Notices of New Advertisements.

W. Thier, Philadelphia, invites attention to his stock of Toys and Fancy Goods, which he will seil by wholesale in quantities to suit purchasers.

G. G. Evans advertises a list of gifts to be given to the purchasers of books at his establishment.

Two stray hogs are advertised by Aaron Peters.

Those suffering with diseases of the chest and throat will notice the advertisement of Dr. Mertoun.

Two executors' notices also appear.

McCoy & Ellis have just opened a select assortment of Dry Goods purchased at greatly reduced prices, to which the attention of the public is invited. Sugar, heretofore selling for 124, cents, can now be had for 10, and molasses which sold at 25 cents for 20, &c.

ELECTIONS .- The returns from Minnesota are still incomplete, both parties claiming the victory. Maryland, Massachusetts, Illinois, New York, Wisconsin, Michigan, and New Jersey, hold elections this week, some of them however only for inferior offices. In several there are three parties in the field, which must of course result in favor of the democracy.

EVANS'S GIFT BOOK SALE .- This establishment, located in Philadelphia, continues to keep on hand a very large and choice selection of books, which are sold at the ordinary retail prices, and a gift in value from $100 to 25 cents, given to each purchaser. The whole transaction is a perfectly fair one to purchasers, and although all cannot expect to draw a gold watch or other equally valuable article, yet each one must draw something. Those who desire books cannot do better than by sending down for a catalogue, select books either singly or in clubs, and thus procure them with the chances of a valuable gift

THE TIMES AND THE REMEDY. It is much doubted whether the Relief Bill passed by the Legislature will produce the effect desired. The stay law may give breathing time to a few and enable them to weather the storm, but those whose means are locked up in stocks of imaginary value will realize nothing more in the end than they could now-in fact we look upon many of the suspensions in the cities by merchants and speculators as total failures. We believe it to be the same case with the banks there that have advanced heavy loans to favored individuals, a considerable portion of which will probably be lost .-The country banks and merchants on the other hand we believe to be in far better condition, as every one of them now solvent, if no new debts are contracted, can readily realize enough within a year to pay off their present indebtedness, and if a more liberal system had been pursued by the city banks and brokers, but little difficulty would be experienced in honoring drafts, notes, &c. Instead however of a show of liberality, drafts are drawn payable in city funds, the consequence of which is that most of these drafts are returned without even an attempt at collection, no conditions. This is owing to the failure of this place. . the wheat crop in this section, through which the balance of trade had heretofore been adjusted, and affords a practical illustration of the effects of importing more than is exported-for what holds good of a community, is equally applicable to our country as a whole. Thus no sooner do we find that the speculators who have heretofore controlled the breadstuff, cotton, sugar, and other markets, (and through their natural allies, the importers, flooded our country with foreign fabrics of all descriptions,) are no longer in power, than every foreign arrival brings gold to this country instead of taking it away as heretofore. Including the last arrivals from Europe, Havana and California, the receipts of specie in October were as follows:

Regular receipts of specie,
Bank of England Certificates,
By steamship Philadelphia at N. O. from Havana,
Quaker City at New York,
Star of the West at New York,
Arago at New York,

Total since October 1st. $11,674,195 The exports during that time did not exceed half a million. Were this state of affairs to continue our country would soon assume a different aspect, and in less than five years we might dispense altogether with bank notes of a less denomination than $10, or even $20.

Valentine Best, a somewhat noted politician, died at Danville last week.

It is now pretty well ascertained that the Bank of Pennsylvania is about as effectually smashed up as the Lancaster.

A stampede of thirty slaves took place at Cambridge, Md., on Saturday night last. Messrs. Pattison, Phillips and Brannock, owners of seventeen, have offered a reward of $3100 for their apprehension.

