

your breath unconsciously; and when I waxed confident, and would drive personally, I was run away with of course, upset with an awful pain into a drift five fathom deep, and dug out ignominiously, amid much laughter of the little folks, who greatly crowded over clumsy Gulliver. I was frost bitten twice, and revived by a snow rubbing; but worst I was struck with snow-blindness, for I had to pass a fortnight in my cabin in absolute darkness, and was not the happier for the reflection that my own obstinacy in refusing to wear snow spectacles had brought this agreeable conclusion upon me. When I recovered I was thankful for the spectacles, and never suffered from the glare any more.

So the winter wore on. The Laps were always kind, gentle, and gay, in their strange semi pagan way, though I trembled lest I should really be ill, beyond cure of simple remedies, and abandoned to the wizard, a sort of medical man among them who beats his magic drum, and mutters spells over the sick, as among the American Indians. Besides the wizard, we possessed two witches, lupish crows, in pointed capes of white fox-skin, who derived fees and much reverence from the fears of the community. Yet my hosts looked on themselves as civilized folks, compared with their more northern neighbors.

All bad tribes up north, Peter Wow would say in his broken Swedish; 'shoot you if you go there, for fear you come for harm!' Cannibals up there, and you know the Lapland muskets never miss! Indeed they very seldom do miss, at a moderate range.

But the merry dancers! I was going to omit the most strangely splendid sight that ever astonished my eyes, and to which a whole Royal Academy of artists could never do justice. The northern lights, the customary aurora sandimeters, were unusually splendid about midwinter; but once, as I was returning from a sledge excursion, an exclamation from my guide made me start I shall never forget the scene. The heavens were one vast pavilion of many colored light; blue, orange, fiery red, deep violet, now paved with fiery gold, now spangled with lustrous gems, all bleeding in one glowing mass; while blue, and touching the snowy plain, wheeled and sparkled, as in fantastic dance, a hundred columns of prismatic fire that seemed the creation of some wild dream. These were the merry dancers, the wondrous lights of the north.

At it was a pleasant winter; and I protest that I was half sorry when we all went up the hill again and hailed the rising sun, and day and summer came pouring in at once; and the boat was prepared, and I bade my gnome hosts adieu, and went off to the daylight, open air, Gloucestershire world again.—Chambers' Journal.

THE ONLY PREPARATION THAT HAS STOOD THE TEST OF YEARS,

And grows more and more Popular every Day!

And testimonial, new and almost without number might be given from ladies and gentlemen in all grades of society, whose united testimony none could resist, that Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative will restore the bald and gray, and preserve the hair of the youth to old age, in all its youthful beauty.

Battle Creek, Mich., Dec. 21st, 1888.

Dear Wm.:—I have used your hair restorative for twenty years, and have seen it do more good than any other preparation I have used for the hair. It has cured me of dandruff, and has made my hair grow again, and has given me a fine head of hair. I have tried many other preparations, but they have all failed. I have not been able to obtain suit for eyes, neither have I been able to do them up, and consequently of which my head has suffered extremely from cold. This induced me to try Briggs & Hodges' almost the last year I had on my head a two dollar head of hair. I have followed the directions and the bald spot is now covered with hair thick and black, though short. It is coming in all over my head. Feeling confident that another bottle would restore it entirely and permanently I feel anxious to persevere in its use, and being doubtful of means to get more, I enclose you five dollars if you would not be willing to send me an order on three agents for a bottle, and request you to sell the complete directions, and the reward is to those that are kind and generous and the fatherless.

My friend,
SUSANNAH KIRBY.

Ligonier Noble Co., Indiana, Feb. 24th, 1890.

Prof. O. J. Wood: Dear Sir—In the latter part of the year 1882 while attending the State and Normal Law School of the State of New York, my hair fell out so much that I was compelled to wear a wig. I have used your preparation for the past year, and my hair has come out again, and is growing again. I feel confident that you will not be surprised when I tell you that upon my return to the State of Indiana, my more casual acquaintances were not so much in a hurry to describe the cause of the change in my appearance, as my most intimate acquaintances were to recognize me at all.

At one time, I made application to the most skilled physicians in the city, and they advised me to cut my hair, and from them that my hair could not be restored. I was forced to become reconciled to my fate, until fortunately, I saw in the paper the advertisement of your Restorative, and was recommended to try a single one, as being the most reliable Hair Restorative in existence. I tried one, and found to my great satisfaction that it was positively the desired effect. Since that time, I have used seven dollars' worth of your Restorative, and see a result. I have a very good crop of my own hair, and a very good one, and I feel confident that your Restorative is the only one that can be trusted.

As a mark of my gratitude for your labor and skill in the production of so wonderful an article, I have recommended it to all my family, and to all my acquaintances, who I am happy to inform you, are using it with like effect. Very respectfully, yours,
A. M. LATTE.

Attorney and Counselor at Law, No. 44 Broadway, and sold by dealers throughout the world.

The Restorative is put up in bottles of three sizes, viz: large, medium, and small; the small bottles 1/4 pint, and 1/2 pint, and one dollar per bottle; the medium bottles at least to the larger part of the year 1887, and the small, retails for two dollars a bottle; the large bottles a quart, 40 cts. more in proportion and retails for $1.00 a bottle.

Fruit Cans! Fruit Cans!

MORREY'S Patent self-sealing and self testing airtight Can. This can was extensively used last year, and I have made diligent inquiry as to its worth, and found it to be a favorite, because easily closed, perfectly airtight, and easily opened. Be sure you call at the sign the BIG COFFEE POT.

P. S. We made a great mistake last year, by altering old cans, because there were many air holes we could not discover, that when taken home they could not be closed, and therefore the cans condemned.
