PUBLIC MEETING.

In pursuance of the recommendation of the several State Committees, the people of Mifflin County, "opposed to the present National Administration; especially to its despotic and fraudulent Lecompton policy, and its wilful neglect of the just claims of domestic industry, and who are in favor of the sovereignty of the people over their own local concerns; of American institutions as against the policy and intrigues of foreign Governments, and of adequate protection to Home Labor" are requested to assemble at the Town Hall, Lewistown on

GEORGE FRYSINGER, Chairman County Committee.

The Meeting on Monday evening.

A public meeting of those opposed to the Lecompton swindle and in favor of adopting some measures to restore protection to such American manufactures as have been prostrated by the unwise policy of our government, will be held in the Town Hall on Monday evening next, when it is hoped all who can make it convenient to attend in this busy season will do so. The preliminary steps have been taken by the representatives of the American and Republican parties to effect a union—not upon the basis of any peculiar opinion held by either, but upon the broad ground of opposition to the National Administration as regards its interference in territorial affairs, especially in the Kansas case, where its whole power and influence was brought to bear to make slave out of what ought to be free territory; as regards its policy of low revenues from foreign goods, which has thrown thousands of laborers out of regular employment, precisely as was predicted by those eminent statesmen Clay, Webster, Adams, and many others; and as regards its reckless expenditure of public moneys, which are lavished on political favorites by millions even in a more shameful manner than our good old Commonwealth used to be robbed on the Portage Railroad. The remedy for these evils the people have in their own hands, first, by electing true and tried men to Congress and equally true men to the State Legislature, and when the time comes to place a successor to Mr. Buchanan in the Presidential chair, to elect one guided by those landmarks of true democracy that were so fatally lost sight of ever since the nullification doctrines of Calhoun, Troup, and McDuffie obtained a foothold in the creed of professing democrats. To effect this however all sectional interests ought to be thrown aside—the best men, wherever found, selected; and that done, leave the People to do the work.

Looks blue.—The last Cambria Tribune. To be held.—A military encampment, at Bellefonte, on the 21st of September next. See advertisement of Dr. Sanford's Liver Invigorator in another column. The Holidaysburg Standard says there are "myriads" of trout in the Woodbury dam. Who counted the first (10,000) myriad? Prospering like a cow's tail.—The last Juniata Register, four columns having been shaved off. Surprising.—How dignified a few of our cotemporaries have become. Several remind us strongly of Satan rebuking sin. Miss Hall, of the Milesburg, Centre county, M. E. Sunday School, recited 3,508 verses of Scripture in a single Sabbath. Two prominent, useful and respected citizens of Philadelphia died since our last issue.—Job R. Tyson and Robert T. Conrad. Bold Theft.—Stealing a cow at Huntingdon, driving her to Mifflintown, and selling her there. This feat was performed by an Irishman. A correspondent thinks we ought to give the Mifflintown hellhound a touch on his descent, and offers to furnish sundry items. It is not necessary, as no one in this, his native county, either white or black, envies him that honor or the reputation of being the greatest liar and blackguard from the Allegheny to the Susquehanna.

Reception of Senator Crittenden in Cincinnati.

Hon. John J. Crittenden's arrival in Cincinnati called forth a spontaneous demonstration worthy of that distinguished gentleman. At the Spencer House several thousand persons had assembled to greet the Senator from Kentucky, and to participate in the ceremonies of reception. The carriage containing Mr. Crittenden drew up in front of the platform decorated with the national ensign, before the hotel, when Hon. Thomas Corwin, after first giving his old associate and friend a warm and personal welcome, mounted the stand, and welcomed him publicly to the hospitalities of the citizens of Cincinnati in an eloquent but brief address.

Mr. Crittenden momentarily surveyed the crowd, and with deep earnestness said:

Mr. Corwin, my old and respected friend—I had not expected this cordial and unexpected reception until last evening. I had not anticipated anything but the hospitable welcome that is always extended to any stranger arriving in your beautiful city, and I must confess that after being so warmly greeted and honored by so many of my fellow citizens, I feel almost ashamed that I have done so little to deserve it all. And I feel how little I deserve it, because I am the more thankful to you all because of your appreciation of it. I thank you, fellow-citizens, from the fullness of my heart.

