

AGRICULTURAL.

Pasturing on the Highways.
 We cannot conceive of a greater means than turning cattle on the highways to pasture. The true spirit of the law in relation to fencing is, 'That every owner should keep his cattle from trespassing on his neighbor's,' and not, as many suppose, 'that he should fence his grounds to keep his neighbor's cattle from his fields.' No farmer can, constitutionally, be required to erect fences, and if he chooses to soil his cattle in stables or pens, he should not be required to fence his farm at all. In many parts of Europe fences are not used, and in this enlightened age they should not be required in this country. The cost of useless fences is greater per month, than the total expenses of our government per year, and why? simply because the close fenced portion of the community, who have progressed sufficiently to adopt the best methods for feeding their cattle, prefer to tax their neighbors for half the cost of fences, only required by their refusal to adopt the soiling system. Such as desire to continue the open pasturing, should be compelled to make the entire fence they require, and not anchor their neighbors to their stupidity.

Every animal found on the public ground and its owner should be fined. The excuse sometimes made, that poor men should be permitted to pasture their cattle on the road, is frivolous; it would be equally proper to claim, that when our legislatures are not in session, that poor men should be permitted to use the legislative halls for residences—Working Farmer.

The Color of Flowers Promoted by Charcoal.

A French amateur, in the Paris Horticultural Review, states: 'About a year ago I made a bargain for a roseth of magnificent growth, and full of buds. I waited for them to bloom, and I expected roses worthy of such a noble plant, and of the praise bestowed upon it by the vender. At length, when it bloomed, all my hopes were blasted. The flowers were of a faded color, and I discovered that I had only a middling multiflora, slate-colored enough. I therefore resolved to sacrifice it to some experiments which I had in view. My attention had been captivated with the effects of charcoal, as stated in some English publications. I then covered the earth (in the pot in which my roseth was) about half an inch deep with pulverized charcoal. Some days after, I was astonished to see the roses which bloomed of as fine a lively rose color as I could wish. I determined to repeat the experiment; and, therefore, when the roseth had done flowering, I took off the charcoal and put fresh earth on the pot. You may conceive that I waited for the next spring impatiently to see the result of this experiment. When it bloomed, the roses were, as at first, pale and discolored; but by applying the charcoal as before they soon resumed their rosy color. I tried the powdered charcoal likewise in large quantities on my petunias, and found that both the white and the violet flowers were equally sensible to its action. It always gave great vigor to the red or violet colors of the flowers, and the white petunias became veined with red or violet tints. The violets (colors) became covered with irregular spots of a bluish or almost black tint. Many persons who admired them thought they were new varieties from seed. Yellow flowers are, as I have proved, insensible to the influence of the charcoal.'—Cottage Gardener.

How to Manage Box Edging.

Few people, except professed gardeners, know how this handsome border ornament ought to be planted. It is usually stuck in a few inches deep, and left straggling on the top of the ground, with three or four times as much top and three or four times less bottom than it ought to have. Box grows nearly as well from the branches as the roots, and we think makes prettier edging. But the trench in which the edging is to be planted should be full space deep on the border side, being a few inches shallower on the alley side—the soil should be made fine—and the box inserted to the bottom of the trench, packed in tightly with soil, leaving only from one and a half to two inches out of ground. There will be no danger of it not growing, or of producing fall foliage at the ground. Of course no one would think of planting box without a line.

Trimming box edging is rarely performed either skillfully or judiciously. Instead of cutting off the top squarely, and below the preceding year's growth, let it be pruned to an angle, like the letter A, taking care not to cut below the new growth, and you will, through the whole season, have a beautifully green, thrifty edging, which your friends will admire, and of which you will not be a little proud.—Germantown Telegraph.

The Depth of Trees.

There has recently sprung up some controversy as to the proper depth that trees should be transplanted, and as usual in controversies of this kind among practical men, there is not the least hope of their ever coming to a common opinion on the question. And this is natural and perhaps as it should be. Different kinds of trees frequently require different modes of culture, beginning with the planting. For instance, dwarf pears should be planted deep, two or three inches below the union of the quince with the pear, in all soils where a dwarf pear ought to be. A fir or spruce should be planted shallow, and so, as a rule, should board pear as well as apple trees. This exception, should, however, be made; in light, porous soils they may be gauged deeper than in clay moulds. Thus the heavier the soils, the shallower should the trees be planted. Such is our experience.—Germantown Telegraph.

