

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

Hon. David Wilnot was on Thursday elected United States Senator, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Hon. Simon Cameron. His term will expire on the 4th of March, 1863. The public career of Mr. Wilnot is so well known to our readers that it is not necessary to recapitulate it here. His ability and integrity are unquestionable, and the chief objection which was urged against him in the recent canvass was his radical Republicanism. It is but just to state, however, that his action as a member of the Peace Conference which was recently in session at Washington, was of much more conservative and conciliatory character than those who had been accustomed to regard him as a representative of extreme Free Soil views anticipated; and his friends confidently predict that he will not only prove an able Senator but a faithful exponent of the prevailing sentiments of our State. We trust such will be the case.

Shayplaster Movement.—The Bank Committee recommend that institutions chartered under the general law, be allowed to issue 15 per cent. of their circulation in notes of the denomination of $1, $2, and $3. They also advise the repeal of the clause requiring the notes of the different banks to be uniformly printed, and allow the issue to be fully equal to the appraised value of securities deposited with the Auditor General, instead of being 5 per cent. less, as under the existing law. The sections requiring a certain amount of specie to be kept in the vaults, it is proposed to repeal entirely. The movement to introduce small notes into circulation is a step backwards, and we hope will not be adopted. The Senate amendments to House bill No. 238, entitled an Act authorizing the Auditor General and State Treasurer to settle the accounts for taxes with the Lewistown Water Company and Tuscarora Bridge Company and strike the balance due the Commonwealth, was read and concurred in on Thursday.

In the United States Supreme Court at Washington on Thursday, Justice Wayne delivered the decision of the Court in the long litigated and earnestly fought case of Mrs. Gaines vs. the Legitimate Child of Daniel Clark, and entitled to his estate, with the accrued rents, &c. The value of the property is stated at two millions of dollars. The case is of interest from the value of the stake and the perseverance with which Mrs. Gaines has contended for her rights, year after year, against all the baffling obstacles that have been cast in her way, and also from the fact that the most, if not all of the property which the Court has now decided to be her right, is located in the city of New Orleans, within the limits of the seceded State of Louisiana. It is stated, however, that the decisions of the Supreme Court, in cases pending, will be recognized by the authorities of that State.

Chief Justice Taney also, on the same day, delivered the decision of the Court in the case of the Commonwealth of Kentucky against the Governor of Ohio, in which a mandamus was sought to compel Governor Dennison to deliver a fugitive from justice. The Court decides that the act of the Governor in the premises is merely ministerial, like that of a Sheriff, and that he has no right to enter upon the question whether the crime of which the fugitive is charged by Kentucky is criminal in Ohio or not. The act is, however, one of comity and good faith, which there is no power to enforce upon a State of fier, and the mandamus is therefore refused. The fugitive in this case, if we remember right, was charged with aiding and abetting slaves to escape from Kentucky, and Governor Dennison refused to deliver him up on the ground that he had committed no crime known to the laws of Ohio.
