The Late Disastrous Fire
GIVES fresh evidence of the reliance to be placed in OLIVER EVANS' FIRE PROOF SAFES. No. 61 South Second street, Philadelphia.
We take pleasure in stating that we had one of Oliver Evans' Fire Proof Safes in our store, during the great fire at Hart's Buildings, which, when taken from the ruins and opened was found to have preserved our books, papers, &c., entirely unimpaired. Getz & Buck's safe was also destroyed by the same fire, and failing to pick the lock of our Iron Safe, they tried to blow it open with powder, but no loss or injury was sustained. It was purchased of Oliver Evans, 61 S. Second street Philadelphia. J. C. Foulks, Bordentown, N. J.

Tuscarora Academy.

THIS flourishing institution is located in Tuscarora Valley, Juniata county, Pa., eight miles S. W. of Mifflintown, and six miles from the Perryville station on the Pennsylvania Railroad. It has been in successful operation for more than fourteen years, and is believed to be equal to any Academy in the State, in affording facilities to young men for acquiring a thorough Academic education, either for business or for college. There were present, during the last session, (previous to the fire) more than one hundred students. Since then, the buildings have been entirely re-modeled and greatly enlarged, so as to afford private rooms to all the students; an advantage not ordinarily found even in the best institutions in the country. Being in the country, the students are removed from those temptations to idleness, dissipation, and vice, which are the bane of similar institutions in towns.

TERMS.
For Boarding, (per week) $1 25
Washing, private room, and incidentals, (per quarter) 4 40
Tuition in Latin, Greek and Mathematics (per quarter) 6 00
Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Rhetoric, Political Economy, Book Keeping, Book, History, &c. &c. 4 50
Astronomy, English Grammar, Geography, Reading, Writing, &c. (per quarter) 2 00
Sketching from Nature and Painting—Vocal Music and Stenography, (when desired)—Hebrew, (to young men preparing for the ministry) gratis.
Thus it will be seen that $22 25 will defray the whole average expense of a student, at the Institution, per quarter.—Light, Books and Stationery are found by the Students; and may be obtained at the stores in the neighborhood. There are no extra charges whatever.

The Principals will devote themselves with unremitting assiduity to the culture of the minds, morals, and manners of their pupils; and hope, therefore, to commend the Institution to the continued liberal patronage of the public.

The Vacations occur in April and October; but Students will be admitted at any time during the session when there are vacancies.

For full information, address all communications (post paid) to "Academy P. O."
Rev. WM. S. GARTHWAIT, Principals.
Rev. GEO. W. THOMPSON, Principals.
Tuscarora Valley, Juniata county, June 18, 1852.

N. B.—Students from a distance, can always find a ready conveyance from Perryville, up to the academy; but if the Principals are informed of the day of arrival at that point, a carriage will be waiting.

FIRST IN THE FIELD!

Tremendous Outpouring of New Styles and Great Destruction of High Prices.
IMPROVED & BROTHER, at the old Nusbaum stand, have just received from the city one of those large and choice assortments of NEW GOODS for which the house occupied by them long since established a name and fame over the six counties; and determined, as they are, to keep up its reputation, they made unusual efforts, while in the city to secure all the new styles of goods calculated to adorn the fair forms of Heaven's last best gift to man, as well as all that may have a tendency to make the young, middle aged, or old man, look ten times better than either ever did before. As, however, others prefer to dress in plain but strong clothing, they have also provided a beautiful supply of coarser material than Silks or Satins—all which they will sell, WHOLESALE or RETAIL, at prices that defy Tom, Dick, or Harry, Jew or Gentile, Mahometan or Mormon, Dhu'd-din, or follower of Confucius, to beat. Our stock comprises as fine an assortment of

LADIES' DRESS GOODS
as was ever seen in this or any other country town, embracing every description and style of all that is

New, Neat and Fashionable, at prices varying from a few cents to dollars per yard. In other kinds of goods we can show in quality and price, whatever others can produce, and a considerable sprinkling that cannot be found elsewhere—especially in

Cloths, Cassimeres, Satinets, and we will venture to add, in FALL and WINTER GOODS generally. Of Bonnets, Carpeting, Hosiery, Gloves, Ribbons, and numberless other small matters, the inquiry need but be made to satisfy any one that they have all been selected with care, purchased at a low price, and as a necessary consequence are offered for sale cheap. Our

Groceries, Fish, Salt, &c., are also very low, and offer strong inducements to persons in town and country to call and purchase.

For past favors we are truly grateful. Remember, the Old Nusbaum stand is the place for BARGAINS.

SUMMER HATS.
THE NOMINATIONS being made, the next thing to be had is a nice SUMMER HAT, for we may now reasonably suppose that Summer is at hand. The undersigned has just received and opened a new supply, to which public attention is invited. A very fine assortment of CHILDREN and YOUTH'S HATS, very low, to suit every fancy, and please every taste. Call and see,

Liquors and Western Produce.
AN assortment of excellent LIQUORS, comprising WINES, BRANDY, WHISKY, &c., is offered for sale very low, or if a quantity is taken, a liberal deduction will be made on Philadelphia prices. This is an opportunity that may not offer again for some time, and dealers in the article are therefore requested to give me a call.
ALSO,
A general assortment of WESTERN PRODUCE, as well as GROCERIES, &c., all cheap for cash, at the Canal Store.

Poetry.

Oh, Come to Me.
Oh, come to me, and bring with thee
The sunny smiles of former years,
If smiles so bright will lend their light,
To cheer a brow long us'd to tears:
I will not lend one sad regret,
One gloomy thought our meeting chill,
But, for thy sake, I'll strive to make
This altered cheek look cheerful still.