DR. O. J. WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

FOR STATESMEN, JUDGES, CLERGYMEN.
 Ladies and Gentlemen, in all parts of the world the efficacy of Prof. O. J. Wood's Hair Restorative, and gentleness of the Press are unanimous in its praise. A few testimonials only can be given; see circular for more, and will be impossible to doubt its efficacy.
 47 Wall Street, New York, Dec. 20th, 1858.
 GENTLEMEN: Your note of the 16th inst. has been received, and you had heard that I had been benefited by the use of Wood's Hair Restorative, and requesting my certificate of the fact I find no objection to give it.
 I award it to you cheerfully, because I think it due. My age is about 50 years; the color of my hair sunburned and inclined to curl. Some five or six years since it began to turn gray, and the scalp on the crown of my head to lose its sensibility and dandruff to form upon it. Each of these disabilities increased with time, and about four months since a severe cold was added to them by hair falling off the top of my head and threatening to make me bald.
 In this unpleasant predicament, I was induced to try Wood's Hair Restorative, mainly to arrest the falling off of my hair, for I had really no expectation that gray hair could ever be restored to its original color except from dye. I was, however, greatly surprised to find after the use of two bottles only, that not only was the falling off arrested, but the color was restored to the gray hairs, and sensibility to the scalp, and dandruff ceased to form on my head, very much to the gratification of my wife, at whose solicitation I was induced to try it.
 For this, among the many obligations I owe to her sex, I strongly recommend all husbands who value the admiration of their wives to purchase my example, and use it if growing gray or getting bald.
 Very respectfully, BEN. A. LAVENDER.
 To O. J. Wood & Co., 44 Broadway, New York.
 My family are absent from the city, and I am no longer at No. 11, Carroll Place.
 St. Louis, Ala., July 20th, 1859.
 To Prof. O. J. Wood: Dear Sir:—Your Hair Restorative has done my hair so much good since I commenced the use of it that I wish to make known to the PUBLIC its effects on my hair. A man or woman may be nearly deprived of hair, and by a resort to your "Hair Restorative" the hair will return more beautiful than ever; at least this is my experience. Believe it all! Yours truly, WM. H. KENNEDY.

WOODS' HAIR RESTORATIVE.

Prof. O. J. Wood: Dear Sir:—Having had the pleasure to use your Hair Restorative, and to see the effects of the yellow fever, in New Orleans in 1851. I was induced to make a trial of your preparation, and found it to answer as the very thing needed. My hair is now thick and glossy, and no longer expresses my obligations to you in giving to the afflicted such a treasure.
 The Restorative is put up in bottles of three sizes, viz: large, medium, and small; the medium bottles at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the large, and for two dollars per bottle; the large, four dollars a quart, 40 per cent. more in proportion, and retail for $3.

DR. O. PHELPS BROWN'S ACACIAN BALSAM
FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, COLDS, GENERAL DEBILITY, &c.

This remedy is offered as affording a means of speedy cure for the large number that die annually in our land of that fell scourge, Consumption, to which, unfortunately, so many predisposing causes exist. Youth and age are alike subject to its ravages.
EVERY PERSON
 can name one or more of his acquaintances who is subject to some form of lung or throat complaint, which, if not tended to by reason, inevitably ends in death, either to a premature grave. To such, help is at hand if they will but avail themselves of it, and hope—the harbinger of brighter days—may be measured without fear of chilling disappointment. Dr. O. Phelps Brown's ACACIAN BALSAM does just what is claimed for it, and may be relied upon as the most successful remedy in curing lung and throat disorders, of any remedy known at the present day. The many phases assumed by Consumption justify the apprehension that it possesses some peculiarly fatal tendency, either from constitutional or hereditary tendency.
 While the discoverer of this remedy does not believe that people should be constantly doing themselves with medicines

(TO PREVENT SICKNESS)

there are many cases where disease is too long allowed to take its course, and the system is so completely regarded as first as simply an annoyance, ceases only with the life of the patient. An impure state of the blood, and debility of the lungs, fills the system with morbid humors, and pulsation becomes feeble or accelerated to a feverish intensity—the heart labor and kidneys, separately performing functions that together being impeded in their regular action—the digestive organs falter in their task, and refuse to perform the process of separating the nutritious elements from food, and the whole mental being is weighed down to sink under the burden of life. The patient solicited, accounts his case a complication of disorders, and often resorts to resort to medication, from his thorough disbelief in any prospect of cure. To such of the ACACIAN BALSAM, as thoroughly worthy the confidence of all. Every symptom of disease is surely none other but strengthening and renovating to the entire system. Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Colds, and General Debility, are relieved by its use. Night Sweats, Loss of Appetite, and Wasting away of the Muscles, Loss of Appetite, Soreness of the Throat, Chest, and General Debility, are relieved by its use. The ACACIAN BALSAM is truly the greatest remedy of the day, as its beneficial qualities are fully apparent in eight-and-fourty hours of trial.

 Let the invalid, then, no longer despair, but make the trial, and the result will surely be of the most gratifying character.
 The ACACIAN BALSAM is prepared with the greatest care, and the best materials. No pains or expense are spared to make what is the best of its kind, and of the age. It may be taken by either sex, of all ages, and at all seasons, with perfect safety, and it is the best remedy for the cure of the ACACIAN BALSAM in all cases which sap the foundation and destroy the lives of so many in our midst. Every family should have it on hand, and regard it as a household treasure.
