The Hydrostatic Bed. Among the many useful articles of recent invention, is the Hydrostatic bed, invented by Doctor Arnott, of London. To the afflicted partly excoriated or sore from having lain for a long time in one position, this bed will afford great relief. It ought, therefore, to be brought within the knowledge and reach of might be manufactured in all our manufacturing towns, and ought to be for sale in ev-

A trough of sufficient length and breadth to contain the patient, (about six feet long and Lawyer's oxen goring each other to some and two feet and a half, or upwards, wide) and a foot deep, is prepared, and water put into it to the depth of six or seven inches, and water proof indian rubber cloth placed upon it. This cloth is of sufficient size to float on the water and to admit freedom of motion, is fastened and firmly cemented at the upper part of the trough. A light hair mattress, with pillow and bed clothes, is placed upon the water proof cloth, and the bed is prepared and ready for the reception of the in-

The great advantage of this bed is, that the pressure being equalized, is not felt by every part of the body, is not perceptible, al-though it is said to be the weight of fifteen pounds per square inch of its surface. The patient, although lying with carbuncles or oiles on this bed, with ease may change position, without causing pain, as one in like manner afflicted can move in water without injury to the protuberances.

our merchants might do the afflicted some service by bringing one of them for a pattern, and also materials for making them; for I think it cannot be doubted but our ingenious mechanics can manufacture them equal to the pattern and supply the demand.

For the consideration of the more skilled in such matters, I would suggest, whether air might not be substituted for water in the construction of such beds for the afflicted. If so, it appears to me that there would be some advantages in favor of the Air Bed,

From the Somerset Herald and Whig. Pierce on the Fugitive Slave Law.

The locofocos boast themsleves to be the es pecial friends of the Compromise and the Fugitive Slave Law. In laying down their platform at Baltimore, they slurred over everything that they have been in the habit of enuncithese measures a final settlement of the vexed question. In accepting the nomination, Mr. Pierce placed himself on this platform, and locofoco editors and orators have been busied ever since in singing his praises as a friend of the south, and denouncing Gen. Scott and the Whig party as abolitionists, in whom no faith was to be placed because of their late conversion. We don't propose just now to two children, of Lancaster, are reported lost. argue which party has the best claim to the title of friends to the Compromise; but we ask our readers to compare the following extracts taken from locofoco papers published in New Hampshire, at Mr. Pierce's own door, with his present professions and the loud braggadocio of his friends, and then determine for themselves whether that gentleman is so exclusively sound in relation to the "peuliar institution." In our humble opinion, it shows conclusively that he wears TWO FACES, one for the north and the other for the south. On the 8th of January last he loathed the Black. law, and his feelings revolted at the giving up of a slave; now he is its exclusive guardian, and in no other hands would its administration be safe. Let his friends consistently reconcile these two adverse opinions, if they can, or forever after hold their peace in relaion to the abolition feeling of the Whig

From the Independent Democrat, published at Concord, New Hampshire At the meeting appointed at New Boston Centre, on Friday afternoon of January 2d, by General Franklin Pierce, to address the citizens of that town in regard to the difficulties between himself and a portion of the democrats of that section, he occupied the first hour of his speech in defending his military character. He explained the circumstances of his fainting, and declared that "with the exception of a single occasion, he had led his command in the blaze of every

After this he commenced speaking upon the Fugitive Slave Law. He said that it differed n no important particular from the law of 1793. A clergyman who was present, said, that as the invitation had been given, he would like to make an inquiry: "Do you regard the features of the Fugitive Slave Law as consistent with common law ?"

General Pierce immediately replied: "If I must answer the question, I say no, I do not. I have been asked if I liked this Fugitive Slave Law. I answered no, I loathed it. I have a most revolting feeling at the giving up of a ave; the law is opposed to humanity."

Here Mr. Foss inquired, "If it was not opposed to right as well as humanity?" General Pierce replied-"Yes, it is opposed to

The above is the substance of General Pierce's remarks upon the Fugitive Slave language used by the General as taken down at the time it was uttered. Lest any of our democratic friends should not receive the above as a true version of we clip the following extract from an elaborate report of the same meeting, in the Man-chester (N. H.) Democrat of Jan. 8, 1852. He [Gen. Pierce, who was then speaking] was then asked: "Was either the law of '93 or the present law founded in any degree upon the common law?" Gen. Pierce.-'I can't go into a disquisition upon the common law."

inquiry was then made, "Do you regard the features of the Fugitive Slave Law as consistent with the common law?"