I have always been devoted to the Union. I was born in me, and I could not help it. When I was last, and for the sixth time, elected to the Senate by my honored old State of Kentucky, I then determined to be more of a patriot and less of a politician. I said to myself, "You have now run the heated career of a politician; you have loved the strife; you have sought, if you have not delighted in the combat, not now you have arrived at an age when you ought to desert all these things and devote yourself to your country; what may have been excusable in youth is not so now; you have arrived at that age when you should lay aside party strife. Be less of a partizan and more of a patriot." With this feeling I went to finish my public services. If I have failed in any respect it must be attributed to the unquenched frailties of poor human nature. (Laughter and cheers.) I divested myself, so far as possible, of a partizan feeling, and earnestly endeavored to do my duty to my country. I was actuated by just motives, and did not ask for popular opinion, and sought to do what was just and right.

Though not now in my native State, I am among my countrymen, and at home. I claim you as my countrymen. This whole vast confederacy, I feel, is not too great for me to comprehend it in my affections. I feel that wherever I go, all the people are my countrymen. This is my country, my native land; all, all, and these are my brethren, who have a place in my heart. Wherever, within these mighty bounds, I set my foot, I can proudly claim this my own, my native land. (Cheers.) But I have done nothing to merit all this honor you put upon me. I have done nothing but my plain duty, like a plain man. If in the zeal of partizan spirit I have ever done ought to the injury of my country, I pray God to forgive me; but if I have done, I can say justly I did so erring in honest convictions. But I thank God I can now divest myself of partizan spirit. I speak to no party; I have none to speak to. I am not one of that sort of political speculators who, forgetting the present, tantalize themselves by looking into the distant future to discover pregnant evils, but do the duties that are before me, confident that what is done right now cannot result in evil hereafter.

I cannot enter into any discussion before this meeting upon political themes; this is not the time and place, and it is not expected. In the late struggles in Congress I had but one duty to perform. I did not know, I did not ask, what might be the judgment of my fellow men, but I knew what was right and did not choose another course. I thank you, therefore, fellow-citizens, that my course meets your approbation. It is a tribute which I shall carry home with me with unspeakable gratitude.

Mr. Crittenden then proceeded to express the conviction that the discordant elements which so lately warred throughout the country are subsiding into peace, and that the great commonwealth is again moving forward in the career of prosperity. He thought there was but one imperishable foundation for government to stand upon—truth and justice. Trickery and political dishonesty may serve their inventors awhile, but their consequences eventually will be like burnt grass—will turn to ashes and be nothing. With truth and justice for our guides, the future destiny of this Union must be bright and glorious.

He then discussed the extravagance of the present administration briefly, and intimated that the question of protection to American labor and American manufacturing interests must again loom up into importance. With an extravagant government the result must inevitably be enormous public debt, and a final resort to direct taxation.

This part of Mr. Crittenden's speech was genuine, old fashioned Whig protective-tariff doctrine. In conclusion, he again thanked the people with full-breasted emotion, and was jammed through a dense crowd under the charge of Mr. Corwin, and by dint of much muscular effort, finally found the gentlemen's parlor, where gentlemen desirous of conspicuousity in the shade of a great man, did their best to make Mr. Crittenden miscellaneously acquainted with a considerable number of individuals.

During the afternoon Gov. Chase, and a number of our distinguished fellow-citizens, paid their respects to Mr. Crittenden.

The Press has rather a bad memory. The Gazette published no rumored removal of the machine shops, as that paper alleges. It was the Democrat and the Press. When such a rumor appears in the Gazette it will be likely to prove true.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

FOURTH OF JULY.—The young folks, and some old ones too, had a fine opportunity for exercising their patriotism this year by the 4th falling on Sunday—an event three-fourths will hardly see again. They commenced celebrating it on Saturday morning and kept it up until Monday evening, and apparently would not have cared much to continue on for two or three days more.

The Presbyterian Sunday School, numbering nearly three hundred, repaired to Banks' grove on Saturday morning, and spent the day quite pleasantly in the varied exercises usual on such occasions. The declaration was read by J. S. McEwen.

The Lutheran Sunday School, numbering about three hundred and forty in procession, repaired to a grove near the above place, and also had a very agreeable time. The Declaration of Independence was read by Howard Helman, and addresses delivered by Joseph Alexander and Joseph Kook. This party reached the outskirts of town just as the heavy storm came on, and narrowly escaped a drenching.

The Episcopal Sunday School also left town on Saturday morning and spent the day pleasantly on the ridge.

On Sunday the Henderson Hose Company marched to the Methodist Church, where the Rev. J. A. Ross delivered an able and practical sermon addressed in part to them.

On Monday morning the bells were rung with considerable zeal and other patriotic demonstrations made. About 8 o'clock the Methodist Sunday School, to the number of about three hundred, proceeded to Granville—the greater part by way of the river in a flat—and enjoyed themselves in devotional and other recreation. The declaration was read by Emory Swartz.

