IS COMING.

APRIL APPOINTMENTS. Dr. Hardman, Physician for Diseases of the Lungs,

Formerly Physician to the Cincinnati Marine Hospital, Lewistown, National Hotel, Tuesday, April 20. DR. HARDMAN treats Consumption, Bronchitis, Laryng-tis, Asthura, and all diseases of the Throat by MEDICA-TED INHALATION.

TED INHALATION.

The great point in the treatment of all human maladies is to get at the disease in a direct manner. All medicines are estimated by their action upon the organ requiring relief. This is the important fact upon which inhelation is based. If the stomach is diseased, we take medicine directly into the stomach. If the lungs are diseased, breather or inhale medicated vapors directly into them.— The reason why Consumption and discusses of the Lungs have heretofore registed all treatment, has been because it ey were not approached in a direct manner by medicine. They were intended to be local, and yet they were so ad ministered that they could only act constitutionally, exending their in-mediate action upon the stomach, whilst the foul ulcers within the Lungs were unmolested. In-uslation brings the medicine into direct contact with the lessage, without the disadvantage of any violent action. Its application is so simply that it may be employed be the youngest infant or feeblest invalid. It does not do range the stomach, or interfere in the least with the strength, comfort or business of the patient. E-No charge for consultation.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PRIEST & IRISH MILKMAN. A correspondent sends us the following amusing repartee. Pat must have been a know nothing.

For the Gazette. The following amusing instance of Irish wit on the part of a Roman Catholic milkman in foiling the attempts of a priest to make him give up reading the Bible, was related by Dr. Dowling in an address.

On reaching the milkman's humble cabin in the county of Kerry, the priest thus addressed him: 'Why, my good fellow, I am informed that you are in the habit of reading the Bible-is my information cor-

'Sure, an it is true, plase your riverence, an a fine book it is too

'But you know,' said the priest, 'that it is very wrong for an ignorant man like you to read the scriptures.'

'Ah,' replied Pat, 'but you must be afther provin that same before I'll consint to lave off.

'That I will do from the book itself .--Now turn to 1 Peter, xxii: 'As new born babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby.' Now you are only a babe, and are therefore wrong to read the Scriptures yourself. You are told to 'desire the sincere milk of the word,' and one who understands what the 'sincere milk' is must give it you and tend you.'

Pat listened attentively to the priest's authoritative address, but no way at a loss, replied: 'But be alsy, your riverence, while I tell you. A little time ago, when I was took ill, I got a man to milk my cows, and what do you think he did? Why instead of givin me the rale milk, he chated me by puttin wather into it; and if you get my Bible, perhaps you may be aither serv in me that same. No, no. I'll kape my cow, and milk her myself, and then I shall get the sincere milk, and not as I might from you, mixed with wather.' The priest, thus finding himself defeated, and desirous that the mischief should spread no farther, said in a conciliatory tone, 'Well, Pat, I see you are a little wiser than I thought you; and as you are not quite a babe, you may keep your Bible, but don't lend it or read it to your neigh-

Pat, eveing his admonitor very seriously and cunningly withal, replied, Sure enuf. your rivirence, while I have a cow and can give a little milk to my poor neighbors who have none, it is my duty to do so as a Christian, and savin your rivirence, I will.'

The priest, thinking the milkman a tough sustomer, gave up the argument and walked off abashed.

THE WINTER.

The old belief that just about the same quantity of snow falls every year, only that its distribution is considerably varied, would seem to be confirmed by the facts of this winter. On the northern part of this continent, east of the Rocky Mountain chain, including the Canadas, the fall of snow has been unusually light. But we observe from our European papers that the season, in the countries bordering on the Mediterraneau Sea, is remarkable for quite the opposite reason. Thus it is said that the cold has been such in Italy that for the first time in the present century the river Po has been frozen over at Ferrara, admitting for a long period the constant passage of a man and beast. A dispatch from Constantinople, dated Feb. 3, says: "Snow has fallen, until yesterday, without any interruption for fifteen days. There has not been a winter of equal severity for more than twenty years. The snow has extended to Smyrna and the adjacent district of Asia Minor, and even the Greek islands are clothed in white-an appearance most unusual and remarkable."

Other accounts from Asia Minor describe snow storms, in one of which a Greek monastery was buried, and the live monks had to be excavated by the Turks. At Malta the snow, which had not fallen since the Russian campaign of 1812, was some feet high, and accompanied with hail and tempests. The navigation with Odessa is entirely closed, while the disasters in the Black Sea, Sea of Marmora, and in the Dardanelles, have been very numerous, although they have been mostly confined to the native craft. The sufferings of the poor on the land have been dreadful, as their dwellings, not constructed for such casualities, have been broken down by the snow, and their ordinary clothing has offered no protection from the unusual cold.

