PRESERVING GRAPES.

As we are now in the midst of the season for preserving grapes for winter use the following method, communicated to the American Agriculturist by Chas. Campbell of Aurora, Cayuga county, N. Y., may be interesting to many of our readers who have the article in abundance :

"When they are fully ripe suspend the basket by a strap or cord passed around the neck, thereby giving liberty to both hands for picking; with one hand hold the cluster, and with the other remove from the vine; remove from the cluster all un-unripe and decayed fruit and deposit them in the basket until it is filled.—I use Terms—Half in Jacunce. For Board, Tuition, Room, &c., per session of 22 weeks, $52 to $60 Tuition alone, per quarter of 11 wks. $4 to $6 Music, Drawing, Painting and French at a market basket that will hold about a bushel. Carry the grapes thus gathered to the place for packing. I use boxes about two feet square by six inches deep in the clear, with covers made to fit tight. In packing lay a newspaper on the bottom of the box. then a layer of grapes, then a paper and second layer of grapes which, when closely packed, fills the box; set in some dry, airy place, with the cover off and let the box remain open for ten days, or until the sweating process is past; then close the box and | It is designed to put the Academy, in every set them in the fruit room, cellor or garret, any place were they will not freeze, or which is not extremely damp.

Grapes packed as above directed, will open at any time during the winter or spring following, as fresh as when packed. The only secret or mistery is, that the moisture which spoils the fruit when packed in saw dust and other absorbents, passes off during the ten days that the box remains open, instead of being absorbed and ultimately moulding and spoiling them. So perfect has been my success that I have more confidence in the preservation of the grape than any other fruit. I use shallow boxes for packing grapes that the moisture may more readily escape, and that the first layer in the bottom may not be crushed by Student. the weight above."

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES!

Consumption of Smoke & Gas & Saving of Fuel! THE subscriber takes pleasure in offering to his customers a new Patented Gas-burning ooking Stove, undoubtedly the best stove made. It is well known that all inflammable matter requires a certain amount of air to support com-bustion, and if the supply is insufficient it is impossible to produce a flame. The heat of the fire, in ordinary cooking stoves, decomposes the fuel, and as all the fresh air is admitted under the grate, its oxygen is exhausted before it has passed through the fire chamber. The close flues at the top of the store then act as an ex-tinguisher, tending to put out the fire instead of assisting the combustion. A large portion of the fuel, therefore, passes off in the shape of smoke, clogging up the flues of the stove so as to impede the draft and interfere with the baking,—or of invisible gas which combines with the lime and so destroys the mortar of the chimneys, loosening the bricks, and exposing the dwellings to the danger of fire. The introduction of an additional supply of cold air would cool the gas below the igniting temperature, but by the proper application above the fire of air previously heated to a tem-perature of several hundred degrees (which is one of the prominent features of the patent) the gases are inflamed in numerous their combustion is sufficient to heat the oven, even if the draft through the fire chamber is entirely closed. In addition to the ordinary di-1 50 reet draft under the grate and through the fire chamber, the gas-burner has an additional draft 2 50 through the top plates, which is of itself suffi-cient to maintain combustion. The upper draft 2 50 not only consumes the gases, but it helps to strengthen and preserve the centre pieces which are most exposed to the direct action of the fire, and which are made double instead of the usual single plates. By means of this draft alone, all the operations of cooking can be carand the fuel consequently burns more slowly and more economically. A sufficient evidence of the effect of the gases in heating the oven is found in the fact that the oven will be ready for baking even before the fire is thoroughly kindled, and much sooner than in any other.

There is scarcely a doubt that before long the Gas-burning Cooking Stoves will supercede all others. The operation is so perfect and its consumption of fuel so small in comparison with other cooking stoves, and its heat so easily regulated, (burning more or less as desired,) that every one who uses configurations that every one who uses one of these stoves will that every one who uses one of the set of th