In the afternoon a fantastic procession, headed by a hand organ on wheels, appeared on our streets. It was a sort of general "take off" of music, hoops, military, &c.

A party also was got up on Monday who took dinner and other old-fashioned accompaniments at Banks' grove, and various others, in less numbers, spent the day at different points and in various pursuits.

A heavy thunder storm visited this section of country on Saturday evening, but did less damage to the growing crops than was expected. The wheat is rapidly ripening, some in fact on the hill sides fit for cutting now, and though somewhat injured by the weevil, we apprehend there will be little cause of complaint should it be housed in good condition.

There are at this time several prisoners at large who at different times made their escape from our jail. Beckwith was retaken at Newton, and is now again in his old quarters. George Holland, who was arrested for sundry offences, managed to hide himself about the furnace and made tracks during the night, about two weeks ago. Mike Bloom was heard of in Fulton county, and the Sheriff started off last week to arrest him. He got sight of the prisoner at a stream, and came within twenty yards of him, when an interesting foot race came off in which the sheriff was fairly distanced. The latter fired twice at Bloom, and it is believed hit him once. The colored boy Ike is said to be lounging about the Big Ridge a few miles from town.

The receipts of the P. R. R. Co. at Lewistown Station for the month of June, were as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Freight received, $1627 82; Tolls, 1905 32; Total freight, 3551 82; Passenger receipts, 1221 00.

Total, $4772 82. Among the principal articles forwarded were the following:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Quantity. Butter, 16,115 lbs.; Eggs, 20,623; Axes, 26,891; Iron, 52,774; Flour, 329 blbs.; Horses, 33; Cattle, 73; Sheep, 247.

Quack Nostrums.—The majority of hair washes, hair dyes, hair tonics, hair oils, and the numberless preparations which are now before the public under such extravagant, hyperbolic and fantastical titles as we see paraded in show-window cards, and newspaper headings, as hair preparations, are all humbugs of the first water; their real merit, when they possess any, is that they do no harm. Hog's lard, whale oil, hard oil, sweet oil, scented and colored, make up, when in beautiful wrappers, and white flint glass bottles, the costliest character of tonics, and when thus costed, are baptised with some tri-syllable term, and caught at by verdant young and old of both sexes. Such is not the character of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. This gentleman comes before the world without any "high falutia" Xilophophorum, or any other astounding and startling catch penny term; he simply advertises a Hair Restorative—what it expresses, precisely—and as a Restorative it acts. Buy Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as you value your scalp, aye, your very brains, apply nothing else; for it may be that you will get some worse substance than perfumed lard oil on your cranium. Remember Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant. See advertisement.

Holloway's Pills.—Woman, whose delicate and sensitive structure is peculiarly susceptible of derangement, has cause to rejoice over the introduction of this wonderful renovator. There is no phase of sickness to which she is liable that it will not rapidly subdue. If hysteria, lassitude, emaciation, and a suspension of functions indispensable to her health render life a burden to her, it will regulate and re-brace every portion of the system involved in her ailments, infuse vigor into her physique, and relieve her mental depression. Such has been the experience of thousands of the sex in Canada, and it is corroborated by the same results in every quarter of the globe.

Valuable Testimony in Favor of the Oxygenated Bitters.

Having made use of the Oxygenated Bitters prepared by Dr. Geo. B. Green, of Windsor, Vt., and from knowledge obtained of their efficacy in other cases, we cheerfully recommend them to the public, believing they will fully sustain the recommendation of the proprietor. We hope that this valuable remedy may be accessible to all the afflicted.

L. H. ARNOLD, formerly Governor of R. I. Wm. WOODBRIDGE, late Governor of Mich. Its success in severe cases of Dyspepsia, Asthma, and General Debility of the System, places it among the most wonderful discoveries in medical science, and has given it a reputation far beyond any remedy known for these complaints in all their various forms.

SETH W. FOWLE & Co., 138 Washington Street, Boston, Proprietors. Sold by Charles Ritz, Lewistown, and their agents everywhere.

The "Elixir" prepared by Dr. James Williams, for the cure of Dyspepsia, and nothing but Dyspepsia, (as advertised in another column,) has by its own merits obtained for itself so high a reputation in Philadelphia, that physicians acquainted with its properties are using it themselves and prescribing it to their patients, convinced by observation of its great efficacy in restoring the disordered digestive organs to a healthy function. Numerous cases of dyspepsia of the most aggravated character, which were abandoned as incurable by some of the medical faculty, have by the use of this Elixir been restored to perfect health, as attested certificates testify. For sale by Charles Ritz, Lewistown.
