FROST AS A MANURE.

We know of no treatment so directly beneficial for almost every class of soils as that of throwing up land in narrow ridges, in the fall or early winter. There are few soils worth cultivating at all, that do not contain more or less materials which can be made available to plants by the combined action of air and frost. "

Take two plots of heavy soil side by side, and let one lie unmoved till spring, while the other is deeply ploughed in autumn, and the result will be very visible in the spring crop. But the manner of plowing is important. To secure the greatest possible advantage, a single furrow should be thrown up, and another back furrow directly upon it, so as to produce a high ridge, and another ridge is to be made in the same manner with a deep dead-furrow between the two. The process is to be continued thus through the field, so that when finished, it will present a surface of high ridges and deep dead furrows, succeeding each other, about once in two or two and a half feet. If prepared in this way, the frost will penetrate far downward, loosening and disintegrating the soil below the furrows, while the ridges will crumble down, as they will not hold water, the air will circulate freely through them, decomposing the mineral portions, and conveying in the ammonia and other gasses. This operation will be equal to ten or more loads of good manure, upon clay or compact soils. In the spring it will only be necessary

Another advantage in this process, is that when land is thus prepared, it dries out and warms several days earlier in the Spring. Again, there are some soils that are exhausted upon the surface, but which contain poisonous substances in the sub-soil. If this sub-soil is thrown up in contact with air and frost during winter these poisonous compounds (usually proto-sulphate of iron or mangnese) will be destroyed, or changed to a harmless form, during the winter.

to run a plough once or twice through the centre of each ridge, and then level the whole down with a heavy harrow.

The above practice is especially to be recommended in the garden. One of the most successful cultivators of an acre of ground in our acquaintance, digs it up in the fall to the depth of three or four feet, making deep trenches and high ridges, so that the whole acre appears to be covered with high winrows of hay placed closely

We strongly urge every farmer who has not tried this method, to lay out their plans now for the experiment in this way, on a larger or smaller scale, during the present season.—Agriculturist.

HOW TO MAKE A SOUND SHIN-

GLE ROOF. As I have something to do with the carpenter trade, I thought that I would give some of my ideas about that kind of work. I have often noticed the roofs of buildings that had some holes through them. The question occurred to me to find out what the reason was that a hole should come in one place and not in another, and on exam ination I found the fault to be in the laying of the shingles, and that nine-tenths of the mechanics make the same mistake in laying shingles. I presume that some of my old friends will think that I am a little green to think of teaching them how to do as simple a piece of work as to lay a shingle, but perhaps I shall give them a new idea. I now ask any of them to examine their roofs, and see if they cannot find some of the very places that I shall describe. I shall commence to describe the bad places by taking four courses and numbering them. No. 1 is five shingles long. The first and last shingle of the course are four inches wide; the three middle shingles are eight inches wide. This will form the first course. The next course is four shingles eight inches wide. These cover the same length and make No. 2. No. 3 is the same as No. 1, and No. 4 as No. 2. Now, many Attachment of Vulcanized India Rubber at the first sight will say we have a good roof and the joints well broke. But let the roof-board, (and that, too, at the second space of the shingle, as a shingle is usually divided into three spaces,) and in process of time the shingle will wear through and leave a hole through the roof, while the rest of the roof is good.

I am aware that shingles are of various widths, and do not come all in the form how to avoid such bad places in a roof, for they occur in most of roofs if the workmen do not know how to avoid them. You must be careful not to make a joint directly over the joint of the second course below the one you are laying; or, in other words to break joints with the two last courses that you have lain .-- Michigan

Seeders have become an almost indispensable article to the Farmer, and he will find that the attachment of the Gum Spring will enhance its value at least one-half. All the deten tion and trouble caused by the breaking of wooden pins is entirely done away with by this arrangement, and a man, or boy, can perform nearly double the labor that he could under the old plan, with much greater ease, both to himself and horses. There need be no fear of he Spring breaking, for if there is an article that will neither break, tot, or wear out, the Gam Spring is that article, and i hazard nothing in saying that my Grain Drill is the simthat I have shown; but I take this way to show how to find the bad places. I shall now give my rule for laying shingles, and and therefore the most durable ever offered to the agriorders as early as possible. Direct to McVeytown, Mindin county, Pa., or F. G.
