THE INJUNCTION CASE.

The following proceedings took place in the Supreme Court a few days ago:

Henry L. Mott et al., Canal Commissioners, vs. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company et al.

—And now, June 6, 1857, on reading the bill of complaint, &c., and on motion of Wm. L. Hirst, James H. Walton, C. R. Buckalew, Wm. M. Meredith, counsel for complainants, it is ordered that the complainants have leave to move the Court in bane, at Harrisburg, on the 12th day of June, instant, at 9 o'clock. A. M., for a preliminary injunction, according to the prayer of the bill. Notice of motion to be given defendants.

This is certainly a most extraordinary proceeding on the part of the Canal Commissionsuit, and it is to be hoped that the next Legislature will take good care to see that the lawyers bills are footed by Henry L. Mett et al. as individuals, for as Canal Commissionselves up as guardians over acts passed by | years ago left in disgust. the Legislature. To us the whole case as it stands appears as if gotten up by designing knaves, who are using the Canal Commissioners as catspaws, in the hope of getting a last grab at the treasury. We shall soon see however how far the Judges of the Supreme Court will lend themselves towards resuscitating the dying hopes of the State robbers, and we shall also see whether plain law can be tortured and twisted into such a shape as to suit the most corrupt and infamous purpo-

OUR LATE SENATOR .- Both the papers in Mifflintown unite in eulogising James M. Sellers, Esq., our late Senator. The Sentinel of last week, whose editor retired with that number, thus speaks of him:

"Abused, persecuted and misrepresented at every point and on all occasions, he has risen superior and in spite of his enemies .-The more he was abused and persecuted, the more refulgent did his virtues shine; the more he was misrepresented, the more clearly did his life and conduct overwhelm the misrepresentations. We have known men to be his most bitter foes, and when adversity and misfortune overtook them, he was the first to step forward and lend them a helping hand, and hundreds in this county can attest his generosity and noble sympathy. His kindness of heart is proverbial, and his integrity beyond question. To day he is stronger in the hearts f his people than ever before, and every malevelent shaft aimed at him only serves to enshrine him in the affections of this community. In all the various public positions he has filled, he has discharged his trust with honor and fidelity. As a politician he has ever sought the welfare of his party, and if he has received honor and emolument from it, he has returned it with compound interest. Such men we delight to honor; they are creditable, honorable and noble.'

"But it is the greatest and most pernicious folly to vote for party where party is not the question, to give up to party what was meant for mankind, in town and county elections, when the candidates are candidates simply because they attended the primary or delegate elections and had themselves shoved on the ticket by their secrecy or shrewdness. The people should test candidates by their merits and fitness-not by their party professions. Then our legislative and county offices would be better filled. We trust that more care will be taken hereafter by those immediately interested, that the proper persons are placed in nomination, and on failure of that to vote for the best men regardless of party. If all the candidates for an office are equally good and competent men, then, of course, party lo ties should induce you to vote for the candidate of your party, otherwise not. If the people have any regard for themselves, their children, and their interests, they will cease following the foolish fashion of voting for the worst men their party can produce, simply because they are the party candidates, in preference to the best men in the county because they belong to a party that holds differ-ent views on national questions from them

We copy the above from the Lebanon Ad-Roach, and Bedbug Exterminator is sold by vertiser, a full-blooded democratic paper, which seems to have awakened from its lethargy on the subject of party nominations, or in other words supporting Tom, Dick, Harry. or the d-l, in preference to a political opponent, no matter how unprincipled and unfit the former may be, or how good the latter .--The principle laid down is undoubtedly a good one for all to follow, and if the so-called democracy will profit by it, we may have better legislation in future, for there is no disputing the fact that much of the bribery, corruption, intrigues and injurious legislation are chargeable to members elected under that potent name, though one-half of these who voted for them at the time knew they were destitute of all honor and honesty as citizens, ers, in making themselves a party to such a and of course unfit for legislators. Were the bone and sinew of that party to discard the political gamblers who now rule it, and put in practice the major part of their professions, there is no doubt thousands upon thousands ers they have no right whatever to set them. | would soon be found among them again who
