A Brutal Act-A Man Pulls a Horse's Tounge from its Month .- The Troy Times of the 22d inst. publishes the account of brutal act perpetrated in that eity on Monday last, by a man named Thomas Downing. It appears that Downing's team were in the cellarway, pulling on a heavy load of stones or dirt. They refused to draw, when Downing, in a momentary fit of passion, stepped to the head of one of the animals, and opening its mouth, caught hold of the tounge, and pulled it out! At least three inches of the tounge was pulled off, and the piece was left lying for some time afterwards on a stone-it being witnessed by quite a number of persons .-The story of the cruelty was rapidly circulated, and a gentleman went to have the passionate man arrested under the statute punishing with severity such crucity to lumb beasts. Downing followed him to the detective's office, and begged so hard to be let off, that the gentleman did not eare to press the matter further, though it is probable that the man will be arrested, since all agree that something should be done to punish him for his unnatural crime. pull the horse's tounge out, but only took old of it in order to make the horse draw. He says he has seen other persons do so, come off. He thinks the bit cut it in Debages and Calicoes. the first place, so that with the strain of his pulling it separated from the mouth. The animal belongs to him, and will probably have to be despatched, as it will be impossible for the poor beast to eat hereaf.

It is to be hoped that such a eruel act will meet with suitable punishment.

.... A Novel Vessel and Strange Motive Power. -Yesterday morning a large concourse of people assembled on the banks of the Alleghany, on both sides, to see To.n Watson, the Mr. Merryman, of Spalding & Roger's Mammoth Circus, perform his novel feat of sailing down the river in a wash tub drawn by four geese. Soon after eleven Tom started in his tub, at a point above the acqueduct. drawn by his geese, which seemed very trac table, passed under the Hand and St. Clair street bridges, where he was greeted with the shout of the multitude there assembled, and effected a landing near the point .- Pittsburg Post. 24th.

Practical Joking.

The contemptible species of fun known as 'practical joking' ought to be 'played We all know the immense amount of fun it is to the crowd in the street to see a man in pursuit of his hat, which has Cassinetts, been blown off by an unexpected rush-around the corner of a high wind-or a drunken wind, if you please. But it isn't Silk, Linen and Cotton Handkerchiefs, Lafun to him. It is a source of ineffable de- dies' and Gentlemen's Hose, Buttons, Butch ight to the crowd when a man is suddenly brought to the ground by treading upon an orange skin, but it isn't particularly funny to him, especially if the fall discolates his hip bones. Capital jokes are not the 'cheese.' They are sure to injure some one, either in body, limb or mind. A one, either in body, limb or mind. A prastical joker may be a very funny, witty man, in his own opinion; but we marvel the store of JOHN KENNEDY & Co. prastical joker may be a very funny, witty much if he is overburdened with kindness. much if he is overburdened with kindness, or geniality, however boisterous may be his protestations of regard for the feelings found at JOHN KENNEDY & Co's. of his associates. The practical joker should be regarded with contempt rather than favor. He is a nuisance which ought not to be tolerated. His delight is to make his neighbors or his friends miserable, and to give them, that he may enjoy himself; all the trouble and annoyance and mental and bodily anguish his ingenuity can invent. And this he calls a 'practical joke.' There is a quaint story told of a young collegian who rather liked an occasional indulgence in playing unpleasant practical jokes upon his friends. The story runneth thus: One afternoon he walked out with one of his instructors, and they chanced to see a pair of old shoes lying by the side of the path, which appeared to belong to a poor man at work close by. 'Let us have a little amusement at his expense,' said the student. 'Suppose we hide these shoes, and conceal ourselves in the bushes to watch his perplexity when he cannot find them.' I can think of a better trick than that, said the instructor. 'You are rich, and suppose you put a silver dollar in the toe of each shoe, and then we will hide.' The young man did so. The poor man finished his work soon, and went to put on his shoes. You can imagine his surprise, when he stooped down to take a pebble, as he supposed, from the toe, and found it to be a hard dollar, and then his absolute perplexity and astonishment, when he found still another in the other shoe. His feelings overcame him; he fell upon his knees, looked up to heaven, and uttered aloud a fervent thanksgiving, in which he thanked a kind Providence for sending some unknown hand to save from perishing his sick and helpless wife, and children without bread.