Man Killed .- We learn from the Harrisburg Telegraph that the fast line of passenger cars going west on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. when one mile east of Mifflin, ran over a man named John Murphy, mutilating his body in a mest shocking manner, so that death must have been almost instantaneous. It appears that he was walking on the track, and failed to observe the near approach of the train, when he met with the disaster. His remains were secured and placed in a coffin by Mr. C. M. Lewis, of Mifflin, to be forwarded to the friends of the deceased at York, Pa.

KANSAS AFFAIRS.

We gave last week some accounts of new frauds perpetrated in Kansas by the slavery party, frauds so obnoxious that even Gov. Walker and Secretary Stanton, whose slavery proclivities had never been doubted before, could not swallow them, but took the liberty of setting two of them aside. In the Oxford precinct, where the census called for between one and two hundred votes, 1,601 names, all written in the same hand-writing, and which measured exactly 54 feet in length, were returned. All the names, except 120, were copied from "Williams' Cincinnati Directory," those commeneing with the same letter following each other as regularly as they do upon the pages of that book! Dates from Lecompton to October 22d, state that Governor Walker has issued another proclamation in relation to 1200 votes returned from Me-Ghee county, which are thrown out for the same reasons that governed his action in relation to the Oxford district in Johnson county. The proclamation states that in neither case has he gone behind the returns, and he disclaims all right to do so, but the votes were rejected in consequence of fatal defects in form. McGhee county, it appears was returned as giving 1,202 "National Democratic" to 24 Free State votes.

There is no doubt of the election of Parrott, the free state candidate for Congress, by a large majority.

It is said the Cabinet at Washington disapprove of Gov. Walker's course in throwing out these returns, but it is to be hoped for their credit this report is not true. Gov. Walker and Secretary Stanton, in our opinion, stand in the same position in Kansas as our Return Judges do here, and we presume if a township in this county at the late election had returned 1600 votes for one set of candidates, when the sessor's list called for one or two hundred only, no one would have thought of giving certificate of election to a party so smuggled into office, especially if the party thus fraudulently elected would become judge of its legality. In Kansas, the members elected by this fraudulent vote would control the political aspect of the legislature, and by staving off the matter for a time would go on passing obnoxious laws and doing other acts against the will of the maority, and when all they desired was acomplished, their seats would be declared vacant and a new election ordered. If such open and highhanded frauds once prevail, or are sanctioned by those in authority, all good men may well blush for

Died, on Friday evening, October 16th, at the residence of his father, in Brown town-ship, THOMAS GILLILAND, in the 17th year of his age. Our departed friend was called away in the bloom of youth, and in the vigor of health, but death to him had no sting, the grave no gloom. His trust in Christ as his Savior was full and fond. This enabled him to long for the moment when he should exchange this world for one "where death cannot enter," and to whisper words of precious consolation to those he was leaving. He was a bright ornament to the family where he was so tenderly loved as a son and a brother, and a favorite in the circle of attached friends in which he moved. While his friends sorrow not as "those who have no hope," may the announcement of his unexpected end prove a blessing to his youthful acquaintances abroad and his associates at home, in whose ears it echoes with emphasis the warning, "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man

At a special meeting of Kishacoquillas Lodge, No. 184, I. O. of O. F., held on the 28th ult., the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Grand Master of the universe to remove from our midst our worthy brother, P. G. JOSEPH F. YEAGER; and whereas, by this decree our Lodge has lost an esteemed friend and valued brother, -society a highly respected, influential and useful member .- the wife an affectionate husband and relatives a dear one from their midst;

therefore,

Resolved, That we deeply and sincerely feel the loss of our brother, and that while we mingle our sympathies with the widow and relatives of the deceased, in their bereavement, we in Friendship, Love and Truth as sure them that the institution which he has honored can never cease to care for the widow.

Resolved, That the members of this Lodge attend the funeral and wear the usual badge of mouraing, and that the emblems of the Lodge be clothed in mourning for the balance of the semi-annual term.

