Elder Bushes vs. Curculio.

A few weeks since I visited a garden in heavily laden with fruit. I was requested to examine and see if I could discover any traces or marks of the curculio. I did so upon fruit on trees and ripe fruit that had fallen off and lay upon the ground. I could discover no marks and no larvæ in the fruit I gathered up fruit from the LINCOLN, WOOD & NICHOLS, ground and carried it home; it was all perfect. I thought there must have been great pains taken to kill the insects; but there had been none at all. Having raised plums more or less for twenty years in Michigan, but never without the effects of MILLINERY GOODS, the curculio more or less, and sometimes to the entire destruction of the crop, you may judge of my surprise when informed that all that had been done was to procure common elder bushes and tie them to the branches of the trees. This man has lived upon the place five years. The trees were GLEN-ECHO MILLS, upon the place-bearing trees-when he took possession ; the first two years he tried to save his fruit by shaking the trees and gathering up the curculios upon cloths spread under them. He had very poor success; the fruit was nearly all stung, and dropped off prematurely. He was in despair the second year, when he was told by (as he said) 'an old Frenchman' that if he would put elder bushes into the trees he would raise fruit. He has tried it three years with the same success-a full crop of perfect fruit .-- Cor. of Michigan Farmer.

Road Making.

It is interesting to observe the amount of combined stupidity brought to bear in making our common roads. I have often had to drive up and down hills fifty or a hundred feet high, when a road could have been made as short on a level by varying the route thirty rods. Yet twenty-five or fifty teams daily had to ascend the hill year in and year out, as the price of ignorance. I have known a road made long and crooked that it might not cut a certain man's field into two parts-sacrificing the interests of a thousand to the convenience of one. And so far as repairing roads is concerned, nothing is more common than to find a road very bad, simply because it has been 'mended.
