

Mr. Editor—As I appear to be somewhat of an Enigma to the Pressing, please say your next that they must look nearer to your pigeon boxes for my residence than to the Square.

AN OLD STUDENT.

For the Gazette. Horrible Catastrophes!

Mr. Editor, against an "Old Student" he is guilty in word and deed of cold-blooded murder in the most heinous manner, premeditated murder in plain English, or amputating (take your choice of the terms) the pauper advocates in the name of a M. D., but again I say I protest against murder, albeit it be done with a scalpel. It is horrible to think of.

And furthermore, I protest against murder in Latin and English in the same cold-blooded mode. A "lapus lingua" is excusable at all times, because received "cum grano salis" for the sake of Harvard, Cambridge, Yale, et cetera, do not murder the language that is left us of sound Latin and home-bred English.

The fact of Major Domo of the Press also up in arms, and is either "kilt," or the Irishman howling before he is hurt! It was worth at an Old Student, innocent man, that he thereby proclaims himself an unfeeling article—noting, nobody, and nobody. Take heed, therefore, ye scribes and pharisees of Lewistown how ye write or breathe of a baby, a fool, a jackass, or anything else with an a before it, for it seems ye may tread upon some baby's toes and get them!

And then look out for anybody who has a baby can tell, and not to be sneezed at.

And furthermore, I protest against Justice's changing himself into a false Democracy, and underriding the truth! Hear what the people say: The democrats are in favor of selling the poor house farm and buying a better one—the steward had no money to buy chickens—in Guthrie's time things went right—he saw 25 fine hogs there—and then—the staff of the same sort. Is not that a pretty mess to set before the people? A few years ago when petitions were sent in, numerous signed without respect to authority to sell the farm, who led the passage of that law? Why lead the democrats. When things went right in Guthrie's time, who was a whig, who turned out? Why the democrats, and worse than that, put in a man who bought "turkey" fine boots, and lots of dry goods for paupers (if they ever got them) to flourish. That was the time when Justice and the pauper's friend ought to have had their heads in, for at the rate things were going he might have found a "suitable" candidate for the paupers themselves to answer their views, and wouldn't there have been a there then. Beefsteaks, veal cutlets, and eggs, bread, hot rolls, butter, mulligatawny, apple butter, &c. for breakfast; roast beef, turkey and chickens for dinner, with wine and whiskey, strawberries and cream or other delicacies in season, for dessert; imperial tea, supper—and lunch on the table all the day until 11 o'clock p. m. Oh! it would have been a glorious time for paupers and pauper advocates, so much so that the last would have died and supped there at least three times a week, or perhaps taken up their abode there altogether. No work—plenty to eat and drink—fine cloths, cassimeres, and suits for the men—silks and satins for the women, with the present addenda of hoops—full of chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese—pigeons in every corner—sheep in every field—oxen by the dozen for beef—who would be a pauper?

ANOTHER STUDENT.

A special meeting of Lewistown Lodge, No. 204, A. Y. M., a committee of Brethren were appointed to prepare suitable resolutions expressive of their sorrow for the loss of their late Brother, JAMES A. CUNNINGHAM, deceased, when the following were adopted: WHEREAS, In the decease of James A. Cunningham, we have been called to mourn the loss of a faithful friend and worthy Brother—one who has endeared himself to his kindred of heart and won our love by his fidelity to the teachings of our fraternal order; we call to remembrance his many offerings made upon the altar of Charity; how faithfully he has sustained the cares of life, and labored to make the hearts of all around him happy; but he has bidden us farewell, and has gone to visit the Grand Lodge above, where, we doubt not, his work will be found upon perpetual record. Therefore, Resolved, 1st. That the Lodge has heard with deep sorrow of the death of their late Brother, James A. Cunningham, whose many excellent qualities of heart and head so beautifully exemplified the cardinal virtues which we seek to instill into the minds and hearts of those who hold our fellowship.

2d. That the family and friends of our deceased Brother have our sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

3d. That a copy of the foregoing be furnished to the bereaved family of Brother Cunningham, and that the several newspapers of Lewistown, Huntingdon and Blair counties be requested to publish the proceedings.