The Old School Presbyterian Synod, omprising New York City, Long Island, and the lower counties of the State up the river to Poughkeepsie, and including no less than one hundred and sixty ministers, held its annual meeting last week. The two subjects that particularly occupied its attention were the recent calamities of the Presbyterian missions in India, and the present business revulsions that so deeply affect the means of doing good at home. These subjects were referred to a Committee, consisting of the Rev. Drs. Potts, Phillips, and Prime, and Elder L. B. Ward, and this Committee reported a Pastoral Letter upon the matter to the different churches. This Letter is couchod in such forcible language and is so replete with profitable admonition, that we cannot refrain from extracting that part of it which relates to the moral causes of our financial calamities and the lessons they should con-

In regard to the sudden reverse which has overtaken this community in the midst of its prosperity, what lessons are we taught by

This arrest of the vast machinery of Commerce, has already crushed the fortunes of many, crippled still more, and destroyed the prospect of subsistence to a vast multitude who are dependent on their daily labor for their daily bread. All the purposes of the Divine Wisdom in bringing about this crisis cannot be here spread out before you. It will test the faith and patience of God's people who are called to share in the effects, even though they may not have contributed to produce the storm. It will exhibit their love or Christ's cause which they have heretofore sustained by their gifts, and which needs their gifts more than ever. It will reveal the extent of that Christian companion which, by giving to the poor, lendeth to the Lord. will promote the spirit of humble dependence upon God, confirm their reverence for his Word as a true description of the uncertainty of all things on earth, and lift many a soul into the world of certainties and holy peace. In these and other ways, no doubt it will bring forth the peaceable fruits of rightousness. But we desire especially to remind you that it will also test the integrity of many. It is a period of temptation to think and do wrongly, and thus give offence to God, and bring dishonor upon the godly simplicity and sincerity which ought to characterize the Christian life. And the apprehension of this danger leads us to raise our voice in affection ate warning to those who are considered by the world as the representatives of the nature and value of Christian principles, as they affect the business of the world.

We call upon you, therefore, to inquire how far any of you have been led away by the spirit of the world, and, if you have, to humble yourself under the mighty hand of God, reform whatever has been amiss in your example, and thus bear testimony to the inviolable character of the laws of God, which, sooner or later, he will vindicate by a righteous severity. We admonish you, in the name of our Master, to set an example of a scrupulous your business dealings, in all re-Make every necessary sacrifice in this trying period, to give to every man his due. Owe no man anything you can pay. Let your example shame those who seize the occasion of a general suspension of the course of business, to refuse the just claims of creditors, even though they have the power to meet them, and especially those who defraud the hireling of his wages.

Permit us also to invite your solemn atten trophe gives to the spirit and practices which Let her pulpits lift up the voice of warning. have so long characterized modern traffic, and which God hates because they are equally at war with love and justice. This catastrophe has come, not in the shape of conflagration. or famine, or pest, or war. It has come in the shape of a quick and violent overthrow of the manufactures and trade of the land. Is there, then, anything in the principles on which these have been conducted which has provoked such a fearful reverse? Search and see, beloved brethren, and consider how far you have been partakers in other men's sins, whether by your example, or your silent submission to practices which will not hear the inspection of God's law. One of the crying sins of the age has been an impetuous thirst of gain. It has become an epidemic malady. This making haste to be rich is condemned by the word of God, not only because it is the token of a covetous heart, but because it spurps the laws of a prudent moderation, and assumes risks which are akin to the presumptuous ventures of gambling. While many are busy in asking the proximate reasons for this vast disturbance of the course of business, is not this the reason which explains all its mysteries? The business movements of the day have derived a large part of their vehemence from principles with which reason and Providence are at war. Men have been aiming to get something for nothing; have speculated rashly upon a futurity always dubious; have risk ed more that they could lawfully risk, and built their schemes on treacherous uncertainties; showing in all this that they are dissat isfied with the Divine constitution by which God has ordained that the growth of what is valuable should be gradual. The testimony of even worldly-wise obser vers concurs in ascribing the present calami-ties to the pressure of an almost universal indebtedness, and that again to what they term unwarranted expansion of ever trading. We believe this to be true, but only a part of the truth. We seek for the prompter of this over trading, and find it in a cupidity which disdains the laws of God. Let us judge of it by its effects. It has not only strained to the utmost, but as you see, has overstrained and broken the delicate and necessary mechanism of credit, which in the Christian vocabulary ought to be but another name for a prudent and hon-orable integrity in the dealings of man with

It has introduced a factitious depreciation and inflation of values which in some quarters, has assumed the dimensions of a gigantic system of lying or chicanery. Witness the abuses of stock-jobbing.