Gen. Pierce.-" Well, if I must answer. No, I do not. I have been asked if I liked this Fugitive Slave Law. I answered, no. I have a most revolting feeling at the giving up of a slave; the Fugitive Slave Law is opposed to humanity. [Here some one inquired, "Is it not opposed to right?"] Yes, it is opposed to moral right."

EDITORIAL OLLA PODRIDA.

One week the Democrat tells its readers that Greeley a few years ago pronounced Gen. Scott a self-conceited coxcomb, and the next that Greelev is now Gen. Scott's confidant! A likely story, truly. Then again, when the Tribune, professing to speak only for itself, disavows a certain principle, lo! it is tortured into speaking for Gen. Scott; but every family. Its construction is simple, and if the New York Post disavows the locofoco platform, not only for itself, but for the party, it "is neither here nor there!" Our neighbor has evidently read the fable of the Farmer

The Democrat labors hard to show that Pierce is a better compromise man than Gen. M. M. Clark, of Philadelphia, will be present Scott, just in the same way that it labored to show Polk was a better tariff man than Clay. Now, if there is anything clear in this matter, the position of Gen. Scott is much less equivocal than that of Pierce-for the whig platform was coolly and deliberately adopted and endorsed to the letter by Gen. Scott, while the locofoco was hurried through at the breaking up of their convention, when probthe patient any where, in like manner as breaking up of their convention, when prob-the pressure of the atmosphere, equalized to ably not one half of the delegates knew its contents. Besides, although a great ado was made about certain letters to Captain Scott, of Richmond, Va., written previous to the meeting of the National Convention, it is a fact that this same Franklin Pierce, to whom the same queries were addressed as to Cass, If these Hydrostatic Beds can be obtained, Buchanan, &c., has to this day never answered them! Can the Democrat account for this dodging in any other way than a destre to secure the votes of Fred. Douglass, R. T. Swanson, Martin Van Buren, and other distinguished locofoco abolitionists?

The quotation marks include the very facts: "General Scott is a Protestant Episcopalian, and worships at St. John's Church, Washington. Mr. Graham is by birth and education a Presbyterian, though not a communicant of any church; and as his lady is General Pierce's remarks upon that occasion, a member of the Baptist Church, he worships part of the time, at least, with that denomination. General Pierce is by education a Congregationalist, though not a member of the Church. Mr. King is a Protestant Episcopalian in his preferences."

Valuable Dwelling & Store Stand

Private Sale. The subscriber offers for sale two lots of ground situate on the corner of the Diamond, in Reedsville, Mifflin county, with a large DWELLING and STORE STAND, Stabling for 8 horses, Kitchen, Wood House, Smoke House, and other out buildings thereon erected. There is also a well of water on the premises, Apple, Peach and Plum Trees in full earing-in fact everything calculated to render the store stand is undoubtedly one of the best in the country, being situate on the great avenue (the Centre and Kishacoquillas Turnpike,) on which hundreds of thousands of bushels of grain are annually taken to market; the new turnpike from Milheim, in Centre county, ntersects the Centre and Kishacoquillas road between the store and tavern, and this, now nearly finished, will largely increase the busi ness-so that few places offer more inducements to an enterprising business man than this. The location in other respects is highly favorable-being six miles from Lewistown, but a short distance from Brown's well known Mills. convenient to Schools and Churches, and an unsurpassed valley beyond, whose thrifty population daily pass the door. It was last occupied by Wm. J. Glass, deceased.

by Wm. J. Glass, deceased.

A further description is not deemed necessary, as persons desirous of purchasing will of course call and examine for themselves. For further information apply to Wm. Brothers, Esq., or Wm. McKinney, Esq., Reedsville, or to the subscriber in Armagh township.

To a suitable purchaser, terms will be CHARLES COLFELT. June 4, 1852-tf.