Then come to me—our theme shall be,
The friends we lov'd, not those we mourn;
We'll not destroy a present joy,
Lamenting joys that ne'er return:
The ardent rays of early days,
And boyhood's bloom, we ne'er may see;
But days of bright and pure delight,
May be in store,—then come to me.

De Last ob de Cabbages.
'Tis de last ob de cabbages
Left standin' alone;
Every beam-bush and tater-vine
Am faded and gone,
Not a collard is standin',
Not a squash-vine am foil,
Nor reflect her soft blushes;
Nor give smell for smell!

I'll not leave thee, lone cabbage,
To die on the stem,
Since I've eat all the others,
I'll do you like dem:
So kindly I pull off
The leaves from the stalk,
Since your mates ob de garden
Am now stems, white like chalk!

So quick may I follow,
If Binsh should die!
And her eye shut forebber,
How dis poor darkey 'd cry!
When banjos am broken,
And collards all gone,
Oh! who den would lib in
Dis black world alone?

CIDER.

MR. FRESA—I am aware that many of the readers of your valuable paper, are in the habit of making their own cider. It is a very wholesome and refreshing beverage, and is always of much value on the farm for culinary purposes; but good cider is a rare article, indeed, in these days. Old William Penn, among many other testimonials of his superior sagacity and wisdom, has left the apothegm that 'cleanliness is near of kin to godliness'; and in my opinion one great reason why so much poor cider is made is, that cleanliness is altogether disregarded in the making of it. True, working purges off much of the impurity of the liquor, yet any one who examines the sedimentary matter in the barrels from which cider has been slowly racked or drawn off, will need no argument to convince them fermentation does not wholly purify it. It is this sedimentary deposit which causes the liquor to grow hard, and have that singularly disgusting and mawkish flavor which it so generally acquires after it is one or two years, and sometimes even a few months old.

In making cider, imperfect fruit should always be rejected as unsuitable. Water should be freely used in cleansing all the utensils previous to commencing, and the apples should be exposed for a day or two to the sun before they are passed through the mill. The straw used, should be perfectly bright, clean and free from mildew, rust or mould. Before filling your casks, put in a few gallons of cider, and burn a clean rag that has been dipped in melted brimstone in the bung-hole. The rag may be one foot long, and an inch or an inch and a half wide. If the cask is larger than a common thirty gallon barrel, the quantity of cider and size of the rag should be proportionally increased. When the rag is consumed, shake the cask well, and fill it up. The firmer your strainers are, the less sediment there will be, and in this particular it is scarcely possible to exercise too much care.

From the common crab apple, cider almost as delicious as the best wines may be made.

Good cider will long continue to be a favorite beverage in this country, and those who possess the art of manufacturing it, will find that few products will be more certain to sell or bring a more remunerating price in the market. But poor cider is not saleable, and will rarely repay the trouble and expense of making it.

A BUCKS COUNTY FARMER.
September 10, 1852.

Waste of Weeds.
There are a large number of our farmers who seem to have a strange veneration for weeds. Even in the fields—in the corners of their fences—in the very heart of their meadows—the intruders are tolerated in their rank fertility as though they were sacred. We often see large meadows dotted with such swamp islands, and the plow even, driven in towards the centre. The ground is thus lumbered and lost for all useful purposes, when a few hours of labor will change the whole aspect of the field. Not only the farmers' 'compromise' with weeds upon these fields, but the roads through their premises, are lined with the same noxious burdens, annually spreading over their roots, and upon the winds scattering their unnumbered seeds to fall upon and take root in other sections. The very winds are thus full of foulness to the agriculturist. Our highways are sometimes hedged for miles with the Canada thistle, its downy produce floating unobstructed, and the slovenly farmer sleeps while his lands are being filled with foul stuff.

The good farmer will not pursue such a system of farming. Economy and good order cry against it. Whenever we pass a farm where an exterminating war has been waged against weeds and bushes, we feel like stopping to thank him in person. We have purchased a small farm, and there hope to spend the greater portion of our time and labor; and when once under way, if such mischievous customers crowd our furrows to deface our meadows, it will be because our right hand has lost its strength. We put it down as bad economy to invest money in weeds.—Cayuga Chief.

Miscellaneous.

In a late religious excitement in Boston, a person met a christian neighbor, who took him by the hand and besought him to go to one of these meetings and become a christian.

'I have done so,' said he, 'and have got religion.'

'You are a christian, then, all at once?' said the other; 'you profess to act strictly on christian principles? I am glad of it. I congratulate you. Suppose we now have a settlement of our little accounts between us. Pay me what you owe.'

'No,' said the new born child of grace, turning on his heel, 'religion is religion and business is business.'

A country editor is 'giving boots' to a rival town, and among other saucy things, says that 'it takes several of their pigs to pull a blade of grass; and they are so poor that the foremost seizes the spear in his mouth, the balance having taken each other by the tail, when they all give a pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together, and if it breaks, the whole tumble to the ground for want of sufficient strength to support them. It takes three or four to make a shadow.'

When a tailor retires from business and goes to gardening, he don't change his occupation as much as some people imagine. He merely raises 'cabbage' out of the ground instead of out of his customers.

Every body complains of bad memory, but nobody of bad judgment, yet people are far more deficient in judgment than in memory.

A Frenchman got exceedingly angry with a waiter at a hotel. 'You rascal,' exclaimed he, 'I blow your nose for you.'
