window into the darkened room. As he entered, Bill Hart, a notorious character, shot him through the breast, and at the same time a gun was pointed at Bill Hart by another person, when Taylor exclaimed, "he has shot me, let me shoot him," and fired. Both fell. Citizens commenced rusking in well armed, as well as many of the desperadoes, and the shooting became general. The gang of rowthey were coming to close quarters.

By this time at least three hundred citizens had collected, all well armed-for it was well known that this gang of rowdies could have at their command seventy-five or one hundred men within fifteen minutes. Many of them came in sight, but very wisely withdrew.— Five persons were killed, two citizens and three of the desperadoes. Taylor may recever. At this stage of affairs, the city authorities commanded the multitude to disperse, and they immediately obeyed the command. -N. O. Picagune, 6th inst.
