The Prize Fight between J. C. Heenan and Tom Sayers.

The Fight for the Championship-thirty-seven Rounds Fought—the Ring broken up by the Mob—both the Combatants badly hurt conflicting Opinions.

By the Vanderbilt, which left Southampton on the 18th April, and arrived at New York on the 18th April, and arrived at New York on Saturday morning. If ull particulars were received of the great pugilistic fight between Heenan and Sayers, for the championship of England. What is called the Champion's Belt has been in Sayers' possession for some time. He has held it against all challengers, and if he has it at the end of three years, it remains with him. Whoever holds the belt can do so only on these terms.

The fight came off at Farnborough, Hamp shire, about 40 miles from London, on Tues-day, April 17th, and lasted exactly two hours and sixteen minutes, having commenced at half past 7 a. m., and concluded at 14 min-

It is impossible to decide which man had the best of it. Sayers' right arm was almost disabled by his adversary on the 6th round, (it somewhat recovered at a later period of the contest,) and Heenan was perpetually knocking him down. On the other hand, it is admitted that Heenan had one eye entirely closed up by Sayers' blows, and the other almost in that condition when the fight ended. Heenan showed all the strength and agility that was expected, and appears to have greatly improved in his 'science.' Had Sayers gone in for a straightforward, stand-up fight, he evidently could not have stood up half an hour before Heenan.

THE FIGHT.

Heenan and Sayers on entering the ring grass. shook hands most cordially, and at 20 min-utes past seven o'clock they commenced. Round 1. The men went up with great quickness at the call of time, and with a smile upon their faces, mixed, however, with a great degree of seriousness, and commenced squaring away, Heenan choosing his position under the direction of Macdonald close in his own corner, with the view of drawing Sayers upon him and hitting as he advanced, instead of following him, as bad been the fa tal policy of most of Sayers' previous oppo-nents. The position of Sayers was very elegant, touching the earth but lightly with his feet, and setting himself backward and forward while measuring his man, with the ease and grace of a dancing master. As they sparred, the audience almost held their breath. Two or three times Sayers feinted lightly, but Heenan showed his readiness, and laughed smartly at checking the good intention. Heenan himself tried in the same way, and Sayers showed his wariness in like manner; at length, however, pursing his brow and gathering his muscles quickly, Sayers let fly, caught the American 'Boy' lightly on the mouth, slightly drawing blood. Immense applause, and cries of 'First blood for Say. went from all parts of the crowd at this, and Sayers gracefully stepped back, o observe his triumph, with a smile that seemed to say, 'That's only my first instalment-I'll soon give you a second!' They sparred away carefully again, and Heenan at ength let fly, but did not get home; then folwing the blow, he rushed in and clenched, and threw Sayers easily. (Cheers from Heenan's friends.)

Round 2. Both came up smiling, Heenan slightly tasting his lip, as if conscious of having been bled. Sayers came again over to Heenan's corner, and they began sparring just alongside the ropes, amid the encouragement of their respective partisans, neither of the men however, taking any action of ment of the ment of their respective partisans, neither of disease, or, worse than all, mineral medicines, he men however, taking any notice of what rejoice in the salutary revolution.

Above all, the feebler sex in every condithe outsiders said. Both were intent upon with his return, Heenan then pressed upon him, and, measuring him handsomely, let fly with his left, and caught him on the chin. Sayers gave way, and Heenan following, planted two more straight hits in quick succlaret from the Champion for himself. Sayers then, in endeavoring to counter, rushed in and elenched, and was thrown. (More cheers and debility with activity and strength.

Round 3. This round was begun, like both the previous ones, in Heenan's corner, and both began it by the same emblems of happiness that had been exhibited at first. Sev eral passes were made without effect, but Hee man, watching his opportunity, let fly with his left, and hit him clean down. Great cheers; first knock down blow for Heenan.

Round 4. Sayers came up readily and with good will, notwithstanding the disaster which befel him at the close of the last round. The same stereotyped smile was on the face of both, but while it was sweetest on the mug of Sayers, Heenan's left first split the expression in the middle, and away went Sayers again, clean from his feet, and stretched upon the Round 5. (Even betting on Heenan.) Heenan now went at Sayers, and passed over to his side of the ring and opened the fighting. Sayers, however, admonished by the fearful visitation of the terrible left hand, which had now sent him twice to the earth, began to get shy, and gave way; and at length, when followed still more closely by Heenan's contracting brow, fled from the approaching mischief by a sideway sort of run. But Heenan seemby a sideway sort of run. But Heenan seemed to have been instructed in this artifice, and gathering up his arms, smiled, and took a new and a waiting position. Sayers came up again, and they began to spar anew. Presently Heenan found his chance, and letting go his left, caught Sayers smack upon the forehead. Bewildered somewhat by the blow, Sayers gave way, and Heenan, pressing on, repeated the visitation twice more; Sayers, after a light run upon the cheek, going down

Round 6. 'Six to four on the Benicia Boy.' Sayers came up this time looking as if he meant mischief, and walked, as at first, to Heenan's corner, and there commenced the battle. In a few seconds his good intentions were developed by a tremendous hit under the right eye, which made a clean crosswise cut of half an inch, let out a gush of blood and when down. The blow was obviously acci dental. 27—The Boy bore Tom down on the ropes. 28—In this at the end Tom went down.