A WIFE COMPRESSED INTO A RING.

A certain Russian noble, who lately visited Paris, was noticed to be constantly plunged in deep sadness. He were on his finger a very remarkable ring, large enough for a bracelet, and extended over his hand like a buckler for the ring finger. It was of a greenish color, and was traversed by red veins. It attracted the attention of everybody, but no one was bold enough to interrogate the mysterious stranger, until one day a lady, meeting him in a public parlor, ventured to say, "You wear a very handsome ring." The Russian made a movement as though he would conceal his hand, but that feeling gave way to a desire to unburden himself. "It is not a ring," he answered, "but a sepulchre!" A shudder passed through the whole company .-'This jewel, madam," he continued, "is my wife. I had the misfortune to lose her some years since, in Russia. She was an Italian, and dreaded the icy bed which awaited her after this life. I carried her remains to Germany, where I was acquainted with a celebrated chemist, whom I directed to make of the body a solid substance, which I could always carry about me. Eight days afterward he sent for me and showed me the empty coffin, a horrid collection of instruments and alembics.— This jewel was lying on a table. He had through means of some corrosive substanees and powerful pressure reduced and compressed that which was my wife, into this jewel, which shall never more leave

This burial by chemistry is an improvement upon the process of cremation lately proposed by the French papers. Should it become popular a widow may hereafter have her husband made into a bracelet with a chain attached to remind her of the hymeneal bend; a husband will have his wife done into a pin, and certain academicians —old fogies—we know would make very good coat buttons.—N. Y. Tribune.

AN INCIDENT.

A nice little "scene" took place at the penitentiary, on Saturday. A few years since there was sent to that institution from Hamilton county, for a long term of years, on the charge of burglary, an old Polish exile; an old man who had fought bravely for his country and liberty. In this land of strangers, and with no friends, the old man had never for a moment entertained the idea of release, and patiently was toiling through his weary months. Some facts have recently come to light, as I hear the guilty of the crime charged upon him. At any rate, the Governor decided upon his pardon. And Saturday afternoon, Gov-Chase's daughter, a fair noble girl of seventeen summers, takes the pardon and makes her way to the prison. Without intimating her mission, she desired the warden to ask the old Polander, whose name I have now forgotten, to come to the sitting room. The old man, his head white with the accumulated burden of years and trouble, was not long in answering the summons. The pardon was put in his trembling hand! Oh! then the joy. It was all so unexpected-and came through such hands! The old hero fairly capered for joy. He could scarcely find words among his broken English, through which to tell his thankfulness.—Columbus, Ohio, Cor. Painsville Telegraph.

A QUEER LAW SUIT.

The somewhat novel suit of Mrs. Estelle Alexandrie vs. B. Saloy, was decided by Judge Egleston yesterday. Mrs. A., it appears, owed Saloy $700, for which she gave her note, secured by a mortgage on four slaves, and there was a special agreement between them that she was to be notified when the note became due. The note matured on the 13th ult., and was protested, no notice being given to the drawer, and immediately thereafter Saloy instituted suit against Mrs. A., with a view of proceeding to the seizure and sale of the four slaves, he claiming, besides the amount of the note, $70 as his attorney' fee. As soon as Mrs. A. found this out, she deposited the amount of the note, with 83 additional, as the cost of protest, and refused to pay the $70, as the suit against her, she contended, was malicious, and only instituted for the purpose of annoying her, and forcing her to pay costs and this unnecessary attorney's fee. Thereupon she instituted a counter suit, praying that Saloy and the sheriff be enjoined from proceeding with the seizure and sale of the slaves: that the claim of $70 for counsel's fees be declared illegal, and that Saloy be condemned to pay her $500 as damages for his malicious action. After a full hearing, the Court sustained the injunction, and gave judgment against Saloy and in favor of Mrs. A. for $100 as damages, together with $75 as her counsel's fees, and cost of Court, etc .- New Orleans Picayune.

NONE STAND ALONE.