It has led to the introduction of articles into the internal and external commerce of Christendom, which have based the gain of the few on the ruin of the many: witness the traffic in opium and strong drink. It has prempted a resort to many arts, or rather tricks of trade, the object and effect of

It has fostered the most irrational outlay in shops, dwellings, dress, equipage, and en-tertainment, exhibiting an extravagance sufficient to provoke sarcasm, did not serrow for the loss of Christian and republican simplicity preclude other emotions.

has produced combinations by means of which the cost of foed has been unreasonably increased, to the great injury of those who were in moderate circumstances, especially to the poor, and this has incurred the guilt of extortion.

It has filled society with a luxurious sensu-alism, which has already gone far to curse the youth of the land, who were growing up under its influence. It has engendered a monstrous spirit of peculation, destroyed much of our faith in egislative virtue, produced a horrid progeny of fraud among men holding public and private trust-and by these means, has eaten as a canker into the very heart of public confi-It has trampled on that sacred law, which,

by enjoining a religious rest for body and soul, aims to cool down and keep cool the feverish spirit of gain; making many of the great corporations which are the carriers of the land, agents of great mischief, and sufferers from a great punishment.

But why enumerate all the evils which the craving for speedy fortune, under the name of enterprize, has brought upon our day, and upon every other period when it has ruled the traffic of the world. The question is whether God is not at war with any system which proceeds upon principles and involves consequences so offensive to Him, so noxious to the in-dividual and to society? And to this question, beloved brethren, you know well there can be but one answer: "Verily, there is a God who judgeth in the earth." Can any one fail to see his majestic jurisdiction in the means by which he has made this madness of men recoil upon them, and forced covetousness to be vn punishment? In the very heart of a land abounding with the elements of wealth, he lays his hand upon it, and locks it up for a season. By a touch of his finger he affects the securities of property until they seem to crumble. The air is thick with the dust of falling and fallen fortunes. Where is now the wise man, -where the secure and boasting man who presumptueusly thought that our material prosperity was beyond reach? God has brought to nought the understanding of the wise. He has defeated their counsels at every point. At a time "when men slept," the moth has frayed, the rust has eaten, the thief has stolen. In this catastrophe, the innecent indeed have suffered with the guilty. So much the worse for the guilty. The inne cent shall have their compensation in spiritual good. But what we would now have you observe, is the simplicity of the methods by which God has caused a spirit of fear and distrust to demolish the towering fabric which but a little while ago seemed so stable, and called forth so much boasting. When God wills, the building shall cease to fall.

Meanwhile, Christian brethren, we you to stand still and ask the meaning of the catastrophe. But more especially, we com-mend you to consider how far any of you, by free and bold speech, enforced by a wise and consistent example of moderation and integrity in your plans of business, can aid in reconstructing the edifice of public and private credit upon Christian principles. Now is the time to attempt this difficult but necessary task. Keep yourselves unspotted by the base practices which we have held up for your warning. Utter your remonstrances against them. Rather suffer the martyrdom of Chris tian poverty, than consent to countenance the least departure from the straightforward paths of integrity. Honesty in all things is one of the great wants of the world at this moment. Now is the time for the Church of Christ at least to set her mark upon all shams and lies tion to the emphatic rebuke which this catas- | and frauds, however consecrated by usage, and let her tribunals arrest and discipline the least violation by one of her pledged subjects of those laws of God which enjoin honesty in word and deed.

