Proceedings of Congress.

In the United States Senate on Wednesday, Mr. Crittenden's resolutions were taken up after the morning hour. Senator Powell's amendment, to the first proposed amendment to the Constitution, so as to make it read, "in all the Territ ries now held or hereafter acquired south of said line of latitude slavery of the African race is hereby recognized as existing," &c., was adopted, yeas 29, nays 24, all the Republicans voting in the negative. The Compromise having been burthened with this unwise and needless amendment was abandoned, and after some debate Senator Clark's resolutions were adopted as a substitute by a vote of yeas 25, nays 23 .-This substitute declares that the provisions of the present Constitution are ample, that it needs to be obeyed rather than amended, that all attempts to dissolve the Union with an idea to its reconstruction are illusory and destructive, and that therefore the energies of the Government and the efforts of good citizens should be directed to the preservation of the existing Union and Constitution. Mr. Cameron then moved a ion. reconsideration of the vote.

In the Senate on Thursday Mr. Cameron's motion for the reconsideration of the vote by which the resolutions of Mr. Clark were substituted for the Crittenden Compromise was taken up. The motion to reconsider prevailed-ayes 27, nays 25. On the call of the roll Messrs. Cameron and Dixon, Republicans, voted for the reconsideration, but afterwards changed their votes. Mr. Wigfall, of Texas, proved of his colleague's speech? voted with the Republicans against the recon sideration. Mr. Crittenden's resolutions were then postponed until Monday next. The bill for the admission of Kansas was next taken up. Mr. Green proposed an amendment, which would have sent the bill back to the House, but the Senate rejected it-ayes 23, nays 31. The bill will probably pass by about the same vote. After an executive ses sion, lasting three hours, the Senate adjourned, having confirmed the nomination of Mr. Holt as Secretary of War.

The debate on Federal affairs was continu ed in the House. The important feature of the debate was a speech from Mr. Sherman, the Republican leader of the House. He expressed a willingness to settle the Territorial Certainly, it is the last remedy to which I question by the admission of New Mexico as a Slave State, but could not consent to the to be protected in all territory hereafter ac quired south of 36° 30°. He was willing to vote for an amendment of the Constitution prohibiting interference with slavery in the States where it exists, and also for Mr. Seward's proposition to guard against the invasion of States. The Army bill was amended so as to increase the appropriation for Gov ernment armories from $260,000 to $400,000. and passed.

The Senate remained in session until a late hour on Saturday afternoon, discussing the House bill, admitting Kansas into the family of States. All the amendments were rejected, and it was not doubted that on Monday we should have a new sister at the fireside of our Confederacy. Strangey enough, the very men who are complaining that the Northern States refused to make any concessions, and who affect to deplore the excited feeling now pervading and controlling the people of the South, are most active in resisting the admission of Kansas, when they know that she is not igations of sovereignty-but that the people of the free States have been wrought up to great exasperation by the persistent Constitution is against coercion—humanity refusal to allow her to enter the Union .- and the civilized world is against it. But have these considerations operated at thrown in support of every amendment offered for the purpose of embarrassing the question. Among those most prominent in this business, we notice Senators like Bright and Fitch, of Indiana, Bayard and the Senator from Pennsylvania. Saulsbury, of Delaware, Green and Polk, of Missouri, Powell of Kentucky, Kennady and Pearce, of Maryland, Nicholson of Tennessee, and Gwin of California. All these men have prated about the refusal of the Republicans to offer or accept terms of compromise, and yet, on a vital question like the admission of Kansas-a question which has aroused more bad feeling in the country than any that has divided parties for the last thirty years-a question in which the whole argument is with the friends of Kansas-a question which disposed of would go far to reconcile differences and to calm the public mind-we find these very men contending as bitterly against Kansas as they did when she came before Congress during the celebrated Lecompton struggle and under the English bill. And how, in Heaven's name, is peace | dress it. to be restored between the sections when irritation is continued and injustice maintained by those who put themselves forward as the conservators of the public interests, and as the truest friends of the Union?

Alabama, read a communication announcing the withdrawal of the Senators from his State, in consequence of the secession ordinance having been passed by the Convention. Mr. Yulee, of Florida, said that in consequence of information authentically communicated, his colleague and himself deemed proper to announce to the Senate that their connection with that body had come to an end. The State of Florida, in convention duly assembled, had seen fit to recall the powers delegated to the Union and assume the responsibilities of a separate government. He was sure that the people of Florida would never be insensible to the blessings and advantages of the Union when directed to the purposes of establishing justice and domestic tranquility and safety. He would also hold in grateful memory the earlier history of the Union, but she had decided that her civil and social safety were jeoparded by a long-er continuance in the Union. As no power was ever delegated to Florida-having been purchased like "a nigger"—the peo ple can judge of the effrontery of such traitors as this Yulee is and has been.

The Crittenden resolutions being before the Senate, Governor Bigler made an earnest appeal in favor of submitting amendments to the Constitution to the people; at the conclusion of which, General Cameron arose in his place, and said he would not make a speech, for though his colleague had eloquently represented the sentiments of his great State and offered the olivebranch, yet the Senators on the other side had not listened nor responded; but the people of that great State would do anything to save the Union. He was inclined to vote for the proposition of his colleague, and would do all he could to save the Un-

Mr. Iverson asked if he approved of the sentiments of his colleague against coercion. That is the point.

Mr. Mason said he was unconscious of having said anything to arouse the Senator from Pennsylvania. He did not want an excuse for leaving the Union. If he wanted any excuse it was to know how to remain in the Union. He had seen to day, six Senators take formal leave, and he knew the Union was disonly entitled to it by population-by the solved-absolutely dissolved. Mr. Cameron said he had not heard of any threats of war from his State; but, if it must come, Pennsylvania will be ready to meet it.
