he was unable to distinguish who the robbers were. -Hollidaysburg Whig.