It is in the providence of God that none stand alone; we touch each other; man acts on man; heart on heart; we are bound up with each other; hand is joined in hand; wheel sets wheel in motion; we are spiritually linked together, arm within arm; we cannot live alone, nor die alone; we cannot say, I will only run risks with my own soul; I am prepared to disobey the Lord for such a pleasure, or such a gain, but I do not implicate others; I only want to be answerable for myself. This cannot be. Each living soul has its influence on others in some way and to some extent consciously or unconsciously; each has some powe more or less, direct or indirect; one mind colors another; a child on children; secvants on their fellow servants; masters over them they employ; parents on their chil-dren; friends on friends. Even when we are not thinking in the least degree of the effect of what we do when we are unconscious that we have any influence at all. when we do not wish our conduct or way of life to affect any but ourselves, our man ner of life, our conversation, our deeds, are all the while giving weight somewhere or somehow; our feet leave their impression, though we may not look behind us to see the mark .- Sermons for Christian Sea-

Don't be Ashamed of Work .- There are many young men, who, if they were to study the character of Franklin, would learn a salutary lesson. He was never too proud to work, and thought no employment beneath his dignity that was necessary and honorable.

"I thought you were born on the first April," said a benedict to his lovely wife, who had mentioned the 21st as her birthday.

"Most people would think so from my choice of a husband," she replied.

Tickets not Transferable .- At a late colored ball in New York the following notice was posted on the door post: "Tickets fifty cents. No gentleman admitted unless he comes himself."

The Sunday Atlas, in a fit of revolutionary enthusiasm, says:
'Hurrah for the girls of '76."

'Thunder,' cries a New Jersey paper, that's too darned old. No, no—hurrah for the girls of 17!

Fatal Hoax.—A Sheffield paper says that a gentleman in that town has received a letter from a friend in Northampton, containing the rumer, showing that the old man was not the wall, and then himself got into the coffin, laid down and covered himself ever. In the course of a short time the master came, looked in at the door, and saw, as he thought, a sulky lad standing against the wall. 'Now, said the master, 'do you want any supper?' There was no answer. The question was repeated with the same result. The hoy looked out from the coffin and said, 'If he won't have I will.' The master fled under terror, and received such a shock that it is said be has since died from the effects.

Unnatural Murder .- A horrible tragedy occurred on Saturday last in Broad Creek Hundred, near Little Hill Church, which resulted in the death of a child. A negro woman, by the name of Purnal, on the day above mentioned left home with the view of attending a vendue, in order to sell liquor. She left her family of six children at home, the oldest of which was only 8 years old.— When the mother returned she missed one of her children. Having observed marks of blood upon the floor, she was led to inquire the whereabouts of the child. The children refused to tell. A search was then instituted, and the child found covered over with brush, at some distance from the house. The head was cut off, as was one of its arms. The two oldest children made a confession. They said that the oldest took an axe and cut the child's head off, and then made one of the other children cut the arm off. They refused to tell what they had done with the arm, but it was subsequently found concealed in the cupboard .- Delaware Messenger.

Buried Alive .- The Rev. Mr. Reed, a Presbyterian minister, on the 15th ult., started from Holland to attend a meeting of the presbytery some twenty miles from that place. He stopped over night with another minister at a private house. Mr. Reed was taken with a fit in the night and it was supposed he had died. The other minister being in a hurry to get to the meeting in season had him buried the next day. On his return from meeting he left word at Oxford that their minister was dead and buried. His friends went immediately to get his remains and bring them to Oxford, when to their great sorrow they discovered that he had been buried alive. The cover of the coffin was split, and his shroud was completely torn off and turned nearly on his face. He was a bachelor, and a very worthy man. His dreadful death is much lamented.—Eric City paper.

A School Teacher Killed by a Pupi' .- Mr. Brawmer, a school teacher, was fatally stab-bed near Berlin, Alabama, on the 15th inst. It appears that Brawmer undertook to chastise one of his pupils, a lad, named Collins, about 12 years old, when the latter drew a knife, and inflicted a wound upon Brawmer. After he was stabbed, he pursued the lad for To ascertain whether a woman is passionate or not, take a muddy dog into gave out, and he fell dead. Collius made his

Mr. Stephens refused to yield the floor for that purpose, and demanded the previous question. Mr. Marshall wanted Mr. Stephens' re-

That the State of Kansas be, and is hereby admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever; but inasmuch as it is greatly disputed whether the Constitution formed at Lecompton, and now pending before Congress, was fairly made, or expresses the will of the people of Kansas, this admission of her into the Union as a State is here declared to be upon this fundamental condition precedent, namely, that the said constitutional instrument shall be first submitted to a vote of the people of Kansas, and assented to by them, or a majority of the voters at an election to be held for the purpose; and as soon as such assent shall be given and only made known to the President of the United States, he shall announce the same by proclamation; and thereafter, and without any further proceedings on the part of Congress, the admission of the said State of Kansas into the Union upon an equal footing with the original States, and in all respects whatever, shall be complete and absolute.
