A little boy named James Dingman was killed by his own sister Christina, in Columbia county, N. Y., in a fit of anger. She threw a pair of scissors at an older heart of the boy.

John G. Bush, a printer, formerly of Virginia, died in New Orleans last week. The deceased went with Lopez to Cuba, was taken prisoner, sent to Cueta in Africa, and finally went to Nicaragua, where he fought gallantly, and where he contracted the disease with which he died.

On Sunday last, Robert Clinebell, one of the prisoners confined in Greenbrier, Va. jail, on charge of having assisted in burning a mill, attempted to knock his brains out with a brickbat, but failed to accomplish his object. He was senseless for several hours afterwards, but re-

A child of Mr. J. H. Suydam, of Granby, Ohio, fell into a well 18 feet deep. There was no help at hand, and after a moment's hesitation, Mrs. S. climbed down and caught the child, and then elimbed up the side till within a few feet of the top. Another child, five years old, lav down on the platform, and reaching down, took the child by the arm, and the little fellow was saved.

The dwelling of Wm. H. The Evening Post has the following: -The South is hailing the appearance of a "Reply to Dred," in a novel entitled "Tit for Tat," by a lady of New Orle-ns. Of its merits we know nothing, except from the culogies of the Southern press, at which no one need be surprised. The maternal parent, it is said, will cluck more over one chicken than her more fortunate neighbor over a whole brood. The name of the fair author is not disclosed.

The N. O. Picayune says: "We were yesterday credibly informed, by a gentleman who resides near the spot, that in September last, the well known pecan tree, under which the remains of General Pakenham were buried,a few miles below this city, was broken off, thirty feet above the ground, by a gale of wind, and a cannon ball, fired from the British lines during the battle, was found imbedded just where the trunk broke off. Thus it was that the township, deceased. brave Briton slept under one of his own missiles as his monument!'

New York Justice .- At the Court of Special Sessions, on Tuesday last, a respectably dressed young man was fined ten dollars for knocking a female down in the street, breaking one of her teeth and otherwise injuring her.
