

MORAL & RELIGIOUS

'I DID AS THE REST DID.' This tame yielding spirit—this doing 'as the rest did'—has ruined thousands.

A young man is invited by vicious companions to visit the theatre, or gambling room, or other haunts of licentiousness. He becomes dissipated, spends his time, loses his credit, squanders his property, and at last sinks into an untimely grave. What ruined him? Simply 'doing what the rest did.'

A father has a family of sons. He is wealthy. Other children in the same situation in life do so and so; are indulged in this thing and that. He indulges his own in the same way. They grow up idlers, triflers and fops. The father wonders why his children do not succeed better. He has spent so much money on their education—has given them great advantages; but alas! they are only a source of vexation and trouble. Poor man, he is just paying the penalty of 'doing as the rest did.'

This poor mother strives hard to bring up her daughters genteelly. They learn what others do, to paint, to sing, to play, to dance, and several useful matters. In time they marry, their husbands are unable to support their extravagance, and they are soon reduced to poverty and wretchedness. The good woman is astonished. 'Truly,' says she, 'I did as the rest did.'

The sinner follows the example of others, puts off repentance, and neglects to prepare for death. He passes along through life, till, unawares, death strikes the fatal blow. He has no time left now to prepare, and he goes down to destruction, because he was so foolish as to 'do as the rest did.'

Home Life.

If home life is well ordered, the children having, according to age, working time, play time, books, games, and household sympathies, they will love home and find pleasure there.

Give the little ones slate and pencils, and encourage their attempt to make pictures. Drawing will amuse them when noisy plays have lost their zest, or are unseasonable; and the art will be useful to them in after life. Have them read to each other stories and paragraphs of your selection, and save the funny things and the pleasant ones you see in papers and books to read them at their leisure. You cannot imagine how much it will please them, and how it will bind them to you. But choose well for them: for the impression made on their minds now will last when the hills crumble. Have them sing together, and sing with them, teaching them songs and hymns. Let them sing all day—like the birds—at all proper times. Have them mutually interested in the same thing; amusements and occupations, having specified times for each, so that their habit will be orderly. Let them work together in the garden—boys and girls—both need out-of-door work—'together let them enjoy their games, riddles, &c.—all their plays, books and work—while the parents' eyes direct and sympathize, and their loud voices bend in loving accord.

How to get Happy.

The happiest man in the world is the man of moderate desires. Wealth is an enviable thing; so is power; so is learning—so is all combined. But he who enjoys each or all of these, and still desires more, is not happy. He is not contented; and discontent is infelicity. On the contrary, he who has little, yet wants less, is rich, for he has more than he needs—whether it be houses or honors, public eulog or private enjoyments, the result is still the same. Then what follows? This principle, viz: diminish your wants, and you proportionately increase your means of gratifying them! This is easier than acquiring property, yet in effect it places you in the position of one worth millions.

THE reputation of these very celebrated vegetable remedies is now unequalled by any others in this country or in Europe. They are fully established as the most universal family medicine now in use, and they will maintain their pre-eminent renown by their intrinsic and comprehensive virtues which, acquired by the usual modes of puffery would be unworthy of them and is unnecessary. Thousands and tens of thousands of persons now living in perfectly restored health can testify, as thousands have testified, to their prompt and decided efficacy not only in all digestive functions, Costiveness, Bilious and Liver Complaints, Rheumatic and Inflammatory Colds, Coughs, Pleurisy, Headache and Impure State of the Blood and other fluids, but also in Rheumatism, Fever and Ague, other Intermittent Fevers, Asthma, Bronchitis, Cholera, Pleurisy, Palpitation of the Heart, Rush of Blood to the Head, Settled Pains in the Joints, Limbs and Organs, Affections of the Bladder and Kidneys, Jaundice, Dropsy, Piles (however inveterate), Habitual Constiveness, Scrofulous Bilious Looseness, Obstinate Headache and Giddiness, and an immense number of other maladies. They require no dieting nor confinement, are perfectly mild and pleasant in their operation, but will powerfully restore health—the greatest of earthly blessings—to the most exhausted and dilapidated constitutions.