But, we beseech you to rememeber also that a legal integrity may be preserved, and vean absorbing leve of gain eat out the spiritual life of the soul. We solemnly counsel you, brethren, to let your moderation be known unto all men. Be content with the calmlygotten fruits of a steady but temperate activity. God has often written for our instruction his estimate of the mere riches of the world. He is enforcing his lessons at this moment. Crave not a condition of which the dangers are more numerous and greater than the pleasures. Rather recall the sad history of multitudes who furnish us with a memorable comment on the warning of Him who never spoke an idle word, and said, "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God."

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

FATAL AND DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.-William Cooper, of Harrisburg, while out gunning with his father on Friday last, was accidentally shot by the latter, in discharging his piece at a pheasant, from the effects of which he died during the night. From the testimony elicited at the inquest held by Coroner McCord, it appears they were hunting pheasants, and while in Bixler's Gap, a mile below town, the father saw one at which he fired, the son being somewhat in advance, though not in a direct line. With the exclamation of "Father, what have you done?" or something to that effect, the young man fell, a single shot having struck him in the corner of the left eye, fractured a bone, and thus produced an injury to the brain which resulted in death. Immediately after the occurrence, Mr. Cooper proceeded up the road for aid, and with the assistance of Wm. McKee and Mr. Gibboney conveyed the the sufferer in a hand car to the Railroad Hotel. The deceased was about 23 years of age, bore a good character, and has left a wife and two children to mourn his untimely end. The father and son had rented the truck garden across the river for the coming year, and were on the point of removing to this place. His remains were which is to impose upon the customer: wit- interred in the Methodist Episcopal Cemeness the false invoices, the false entries, the tery on Sunday, on which occasion the Hallow Eve, on which the young formerly practised charms and rites to discover who will be their partners for life, was duly celebrated here by all the young rascals that could get on the street, some of whom threw corn and cabbage about the following gifts, valued at from 25 that they would perhaps be glad to eat beof whom threw corn and cabbage about fore the winter is over.

BEAR, DEER, &c .- Game appears to be more abundant this fall than usual, bear signs being almost daily seen along the mountains. David Zook (miller) of Menno township, trapped two in a pen within the past few weeks at the foot of Stone mountain-one of which he brought to town last Thursday. Joseph Rittenhouse we learn lately killed two fine deer at Minehart's, Dr. Belford one at Granville, and the coon hunters seldom fail in securing two or three at a hunt, and in one instance a party succeeded in capturing five.

ROBBERY .- One of those traveling louts

with which the country is now infested a few weeks ago applied for work to Rev. J. R. Hanawalt, professing to be satisfied with anything that would give him a home during the winter. He was accordingly employed, and a few days thereafter while the family were engaged in worship went out of the room, and is supposed to have very coolly pocketed Mr. H.'s watch. Worship being ended, says a correspondent of the Democrat, they retired to bed, not suspecting anything wrong, when lo! in the morning not only the watch was missing, but also an entire suit of good clothes belonging to a young man of the family, and the laborer "absquatulated," whom they soon suspected as being the thief. As no time was to be lost, some of the young men of the neighborhood, eager for sport, mounted their fleet steeds and gaye chase. About two o'clock the thief was overtaken on the tow-path, near Mill Creek, in Huntingdon county. When he saw his pursuers, he made an attempt as if to jump into the river and drown himself, but we suppose concluded the water was too cold. At any rate he abandoned his resolution, and came and threw himself down at the feet of his pursuers, and "forked over" the stolen goods, which consisted of the above mentioned, and also some clothes which he had taken from a house about ten miles below the town of Mifflin. As he acted so generously they concluded to let him go on his way unarrested. The property last mentioned is in the possession of J. R. Hanawalt, and may be obtained by the proper owner coming forward and identifying the same.

Holloway's Ointment .- Eruptions, boils and ulcers are bad enough when men are the sufferers, but when the delicate skin of woman is invaded by such blemishes, we feel a deeper commiseration for the afflic be no news to thousands of the gentle sex that Holloway's Ointment is a complete obliterant of such disfigurements.
