The joint committee of conference on the Kansas bill met on Monday morning, all the members being present for the first time. Mr. Green, on behalf of the majority of the Senate committee, submitted several propositions amending the Senate bill, none of which proved acceptable to the House committee. Propositions were then solicited from the House committee.

Mr. English responded that at the next meeting of the Committee he would submit a new bill, the precise character of which has not transpired, but it is understood to be a proposition for a substitute for the Lecompton ordinance and that the question of admission under the Lecompton Constitution, with the amended ordinance, be referred to a fair vote of the people of Kansas at an early day. If the majority vote for it, Kansas to come into the Union under the President's proclamation. If against it, then the bill povides for the formation of a new Constitution, whenever the popua member in the United States House of Representatives. The committee adjourned over to Tuesday.

A Cure by Oxygenated Bitters. BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 12, 1854. Gentlemen-I suffered for about a year previous to last spring from a derangement of the action of the heart, which, like most others similarly afflicted, I supposed to be an organic disease, and having seen the Oxygenated Bitters highly recommended for use in such cases, I procured and used a single bottle, with entire success. The disagreeable symptoms speedily disappeared and I have never had any recurrence of them. Being really of opinion that this medicine is of unquestionable value as a cure for Dyspepsia, (in which opinion I am happy to know that I agree with many intelligent physicians,) I have no hesitation in permitting this certificate to be used in any way that will promote its more general use. RATTLE SNAKE BITE .- The Medical Journal says the following prescription is an intallible cure for rattle-snake poison:

Mix together four grains of the iodid of potash, two grains of corrosive sublimate, five drachms of bromine, and keep the mixture in glass-stoppered vial, well secured. Ten drops of this mixture, diluted with a table-spoonful or two of wine or brandy, constitute a dose, which is to be repeated if necessary according to the exigencies of the case.

The American Journal of the Medical Sciences contains the results of quite a number of experiments made with this antidote, resulting in its complete triumph.

For the Gazette. ABUSE OF THE LATE POOR DIRECTORS AND PRESENT PHYSICIAN.

Mr. Editor-Ever since the passage of the law ousting the Directors of the Poor from office because they would not submit to what the people generally consider an extortionate demand on the part of the medical profession, a writer in a paper which delights in an independent motto, has been putting words together senseless in their meaning and difficult to be understood, excepting an occasional slur at the honesty and capacity of John Cubbison and John Peachey, two of the late directors, and at Dr. Hoover, the present physician These directors, it will be borne in mind. were elected for the express purpose of intro ducing reform into the Poor House, which had been of late years grossly mismanaged, and while endeavoring to carry out their ideas of reform, the medical gentlemen of this bor mgh unwisely entered into a combination largely to increase their charges. They may have been getting less than was justly their due, but with hundreds of others I think that at a time of financial difficulties in its management and when the directors were making efforts to introduce a system to bring the expenses into proper bounds, was not the proper time for yielding to a demand by the doctors that might have increased the medical charges from about $200 to from $500 to $1000 per annum. This estimate I have heard was giv en by one of the physicians who was a party to that combination, so that the taxpayers, as well as the poor men who are now called upon by "Justice," alias Dr. $50 Sawleg, can see how disinterested the gentleman is in crying 'Give! give!" The directors were right in resisting such a demand at this time, and would have been false to their position and to the taxpayers had they submitted. For this they were ousted, by a law got up in seerecy, and pushed through the Legislature by Dr. Bower and others with indecent haste, and signed by Gev. Packer at a time when remonstrances were being rapidly signed in all parts of the county. The functions of the directors having ceased, the County Commissioners did not make a change, and therefore In-"Justice" continues his malevolent thrusts at the directors and Dr. Hoover. The directors will hardly feel as bad at these thrusts as they would were they to swallow some of "Justice's" pills; and as for the young phy-tions among the poor, we shall then be ena-bled to decide even when "doctors disagree." Should this assassin like conduct be continued of attacking these gentlemen, a dose of JUSTICE to the author may be called forth, the materials for which can be picked up ten imes over. To the editor I would observe that it may do very well to swell up in independence in denouncing an unguarded or half oking remark of a clerk in private conversation, but that it comports more with independence and propriety to refuse insertions to attacks where malice prepense is so self evident. Exhibition at Kishacoquillas Seminary. The spring exhibition of Kishacoquillas Seminary took place on the evening of Wednesday, March 31. Notwithstanding an admittance fee was charged for the purpose of procuring a library for the Institution, an audience as large as could be accommodated assembled, and at seven o'clock the exercises commenced. These consisted of select orations, original orations, essays, colloquies, a pantomime, and music.

The select orations were given with spirit, and in some instances with considerable power. There was a declamatory style too appa rent in many of them, but this is an almost

Some of the original orations were well written productions, evincing capacity on the part of their authors for becoming quite successful writers, and the delivery of all was energetic and earnest.

The essays were read with considerable distinctness, but could not be heard by all the audience. If the readers had held their essays before them, for the propriety of the thing, and spoken directly to the audience, for the good sense of the thing, all would have heard and been satisfied. Some of the essays were of marked excellence, and well deserved to be heard by all. The sentiments were noble and just, and the style chaste and elegant. The charming whiteness of the fair readers raiment seemed a fit representative of the purity of their written thoughts.

The two colloquies were abundantly Irish, and full of mirth-provoking wit. The parts were in almost every instance admirably sustained, and some of them were nearly perfect. Some of the scenes were sufficiently humor ous to make one uncomfortable with laughter. The pantomime was something new here, and as interesting as novel. The shoemaker pegging at his boot; the washerwoman puffing and scarletly blushing over the tub; the woodsawyer over his jack; the tailor arranged Turk fashion; the girl ironing, (and the young gallant who found his way to her table andattention;) the little girl rocking the cradle the youthful Sambo, without any perceptible back-bone, smoking his eigar with luxurious satisfaction, and blacking boots so that their dark lustre rivaled his own; the soldier who, after painful straightening and vibrating be tween long and short, assumes military accoutrements and airs; and the old man who by dint of strapping kept laborious order-all were excellently represented. And when, after the absence of the old man and some most marvelous dancing, all, in their haste to be at work when the old man returned, seized hold of what came first-the shoemaker ironing, the washerwoman shoemaking, etc., the scene was uproariously ludicrous. One could "laugh and grow fat" without hindrance, ex cept for want of room.

The music was somewhat heterogeneous, but quite interesting. Some of the pieces, choruses and quartettes, were very beautiful and creditably performed.

The exercises were long, over four hours, but the large audience gave very good attention to the last. The feeling of satisfaction seemed very general, and some were quite solicitous that the exhibition should be repeated the following night.

The Hall was tastefully ornamented, and in the background was a beautifully arranged and appropriate motto, "Blossoms now; fruit When again an exhibition as interesting is given by the students of Kishacoquillas Sem-

The "Elixir" prepared by Dr. James Williams, for the cure of Dyspepsy, and nothing but Dyspepsy, (as advertised in another column,) has by its own merits obtained for itself so high a reputation in Philadelphia, that physicians acquainted with its properties are using it themselves and prescribing it to their patients, convinced by observation of its great efficacy in restoring the disordered digestive organs to a healthy function. Nomerous cases of dyspepsy of the most aggravated character, which were abandoned as incurable by some of the medical faculty, have by the use of this Elixir been restored to perfect health, as attested certificates testify.
