THE SUN-BRIGHT CLIME.

Have you heard, have you heard of that sun-bright clime Undimmed by sorrow, unhurt by time, Where age hath no power o'er the fadeless frame, Where the eye is fire and the heart is flame— Have you heard of that sun-bright clime?

A river of water gushes there, Mid flowers of beauty strangely fair. And a thousand wings are hovering o'er
The dazz'ling wave and the golden shore,
That are seen in that sun-bright clime. Millions of forms all clothed in light.

And garments of beauty, clear and white-They dwell in their own immortal bowers. 'Mid fadeless hues of countless flowers
That bloom in that sun-bright clime. Ear hath not heard and eye hath not seen

Their swelling notes and their changeless sheen; Their ensigns are waving and banners unfurl O'er the jasper walls and gates of pearl That are reared in that sun-bright clime

But far, far away is that sinless clime, Undim'd by sorrow, unhurt by time; Where amid all things that's fair is given The home of the Saints-and its name is Heaven, The name of that sun-bright clime

PRACTICAL HINTS TO AMATEURS Don't let insects of various kinds overrun your orchard or garden, and then lazily fold your arms and say, "It's no use this trying to raise things, now that so many vermin are about." Spend three days, industriously, in the early stage of the matter, in putting down the rascals, and then look around you and see if a little industry is not better than grumbling.

If you want early vegetables, set yourself, in winter, about making some boxes to protect them. A few cheap boxes, a foot square, with a pane of glass in the top to put over tender things at night, will cost you but a trifle, and will give you ten days start of the open ground.

If you have a tree that grows "apace," but won't bear, dig a trench around it, and cut off a third of the roots. This will check its growth, and set it about making fruit buds.

If you don't love flowers yourself, don't quarrel with those who do. It is a defect in your nature which you ought to be sorry for, rather than abuse those who are more gifted. Of what possible "use" is the rainbow, we should like to know? And yet a wiser than you did not think the world complete without it.

Do not grudge the cost and labor neces sary to plant a few of the best shade trees round your house; and if you have any doubts about what to plant, stick in an elm. There are few trees in the world finer than a fine weeping elm; and two or three of them will give even a common looking dwelling a look of dignity. If you plant fruit trees for shade, they are likely to be broken to pieces for the fruit, and they grow unsightly by the time that forest trees grow spreading and umbrageous.— There are very few men whose friends build so fair a monument to their memory, as they can raise with their own hands, by planting an elm or a maple where it can grow for a century, to be an ornament to the country.

Don't be afraid to clip hedges, or cut back young trees, when you are planting them. You gain more growth than you lose, though you may not be able to comprehend it till you have seen it with your own eyes.

Never work your ground in wet weather if you can avoid it, as it makes it cold-like and compact by forcing the air out. And ridge up your kitchen garden ground before winter, so as to expose as much surface as possible to the action of the frost.

Never lose an opportunity of getting sods from the corners of old pastures, or the breaking up of commons or meadows, where they cannot be spared. Placed in heaps, and rotted, they make excellent mould for tender plants or trees.

Never buy fruit trees in the "market places" of unknown venders, who have no character to lose. You cannot tell by "examining the article," whether they cheat you or not; and you get your trees at half price only to wish, when it comes to bear, that you had gone to an honest dealer and paid ten times as much for something worth planting.

Collect from about your neighborhood all the bones that are thrown away as useless by persons ignorant of their value .-Downing.

Abuse, &c. &c. The Howard Association, in view of the awful destruc tion of human life caused by sexual diseases, and the deceptions practised upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Con-sulting Surgeon, as a Charitable Act worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms, and to give Medical Advice GRATIS, to all who apply by letter, with a de-scription of their condition, (age, occupation, habits of life, &c.) and in cases of extreme poverty to furnish Medicines Free of Charge. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treat-sured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves with renewed zeal to this very important but much de spised cause.
