and are yet all right on top!

Hoping that the unknown writer will never do anything which will cause him less shame and regret than our innocent parade on the night in question did or will the "Lincum Rangers," I remain, as ever, perfectly willing to hear from him again on some pleasing theme. "Lincum" theme.

Secession.

The public mind is now considerably agitated about the result of the Presidential election, and as to the probabilities of a dissolution of the Union. The disruption of our confederacy would be destruction of the last hope of successfully establishing a republi can form of government.

By a solemn compact the several States of the Union are bound together; and by mutual agreement of the thirteen original States, the act of secession and taking up arms and levying war against the United States was considered treason. The penalty of treason is death by hanging, and it is the highest civil crime of which a citizen or State can be guilty. The constitution of the United States expressly declares that "no State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederationkeep troops, or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State," yet we find that secessionists at the South have violated the Constitution, in meh a manner as to commit treason, and therefore deserve the fullest penalty of the law they have violated, because they have penly placed themselves in opposition to the Constitution, in such a manner as to subvert the government.

By the South, and by southern sympathizers at the North, it is considered unjust to say or do anything contrary to their suppo sed rights on the question of slavery, but if the people of the south choose to do anything ey please, even to the overthrow of our govnent, it is all right and we must submit. If an insane man commits an overt act, like the one at Harper's Ferry, then the whole South is in arms against the whole North. If Carolina arms her troops, takes charge of the U.S. arsenal-goes into confederation with a sister State—then it is all right in the ight of northern and southern nullifiers. If e is a man at the North who takes sides with any southern State in the present crisis, is a tory to the country that protects him, should be hung on the nearest tree, with who dare overthrow the glory and pride the world-the American Republic. State has a right to secede. There is no provision in the Constitution that permits a State Once in the Union, always in the Union. The Union was comented by the me who would utter a word or commit an act

A Supply of Cotton .- Sume of our large manufactories, says the Boston Transcript, have been recently taking an account of tock, and find that they have cotton on hand sufficient to last through the winter. The Naumkeak Mills, of Salem, have enough of this staple for use until the first of next Oc

A few days ago Governor Packer received a letter from the Boston abolitionists, inviting him to participate in the proposed meeting in that city on the anniversary of the execution of John Brown. The Governor returned a brief and pointed reply, declining the invitation, and advising those who sent it to "attend to their own business." He says that " John Brewn was rightfully hanged, and his fate should be a warning to others having similar proclivities."

The Shirleysburg Herald contains some extracts of a letter from a certain Rev. S. C. Alexander, formerly of that place, who now resides in South Carolina, which make good the old adage that, "a renegade is worse than ten Turks." It is a pity that this fellow, as well as some others we know of, cannot be enslaved for a year or two with some brutal northerner or drunken southerner as overseeret. In such cases we would say slavery is not only right but merited; for while we can accord sincerity to southern men for advocating it in bombastic strains, we are apt to think the northern men who do so are Executed in the best style known in the art, both fools and knaves.

His business magits the patronage of every lover of his species. Private families who wish pure Wines and Liquese for medicatuse should send their orders direct to Mr. Wolfe, until every Apothecary in the land make up their minds to descurd the poisonant stuff from their shelves, and replace it with Wolfe's pure Wine and Liquors.

We understand Mr. Wolfe, for the accommodation of small dealers in the country, puts up assorted cases of wines and liquors. Such a man, and sach a merchant, should be sustanted against his tens of thousands of opponents in the United States, who sell nothing but imitations, ruimous alike to human health and happiness.
