The question then again recurs, what does the four and a half millions of dollars, above the value of the Columbia railroad. which under this bill is the only valuable portion of the Main Line, represent! Not the tonnage tax, for that is false in principle and unjust in practice. We have now reached the point where that excess over the intrinsic and actual value of the Main Line begins to represent something tangible-something real. By the provisions of this bill she is released from her State tax, not her county, city, borough or townwill be alleged? By the payment into the Treasury, annually, until 1890, of $225,-000. Then the payment of the principal of that sum, four and a half millions of dollars. Is this an exoneration? Is this a release? Let us look at the figures, and they are open to the most rigid scrutiny. What are the State taxes of this road!-To what do they amount at a time when the State debt is forty millions? State tax on 8 per cent. dividend on $12,646,000 stock. $50,584 00

Ninety nine thousand and forty-three dollars and twenty-six cents is her aggregate tax, county, borough and State. We pass by the fact that under the provisions of this bill, she is still the subject of city, county and township rates and levies. We wish to make the case as strong as possipublic improvements; not alone to be released from taxation-but to get you to take the hampers off her trade; to unshackle her business, and let her fight a battle the prosperity of that great State, with an immense consideration is offered, is a new one. It may be open to objections. Doubtless it is. But where a party comes forward, and voluntarily agrees to pay more than double the amount of the tax annually for thirty years, and at the expiration of that time double the principal, and that too right in the face of a prospecenormous debt, we see no very valid objecwhen we look at the fact that we are getis every year costing us immense sumsthat never has and never will nett to the treasury one dollar. Distressing Drowning Case .- A party of eleven persons, all French, named F. Willemin, Miss Adolphine Willemin, Miss Celia Humbert, Miss Marianne Kuntz, Gustavus Gigon, Xavier Mounte, Frederick Luttman, Charles Goll, Alfred Perrenond, David Guillott, and Joseph Cayot, left Philadelphia in the sail boat Rambler, on Friday last, to take a pleasure excursion down the river to Red Bank. When they had arrived opposite Howell's Cove, their frail barque was struck by a heavy equall of wind, which immediately capsized it, and before assistance could be rendered, three of their number had perished. Their names were F. Willemin, aged thirtyeight; Adolphine, his daughter, aged seventeen, and Miss Celia Humbert also about seventeen years of age.

Death of Senators Butler and Bell .- The deaths of Hon. Andrew P. Butler, United States Senator frem South Carolina, and of Hon. James Bell. United States Senator from New Hampshire, were simultaneously an nounced by telegraph last week.

No one tion to it. It comes upon us stronger, too, then thought that he compromised his principles by even voting for a Democrat, because ting a large price for an improvement that the principal object sought was attained in the cattle d defeat of the caucus ticket. Last year however men who had always previously advocated a union of the opposition to democracy as it is, suddenly discovered that they comparties, under every form of management, protoised their PRINCIPLES by continuing to its bold, rank and startling corruption, has aid in defeating the common enemy, the rethrown into the shade all ordinary pecula. sult of which was that the rejoicing was made by the enemy; and now the editor of the Auniary advantage of the State to sell it, if for a announces that he will not "compromise" she can do so under this bill. Lambs are coming in highly important to the organization of any party. Though not worth much in a pecuniary point of view, they are strong incentives to politicians to go to work, bring out votes, and keep the machinery of party in motion. It is this, coupled with still more petty offices on the canal, that has kept votes in the democratic rank that otherwise would have flown from it, and as every one knows in many cases made votes. Laborers out of employment are apt to be grateful, perhaps more so than other classes, and unless strongly tainted with partisanship, care but little for whom they vote unless some personal friend should be in question. Such is the actual position of affairs here, and now when the democracy is on the point of losing its right arm, the canal, the opposition to it, if the Aurora represents any considerable portion of it at all, instead of uniting and striking effectual blows at the common enemy, are to wrangle about theories, abcontending for the bone leave the democracy 3000 hu Penna at 60c ? bu.

The former were arrested and held to bail, and it is now reported that the government at Washington will May. back the marshal with troops.