29-Tom slipped down. 30—Heenan's other eye closing fast. The Boy rushed at Tom and fell on him. 31-The Champion down again.

Tom's efforts to extricate himself were in vain, but he administered severe purpose. were in vain, but he administered severe punishment to the Boy's face. At this there was a rush to the ropes from all sides, and the referree was shut out. At the expiration of two hours and six minutes both men went to Five additional rounds were fought, not withstanding the pressure of the crowd.

This is a fair specimen of this bulldog fight, which we give to our readers who may feel curious in such matters. It being closed without giving much room for either to crow, and both badly beaten, is probably the best thing that could have happened.

The Madness of Priffing with Disease.

Truths for those who Reason .- There are thousand of lunaties at large. Is the man sane who shows more solicitude to keep his house in good repair than to preserve his health or prop his failing constitution? Such a man is, as Shakspeare has it, essentially mad, without seeming so. Besides, there is no excuse for remaining sick, when the means of recovery have been placed within the reach of every valetudinarian. The great and good Holloway, volunteering the resources of a well-stored and powerful intellect in the service of humanity, has sought, found, combin-ed, and applied the antidotes to every disorder which assails the system, either from with in or without. His two world-celebrated rem edies are achieving, in all regions and elimates, and over the most frightful forms of disease, the most ample triumphs. Bulletins of Holloway's victories appear in every pub lic journal that issues from the press, and more than ten thousand certificates of cures accomplished by his Pills and Ointment, are published annually in Europe and this country. No longer are mineral poisons and par alyzing narcotics considered necessary in the practice of physic. The two medicinal wonders of the nineteenth century have super-each other only, and could not be diverted from their object. After some cautious spar to congratulate themselves that Professor to congratulate themselves that Professor ring and feinting, Heenan let fly with his left, but Sayers stopped handsomely, and fell short world. It would seem that their mild, conservative action has a peculiar and most ben-eficial effect upon the female system and constitution at the critical period of life. girlhood, maturity, and old age, as maiden as wife and mother, fragile and sensitive woession on the mouth, this time calling on the man finds in these preparations the surest means of quieting every pain, regulating ev

The value of such a medicine as Hollo-way's Pills as a household remedy cannot be over appreciated, Husbands and fathers know little of the many aches and pains to which the feebler members of their families are subjected, in consequence of their sedentary habits, and the susceptibility of their nervous systems. They suffer uncomplaining-

ly. Diffidence, perhaps, prevents them from applying to a physician: or if they do seek medical aid, it is to no purpose. But in Holloway's remedies, they have a sure means of relief, and in the accompanying directions and advice, a chart that, if implicitly followed. will guide them to renewed health and cheerfulness .- " Home Journal."

Insanity Resulting from Vanity.-The Lafayette Journal says the sheriff of that county recently took a young fellow to the lunatic asylum from that place, who is remarkably handsome, and whose insanity is believed to have been produced by a morbid development of his self-conceit. Vanity is not satisfied with making people crazy-it has more victims in the grave than the choicra.

The Cow Distemper in Massachusetts. The commissioned officers appointed to examine into the causes of the epidemic that is now prevailing among the cattle in the Bay State, in pursuing their investigations, found one farmer who had lost eleven cows by pneumonia. The lungs of two of the animals were found to be diseased. The progress of the disease is so insidious that the owner stoutly declares that the cow has not been sick. The whole stock of another young farmer-eighteen head-had to be sacrificed, comprising very fine animals. In every herd of cattle visited, the disease was found. Ten thousand dollars were appropriated by the Legislature for out of half an inch, let out a gush of blood and at once puffed up the eye. Stung by this blow Heenan rushed upon him, and with another clean hit from what his friends call the left duke. I knocked Sayers down. rally prevails throughout the grazing coun-

HOMEOPATHY.

Among the inventions and improvements with which the day is rife, that made by Prof. This round lasted twenty minutes. Tom's arm was the chief drawback. Heenan's right eye was closed up and the cheek feurin its freedom from danger and the ease and pleasantness with which its medicines may be taken or given to children, it still remained an intricate system for the people to use. From the fact that a single medicine is given at a dose, and each applicable to only certain symptoms, a large number of medicines and a large book of directions became necessary in order to their use. And what is worse, these directions are of the most nice and discriminating character, so that often the long-er one looked and studied, the more puzzled he became, nor could any amount of learned lumber, in the way of Domestic Manuals, explain the matter.

At this precise point the discovery of Prof. Humphreys comes in. He ascertained, from repeated experiments, what had been before denied, that certain medicines in this system might be harmonicusly combined in a single remedy which possessed, in good part, the advantages of each of its ingredients, and upon this principle forms a series of Specific Remedies for each of the more common dis eases or ailments. With these, all uncertainty and embarrasment in giving the remedies is avoided, and they may be properly admin-istered by any person of ordinary intelligence. His improvement is certainly valuable, and one which throws the benefits of this beautiful and efficient system into the hands of the people, and must prove a blessing to thousands. His Specifies are spoken of in high terms by those who use them, and we can readily conceive must prove a valuable addition to the comforts of a family.
